Citizen—I hear there's a movement on foot to weed out the unscrupulous lawyers in this town.

Lawyer—An investigation has already been made and it was found that there are no unscrupulous lawyers belonging to the bar here.

Citizen—Who did the investigating?

Lawyer—We lawyers.

An aged Negro saw an extraordinary looking instrument in an optician's shop. He gazed in open-mouthed wonder, and turning to the optician inquired.

"What is it, boss?"

"That," replied the optician, "is an ophthalmometer."

"Sho'," muttered the other, his eyes still fastened on the curious-looking thing as he backed out. "Dat's what I feared it was!"

Lawyer: "Now, sir, did you, or did you not, on the date in question, or at any other time, previously or subsequently, say or even intimate to the defendant or any one else, whether friend or mere acquaintance, or, in fact, a stranger, that the statement imputed to you, whether just or unjust, and denied by the plaintiff was a matter of no moment or otherwise? Answer me, yes or No."

Witness: "Yes or no what?"

Willie was doing penance in the corner. Presently he thought aloud penitently.

"I can't help it if I'm not perfect," he sighed, "I never heard of but one perfect boy, anyway."

"Who was that?" asked his mother, thinking to point a moral.

"Papa, came the silencing reply, "when he was little."

An old colored preacher over in Virginia was noted for his use of six-cylinder words; many of which he did not always understand himself. He startled his congregation one morning with this announcement:

"Brethern an' sistern, pay me strick mind, foh I'm erbout to nounce. Nex' Sunday—dat is one week from dis day—dar will be a mos' importunate celebration in dis congregation. An' I wants all ob yo to be on han' to witness de holy deed, foh I's gwine ter baptize nine adults and sixteen adultresses."

A veteran East Texas representative was reading the mimeographed summary of new bills introduced at his desk in the house.

He came upon a bill proposing a tax upon certain luxury items, including perfume, cigars, and snuff.

He hastily consulted the sheet and learned the snuff tax bill was signed by another East Texas legislator.

"Can you imagine a guy with no better political sense than that?" he asked. "Living in East Texas and offering a bill to tax snuff. He ought to include black bass, and fox hounds and Model T Fords, too, if he wants to be sure and retire next election."

A man and his little boy were riding on a railroad train. The lad, in spite of warnings from the father, persisted in poking his head out of the window. The father decided to teach him a lesson and when his head was out of the window snatched off the boy's cap and hid it.

"There!" he said. "The wind has blown away your cap."

This frightened the lad, and he commenced to cry.

"Don't cry, sais the father. I'll whistle and bring it back to you." He whistled, and at the same time restored the cap to the boy's head. "There you are," he said; "now, don't put your head out of the window again."

For a short time the boy sat quiet. Then he took his cap off his head and threw it out of the window.

"Whistle, again, papa," he said.

Servant—"The doctor's here sir."

Absent-minded Professor—"I can't see him. Tell him I'm ill."

Hooey—Did the candidate electrify his audience?

Fuey—No, he only gassed it.

Women's Silk Dresses Regulir $16.00 Values for $19.75.—Ad. in the Santa Rosa (Calif.) Press-Herald.

Our idea of a real dame is a girl who has nerve to play strip poker with only a bathing suit on.

Co-ed: What is your name, Honey?

Student: My name is Cliff. Drop over and see me some time.

Employer—"Do you believe in love at first sight, Miss Vamper."

Stenographer—"Well I think it saves a lot of time."

"I hear you and your husband had some words."

"He still has. I didn't give him a chance to use them."

Newsboy: Sir, my beautiful sister is dying of starvation. Will you buy the rest of my papers?"

Gent: "No, but I'll take your sister out to dinner."

"There, now!" exclaimed the little girl, while rummaging a drawer of the bureau, "grandpa has gone to heaven without his spectacles."

Moe—I hear you and the boys struck for shorter hours. Did you get them?

Less—Sure. We ain't workin' at all now.

"You look like somebody I know," said the slick stranger, meeting Pat.

"And, faith, retorted Pat, "you look exactly like somebody Oi don't know."

"And," said the parachute instructor to the class as he finished his lecture, "if the 'chute doesn't open—well, that's what is known as jumping to a conclusion."

"I suppose your baby sister cries some?" asked one of the neighbors.

"Cries!" said Mary, "why she just seems to look on the dark side of things all the time.

Do you suppose your son will soon forget all he learned at college?"

"I hope so! He can't make a living necking."

Professor, to freshman entering class late)—When were you born?

Freshman—On April 2nd.

Professor—Being a little late must be a habit with you.

"Teacher, may I leave the room?"

"No, Rastus, you stay here like a good boy, and fill up the ink wells."

Bill noticed you were wearing Jack's engagement ring?

Linda: "I told him I loved Jack from the bottom of my heart but there was always room at the top."

Wife: "Why don't you put the cat out as I told you?"

