The matter of bringing in more cows has been under discussion of the league for some time past, the members believing if the farmer will take more to cows and the creamery business that better times will be felt here in a very short time. If the experiment with this one car of cows proves satisfactory, Mr. Boothe will bring in more cows, in fact he is looking out in all directions for cows and if the demand is here he will bring in cows and keep bringing in cows until the demand is supplied.

A Good Deed Every Day.

The motto of the Boy Scouts, "A good deed every day," tersely expresses a most commendable sentiment. Subjected to a careful analysis, it not only suggests and enjoins that which is wise as a matter of policy, but which is obligatory, as far as it is practicable, as a Christian duty.

The greatest evangel of the new faith said of the Master, "He went about doing good," and the man or woman who goes about doing a kindly act here, and speaking a kindly word there extending, when the need presents itself or the opportunity offers, a helping hand, comes very near living up to the divine standard of social obligation and duty.

The Boy Scout movement means much to the boys of America. His wisely conceived [illegible] and the principles enjoined, and the precepts illustrated, can not fail to be most helpful to the boys in the plastic and formative stage of their lives.

The boys of America are exposed to greater temptations today than ever before, and the intense commercialism and the social craze of the present age are calculated to cause fathers and mothers to unconsciously lose sight of the greater necessity for more careful watching and training.

The Boy Scout movement is calculated to appeal very strongly to every normal boy. The plan is not to preach to and lecture him, but to impress upon him by other methods the advantage and the pleasure he will derive from cleanliness and clean thinking and clean living.

The opportunity to do a good deed every day is presented to every man and boy, every woman and girl. In the rush and hurry and haste of social and commercial life we unconsciously and in large measure unintentionally overlook many such opportunities. The shut-in invalid, the begger by the wayside, the neglected child, the woman toiling for a meager wage, the victim of accident and misfortune are always about us, and a message, or a flower, or a kind word, or a penny, may mean much to one of them, and it may mean more to us in the day of final reckoning when the inquiry is made of us: "How have ye dealth with 'one even the least of these my brethren?'"

Only a small minority of boys are inherently bad. Much of the evil they do is the fruit of unfortunate heredity or unwholesome environment, and there are but few boys who do not quickly and permanently respond to appeals to their better nature. When they are encouraged to do, and instructed how to do, useful, manly, helpful and thoughtful deeds, they are receiving lessons which can not fail to helpfully aid in shaping and molding their characters and training them for good citizens.

It is as true in the realm of the mental as of the physical that two things can not occupy the same space at the same time, and when the mind of a boy is filled and stirred by wholesome and high thoughts which prompt him to do the right and manly thing, evil thoughts are, for the time being at least, banished, and he will soon learn to choose the better thing.

The boy who does a good deed every day will grow into a man who will not forget the things learned in his youth.—Houston Chronicle.

SEE and TRY a DE LAVAL

We do not believe that a farmer who knows anything about farm machinery could be induced to buy any separator other than a De Laval after he had seen the latest improved De Laval machine and had given it a trial.

It is a fact that 99% of all separator buyers who do SEE and TRY a DE LAVAL machine before buying, purchase the De Laval and will have no other. The 1% who do not buy the De Laval are those who allow themselves to be influenced by some other consideration besides real genuine separator merit.

If you are thinking about buying a cream separator we will consider it a favor if you will permit us to set up a De Laval for you on your own place and have you give it a fair trial.

You will be under no obligation to buy the machine if it does not make good all our claims, and should you decide to keep it and cannot conveniently pay cash, you may do so on such easy terms that it will actually save its cost while you are paying for it.
