In the Kindergarten.

It was the first day of kindergarten and the row of new pupils stood waiting to give their names. They were like Mistress Mary's flower garden, for they were eight little maidens all in a row.

There were Rose and Margaret, and so on down to 3-year old Jane, who was so shy and sweet thatt all eyes were upon her.

"Your name is Jane, dear?" asked the teacher as she wrote it down.

"No, ma'am, not Jane, Dear, just Jane," lisped the baby.

"Well, what is your other name little one?" asked the teacher.

"Oh, my ozzer name is muzzer's pet latm, but we don't tell it to strangers."

For the time being she was recorded as just "Jane." It was too sweet to spoil.

So the teach wrote it down as Jane, and bided her time to find out "muzzer's pet lamb's" surname.—Washington Star.

A man who has the reputation of being a chronic grumbler, recently ordered honey and buckwheat cakes in a local restaurant. Discovering a hair in the honey he asked the waiter to explain how it came there.

"Oh, that came from the comb, of course," replied the resourceful waiter.

A Square Deal

Is what you get when you buy Dr. Pierce's family medicines—for all the ingredients entering into them are printed on the bottle-wrappers and their formulas are attested under oath as being complete and correct. You know just what you are paying for and that the ingredients are gathered from Nature's laboratory, being selected from the most valuable native medicinal roots found growing in our American forests and while potent to cure are perfectly harmless even to the most delicate constitution. Not a drop of alcohol enters into their composition. A much better article is used held for extracting and preserving the medicinal principles used in them, viz.—pure chemical glycerine. This agent possesses the medicinal properties of its own, being a most valuable antiseptic and antiferment, nutritive and soothing demulcent.

Glycerine plays an important part in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia and weak stomach, attended by sour risings, heart-burn, foul breath, coated tongue, poor appetite, gnawing feeling in stomach, biliousness and kindred derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels.

Besides curing all the above distressing ailments, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a specific for all diseases of the mucous membranes, as catarrh, whether of the nasal passages or of the stomach, bowels or pelvic organs. Even in its ulcerative stages it will yield to this sovereign remedy if its use be persevered in. In Chronic Catarrh of the Nasal passages, it is well, while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" for the necessary constitutional treatment, to cleanse the passages freely two or three times a day with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. This thorough course of treatment generally cures the worst cases.

In coughs and hoarseness caused by bronchial, throat and lung affections, even consumption in its advanced stages, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most efficient remedy, especially in those obstinate, hang-on coughs caused by irritation and congestion of the bronchial mucous membranes. The "Discovery" is not so good for acute coughs arising from sudden colds, nor must it be expected to cure consumption in its advanced stages—no medicine will do that—but for all the obstinate, chronic affections, which if neglected, or badly treated, lead up to consumption, it is the best medicine that can be taken.

Yes, verily, girls are of few days and full of mischief, and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise. When the fair one chews the bear gum with much haste and stampeth her foot, then beware. She cometh forth in the evening with low neck and short sleeves, but in the morning she lieth in bed while her mother hustleth. She eateth all winter the young man's oysters and partaketh with glee of his sleigh rides and when gentle spring cometh she winketh her eye and goeth with a new beau.—Exchange

The Secret of Long Life

A French scientist has discovered one secret of long life. His method deals with the blood. But long ago millions of Americans had proved Electric Bitters prolongs life and makes it worth living. It purifies, enriches and vitalizes the blood, rebuilds wasted nerve cells, imparts life and tone to the entire system. Its a godsend to weak, sick and debilitated people. "Kidney trouble had blighted my life for months," writes W M Sherman, of Cushing, Me., "but Electric Bitters cured me entirely." Only 50c at Mont G Calvert's.

It was the last day of school in a certain country district, and their mother decided to take the twins to the entertainment that night at the school house. John and Will were six years old, but had never gone to school, and their spirits ran high when they heard the news. In the course of the entertainment there a play was given entitled "A Modern King." In one scene the king was sitting on his throne with one of the common people kneeling at his feet. While pouring forth his praises to the ruler, the grateful man said: "Good, oh, mighty king, what hast thou done?" And the reply was: "I have made a republic out of a monarchy."