Absent-minded Professor: "I put something out. Ye gods! It must have been the baby!"

School Teacher—"Why was Solomon the wisest man in the world?"

Sarkii—"Because he had so many wives to advise him."

"Any kidnappers in Crimson Gulch?" asked the traveling salesman.

"Two," answered Cactus Joe.

"Where are they?"

"That's a secret. We're holding 'em for a ransom".

Eddie—He may preach against card playing but I have nothing but praise for our new minister.

Freddie—Yeah, I noticed that when the collection plate was passed around.

Caller—So you have a little baby brother, have you, Joie Lou? Did you want it to be a boy?

Joie Lou—No, I wanted it to be a girl but it came while I was at school.

Here lie the bones of Wilbur Wump
Who drove too fast and hit a bump,
Wrapping his car around a stump.
Remains are at the city dump.
That is, the car—not Mr. Wump.

Boy—Say, will you change this quarter for me?

Grocer—Sure! What do you want it changed for?

Boy—Cause mother thinks it's a bad one.

Jill—"Much depends on the formation of early habits."

Jack—"I know it; when I was a baby my mother hired a woman to wheel me about and I have been pushed for money ever since."

Fortune Teller—I see great trouble ahead for you. For 15 years you will suffer—and then—

Victim—And then?

Fortune Teller—And then you'll be so used to it that you won't notice it.

Professor—What would happen if an irresistible force should meet an immovable body?

Modern Student—Nothing need happen. I contend that everything could be adjusted by peaceable arbitration.

Farmer: "Is this the Woman's Exchange?"

Clerk: "Yes."

Farmer: "Are you the woman?"

Clerk: "Yes."

Farmer: "Well, I think I'll keep Maggie."

Lawyer: "The old friend is telling you of claims he is a relative of yours and can prove it.

Bilgewater—The man's a fool.

Sourbrash—That doesn't prove anything. It may be just a coincidence.

Willie—Ma, can I have Tommy Skidmore come over to our house to play Saturday?

Ma—No; you make altogether too much noise and you tear the whole house to pieces. You'd better go over to his house to play.

Horace Greeley, who always insisted that the word "news" was plural, once wired to a reporter: "Are there any news?"

The reply came back by wire: "Not a new."

A citizen came puffing up. "Why didn't you stop that man when I yelled 'stop thief,'" he demanded.

The other citizen yawned and replied: "I never interfere in a political quarrel."

Minister—I wish to announce that on Wednesday evening the Ladies' Aid will have a rummage sale. This is a chance for all the ladies of the congregation to get rid of anything that is not worth keeping, but is too good to be thrown away. Don't forget to bring your husbands."

Some very amusing reports are sent to Washington by the owners of the little "Class 2" railroads. One question that has to be answered each month is this: "Have you had any collisions?"

One magnate gave the answer: "How the devil can we have collisions when we have only one train?"

The small lad of the family had acted so badly that punishment of "Jimmy," commanded his mother, "find a switch and bring it to me."

"I can't find a switch, ma," he reported, "but here's a big rock you can throw at me."

THOUSANDS OF WILD DUCKS GROWING TAME AS THEY FEED AT BAYSHORE HOME

Thousands of wild pintail ducks flock daily to a feeding ground John Wright, sportsman and wealthy land owner, has established in front of his home on Galveston Bay.

Mr. Wright's home is at the entrance of Cedar Bayou into Galveston Bay. He strews three bucketsful of corn along the bank of the bayou and bay each day to attract the ducks.

"I love the wild fowl, and I want to help take care of them," Mr. Wright said.

"I've seen thousands of ducks on this bay, and geese, too, in the old days, but never in my life have I found so many willing to present me to come right near them.

"I can walk within five feet of the place where these ducks feed. After they get used to me I believe I can almost pet them."

Mr. Wright said he began feeding the ducks when the freeze hit this section two weeks ago. About 15 ducks were feeding there at first, but the number has grown rapidly in the past few days. Hundreds of persons have driven to the Wright home to watch the ducks.

"The sky almost gets black when two or three thousand of these ducks start taking off from the water," Mr. Wright said. "They make a lot of noise when they light, splashing the water about.

"They roost along the shore at night, and feed a little early in the morning. But they go out in the bay and sand up before the morning is very far along.

"Sanding up means they go out in the bay to the sandbars and eat a lot of sand to help them grind their food. It's the same thing the chickens eat gravel for. These ducks eat a lot of sand every day.

"Then about 9 a. m. I feed up to 1 a. m. each day they sit on the water around the feeding grounds and eat all the corn they can find. In the afternoons they feed along the bayshore, and come back to rest at night.

Mr. Wright is the son of Mrs. Affia Allen Wright, wealthy Goose Creek oil field land owner, who was the foster daughter of Ashbel Smith, pioneer Texas statesman and educator.

"I can remember times along this bayshore for the last 50 years," Mr. Wright said, "and I can't remember any time when I saw so many pintail ducks so tame as these."

