Jim Coleman Killed.

Another chapter was added in the old Colorado county feud when Jim Coleman was shot to death in the Iron Front Saloon in San Antonio last Friday night about 10:30 o'clock.

Marion Hope surrendered to to the offices after the shooting. Later developments showed that Coleman had been shot six times with bullets from both 38 and 45 caliber pistols, and Geo. Shoaf and Frank Maibaum, both of whom were present at the time of the shooting, were arrested on warrants sworn out by District Attorney Baker, charging them with being implicated in the murder.

The San Antonio Light of Thursday afternoon which reached our office yesterday morning, stated that the inquest proceedings were still going on, and that the verdict of Judge Umschied, before whom the testimony is being taken, would probably render his verdict Friday (yesterday) when all the testimony will have been taken.

The Light further says: Two more arrests will be made when Judge Umscheid renders his verdict on the inquest of the body of James Coleman, in the opinion of those who have been in constant attendance at the inquest for the past two days. Hope is now under arrest, Shoaf and Maibaum are out on $3000 bond each, and should the prediction prove true, five men will have been formerly charged with complicity in the tragedy of last Friday night.

The remains of James Coleman were interred at Rosenberg.

Carlos Bee and M. H. Townsend of San Antonio and J. B. Brockman of Houston have been secured as counsel for the defense.

Owing to the fact that the killing is the outcome of an old feud in this county, and as all parties connected with same are well known here, the daily papers, especially the San Antonio papers, are being watched with a great deal of interest by the people here.

Friend Simpson was down on the Simpson-Rogers ranch last week returning home Friday, and he reports the corn doing well and the cotton fairly well. Mr. Simpson is a close observer of crop conditions, and he says that the best cotton and corn in Lavaca county is on Ferd Hillje's farm seven miles below the city. This is where oil operations were conducted and is notoriously the poorest piece of land in the county. Mr. Hillje fertilized for this season, putting 300 pounds of cotton seed meal to the acre, and all who doubt the efficacy of fertilizing are invited to visit and inspect both the cotton and corn crops. If this land, regarded as so poor that a blackbird could not scratch a living out of it, makes a good yield this season through fertilizing, then all farmers living on poor land should take the hint, investigate and do likewise.—Halletsville Herald.

The discussion now on as to Bailey addressing Hood's Brigade at Navasota brings upone thought in which Bailey and anti-Bailey veterans might agree, and that is this: At their reunions why not have their speakers from those who were in the war, and know whereof they speak. They are more entitled to be heard than the young men that have grown up since the war, and they are more reasonable and temperate in what they say. The men who fought the war are the ones to discuss it at these meeting.—Ellis County Mirror.

A man of any refinement would not accept an invitation to address veterans if there should be one dissenting voice. There have been published a number of protests against Bailey being the orator, signed by the old soldiers.

We are requested to announce that the Missionary Tea which was to be given several weeks ago but was postponed on account of the inclement weather, will take place at the residence of Mrs. Paul Gordon next Tuesday night. Several communications and considerable local copy is unadvoidably crowded out owing to ad changes reaching us so late in the week. We must in future have copy for changes in the office not later than Wednesday morning. Otherwise the advt. can not be changed until the following week.

The newspaper man can write in the language of the most gifted poet, the most enthusiastic eulogist, and frame his words in the rythmic rhymes of the lyrist and the fervid eloquence of the orator to let the world know how good and smart people are and not one in ten will ever stop to thank him; but say anything bad about a man and he will fall over himself and somebody else to get to the office to stop his paper and abuse the editor.—Moore Model.

And then borrow his neighbor's paper to see what the editor had to say about him. Conceited cass, he lives in the sweet delusion that the world would cease to revolve if he should happen to die.—Exchange.

$60 Per Acre on Corn.

Diversification has had a good illustration in the experience of Titus Boern, who by planting five acres of corn January 15th before some other farmers had broken their land, cleans up $300 by selling thg crop for table use in the local market. He was the first on the market with his corn on May 6th and has contracted the entire crop at such prices per dozen ears that he makes his land yield him $300 within one hundred and twenty days and enables him to cut from it a couple of tons of buffalo grass to the acre as the season advances. Mr. Boern planted northern corn, purchased in one of the local feed stores, which in a measure accounts for the rapid growth of his crop. As stated, it is a good demonstration of diversification. Of course if every other farmer had early birded on the corn item as did Mr. Boern the market would have been glutted and roasting ears gone begging, but he had the foresight to take advantage of the opportunity for early planting afforded by the mild winter, had his land in good fix and has the market all to himself. In other words he raised corn and said nothing and is $300 to the good for his enterprise and his silence.—Beeville Bee.

Legislatures may legislate till dooms day against pistol "toting" unless they make it a felony with about a five year's penalty attached and have officers who will impartially enforce the law. Good men as a rule do not carry hip-pocket artillery—consequently the man who does carry one is ever ready to get in his work on the unarmed, defenseless citizen. The self-defense and crazy dodge has been worked to a finish. The monotony should be varied. A few necktie parties would materially assist to break up this pernicious habit. Florence Herald.