The boys were so well pleased that they attempted to reproduce the play at home the next day. John dressed in bright colors to impersonate the king, and Will assumed the role of the subject. The play proceeded well enough until the kneeling part was reached. Then the subject exclaimed:

"God, O mighty king! What hast thou done?"

And the kingly answer came: "I have made a republican out of a monkey."—Holland's Magazine.

Painting the Town.

Dante is held responsible for the expression "painting the town red." In his "Divine Comedy," Dante, led by Virgil, comes to the cavernous depths of the place swept by a mighty wind where those are confined who have been the prey of their passions. Two faces arise from the mist—the faces of Francesca and Paolo. "Who are ye?" cries Dante in alarm; and Francesca replied sadly "We are those who painted the world red with our sins."

If a man is successful and everything goes on smoothly, this is a fine old world; if a man has ill luck and some worry, this is a hard old world; and yet it is the same old world, whether one is successful or not.—Nacogdoches Sentinel.

SAVE MONEY BY BUYING CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY.

You will pay just as much for a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough remedy as for any of the other cough medicines, but you save money in buying it. The saving is in what you get, not what you pay. The sure-to-cure-you quality is in every bottle of this remedy, and you get good results when you take it. Neglected colds often develop serious conditions, and when you buy a cough medicine you want to be sure you are getting one that will cure your cold. Chamberlain's Cough remedy always cures. Price 25 and 50 cents a bottle. For sale by all druggists.

If advetising does not pay, as stated by some business men of the mossback type, it is passing strange that thirteen department stores of New York city would spend $348,452.80 for same during one month, but this is exactly what was done during the month of October by these thirteen stores. The Siegel-Cooper Co. and John Wanamaker headed the list with expenditure of $32,000 and $30,000 respectively for this one month. As these stores have made millions through advertising, they ought to be pretty good judges as to whether or not it pays.—Weimar Mercury.

Revolts At Cold Steel.

"Your only hope," said three doctors to Mrs. M. E. Fisher, Detroit, Mich. suffering from severe rectal trouble, lies in an operation," "then I used Dr. Kings New Life Pills," she writes, "till wholly cured. They prevent Appendicitis, cure Constipation, Headache. 25c at Mont G. Calvert's.

Much of the so-called friendship of the day is but pretense. It exists only in name and as soon as it ceases to be advantageous it is dropped. The friendship that continues the same in prosperity and adversity is to be prized, but all other kinds are worthless. It matters not how hard a man may struggle to do right and make a success of life there is always some loathsome reptile, some worthless wretch who is ready to drag him down, to blight hopes and blast his fondest ambition. The loss of money and property is not the greatest loss a man can sustain in the business world; far better to lose your money than to lose hope and ambition.—Pflugerville Press.

Soldier Balks Death Plot.

It seemed to J A Stone, a civil war veteran, of Kemp, Texas, that a plot existed between a desperate lung trouble and the grave to cause his death. "I contracted a stubborn cold," he writes, "that developed a cough that stuck to me in spite of all remedies, for years. My weight ran down to 130 pounds. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery, which restored my health completely. I now weigh 178 pounds." For severe colds, obstinate coughs, hemorrhages, asthma, and to prevent pneumonia it's unrivaled. 50c and $1. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Mont G Calvert.

Master Absent; Dog Suicides.

The most striking case of affection of a dog for its master which ever came under local observation, was that of a French poodle dog belonging to M. Greenspun, capitalist, promoter and investor of this city a few weeks ago, when the dog deliberately committed suicide on account of the absence of Mr. Greenspun from the city. This dog had been the constant companion of Mr. Greenspun, for several years. It had followed him everywhere he went, both day and night, had been petted and fed and fondled by him constantly, and was the last to bid him good night when he retired after each busy day, and the first to greet him every morning when he arose. A few weegs ago Mr. Greenspun left to go on a tour of Western Texas and explore the resources of that broad region west of Abelene, and through the Panhandle, to hunt for investment for some of his surplus money. When he went away he left the dog with his sister-in-law, Mrs. Max Greenspun, in the northern part of the city and charged her carefully to see that it had best of care and was properly entertained and fed during his absence. When he started out of the gate for the train, the dog followed, but was driven back, and immediately began to pine for its absent master. It refused to eat, and to play with the children, and lay around in a most distracted manner for two or three days, longing and waiting and watching for its master's return. On the third day, the dog, which was a small, white shaggy animal, with almost human intelligence, went out into the road, and deliberately lay down under the wheel of a passing wagon and had its life crushed out to end its misery. Those who watched its movements on that day, its actions for the two days prior to that time, and knew of its affection for its owner have no doubt but what its death was caused by a desire for self destruction. It is probably the only case of the kind on record.—Mt. Pleasant Times-Review.

Many Sleepless Nights, Owing to a Persistent Cough. Relief Found at Last.

"For several winters past my wife has been troubled with a most persistent and disagreeable cough, which invariably extended over a period of several weeks and caused her many sleepless nights," writes Will J Hayner, editor of the Burley, Colorado, Bulletin. "Various remedies were tried each year, with no beneficial results. In November last the cough again put in an appearance, and my wife, acting on the suggestion of a friend, purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The result was, indeed, marvelous. After three doses the cough entirely disappeared and has not manifested itself since." This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

He Knew It.

An elderly philanthropic lady living in the suburbs had occasion, the other day, to send a small street boy on an errand. She had never seen the urchan before, but her need was urgent and she was glad to get hold of any sort of messenger.

"Now, my boy" she said, "I want a nice honest little boy to take this note to Mrs. Blank. Do you know where Mrs. Blank lives? At the other end of the town, by the——"

"I know it," piped up the urchin; "I goes there reg-lar in the summer to steal her grapes."

A Bible Quotation.

A Sunday School teacher recently told her class about the cruelty involved in docking horses. "Can any little girl tell me," she said, "of any appropriate verse of scripture referring to such treatment?" There was a pause, and then a small girl arose and said solemnly, "What God has joined together, let no man put asunder."

Bad Attack of A's.

A number of years ago, when the present secretary of state, Alvey A. Adee, was third assistant, an employe of the State department was called to the 'phone.

"Will you kindly give me the name of the third assistant secretary of state?" asked the voice at the other end of the wire.

"Adee."

"A. D. what?"

"A. A. Adee."

"Spell it, please."

"A."

"Yes."

"A."

"Yes."

"A——"

"You go to h——!" and the receiver was indignantly hung up.

"Yes, sir. I have a wife and six children in New York—and I never saw one of them," said a New York man to his inquisitive companion.

The couple sat a few minutes in silence. The interrogator again commenced:

"No, sir."

Another lapse. "Did I understand you to say, sir, that you had a wife and six children living in New York and had never seen one of them?"

"Yes, sir. I so stated it."

Another and longer pause, then the interrogator again inquired:

"How can it be, sir, that you never saw one of them?"

"Why," was the respone, "one of them was born after I left."

A vessel in which two gamblers were crossing the ocean was wrecked. When it began to look as through the vessel must go down, the gamblers' thoughts turned to prayer, and one said to the other: "Bill, I'll bet you five you can't say the Lord's prayer." "Done," said Bill. And after much thought, he began: "Now I lay me down to sleep—"

"You win," said the other. "I didn't think you knew it."

Provocation

"This way to the monkey house!" shouted the menagerie attendant. "You look here, young man!" thundered Farmer Wiggins, angrily, "I may look queer since I got my whiskers shaved off this mornin,' but I'll have you understand that I've knocked men flat for less'n that!"

Recently Fred Stone, the singing comedian of the "Red Mill," and Eugene Wood, whose stories and essays are well known to all magazine readers, met on Broadway. They stopped for a moment to exchange a few cheerful views, when a woman in a particularly noticeable sheath gown passed. Simultaneously Wood turned to Stone, Stone turned to Wood, then both turned to rubber.