CAN YOU TAKE IT?

By Congressman Wesley E. Disney
"The Chaser.)"

"He that endureth to the end, shall be saved." Matt. 10:22

"Slanguage often carries an ideas more vivdly and forcefully than correct speech. The prize ring gave us "taking it on the chin," which has been reduced to "taking it," when one is enduring the harder and more painful blows of life successfully. Terrific jolts come to all of us now and then. Fate is impartial in distributing her blows.

We may be whistling along our way thinkng we are secure, when "biff" and we find ourselves rolling in the dust from one of life's trickiest short arm jabs.

No use to lie there and cry! People will only laugh. Of course our chin is sore, and our head dizzy, but if we stay down something worse will hit us.

Every one of us must learn to "take it," get up and go on. Don't expect sympathy. Others have trouble also. Don't pity yourself, as that paralyzes you and you become unable to help yourself. Just grit your teeth, take a long breath, look up and get up. There is no other way to win in this battle of life. Do you think your lot is hard and your path rough? Perhaps it is, but look around you. Do you see anyone with whom you would exchange places and swap burdens?

Many are crushed to the ground, and all are staggering today under the loads placed on their shoulders by adverse conditions.

They are having to "take it," also, and you and I are not exceptions. So come on, friend, give your hand; and help each other all we can. Perhaps the road is smoother down yonder, and we may find a place to rest. Let us never say of you or me, "He couldn't take it."

Geometry and Life

Life isn't exactly one problem after another; it is a row of interlocking problems—behind, in the open, and ahead of us as far as we can see. Algebra and geometry are just beside the puzzles that present themselves for our solution every day. Someone has already thought up the answers to them. Our own problems are few for there are no two situations alike.

In our math courses we are definitely assigned a certain number of problems a day. They are stated clearly. There may be unknown factors but there are also formulas for finding them, answers in the back of the book, and teachers to help. The real life situations for which we must find the best solutions are more sporting, difficult, and interesting propositions.

In the first place we stumble over problems fifty times a day and never even see them. Education helps us to recognize them. Then it helps us to consider intelligently which ones to take first and how to arrange the others in the order of their importance. Some are more score. The facts, attitudes, and methods of thinking learned solving problems in books, that we acquire in school all help us to eliminate unknown factors and to figure out the best answers; and the better our answers the happier we are.

Personals

Misses Kerr, Hughes, and Phillips were in Wharton Saturday.

Gerturde Otto spent the week-end at Rosenberg.

Elsie Kallina, Charlene Frnka, and Dorothy Cornelius were in Eagle Lake Saturday night.

Elsie Kallina, Linnie Etta Faktor, Deane Miller, Vivian Williams, J. Ola Braden, Bill Abell, Ross Phillips, Freddie Kallina, William Foster, and Everett Harry were the members of a theatre party at the Normana Theatre in El Campo Friday night.

Dorothy Whiteside of El Campo spent Saturday and Sunday with Charlene Frnka.

Volley Ball

The volley ball girls were invited to an invitation tournament at El Campo Saturday. Because of the rain, only the Wharton, El Campo, and Garwood teams were present. In the morning the Garwood girls were defeated by the Wharton girls, and in the afternoon they defeated El Campo. Although the weather was bad, everyone had a good time.

Believe It or Not

Everett had a good time Friday night.

The volley ball girls won a game Saturday.

J. Ola can't understand Linnie Etta's actions.

Vivian can't tell whether the moon is coming up or going down.

Sylvia's cousin can keep her from having a good time.

Frank's alligator can go through a keyhole.

Jack's dimples increase in direct ratio to his brain.

Frost sticks were used as refreshments Friday night.

Rain water and Coca Cola mix well.

Dorothy was seen riding around in the rain with an El Campo boy Friday night.

Gossip

Riding habits were seen everywhere one looked Monday. The weather had something to do with that.

I wonder what Linnie Etta thought she was doing when she slid under her desk Monday; and I wonder how she felt when she couldn't get up.

And can you feature Cotton's going to sleep at 5:30 Saturday afternoon, and sleeping all night. Just think! She stayed at home for once.

Freddie, how do you like the little blonde you were with Friday night? All the other boys will soon be jealous of you.

Ask Bill how he likes to ride around in the rain with a junior girl.

Whose absence Monday made Skeeter glad he wasn't at school either. This is getting bad folks.

Alice gets a laughing fit when anyone says, "Ain't it so?" That's very mysterious.

Wonder why Charlene was so doesnhearted Monday.

Everyone is looking forward to Earlyne's party. Sad to relate, the Garwood girls can't take the credit for their anticipation.

Vivian seems to be having a hard time reforming her old boy friend. What can it all mean?

What does Everett mean by looking daggers at Linnie Etta. Really it wasn't her fault, Everett.

Elsie, what is going to happen? You have broken that standing date twice in succession.

Charlene isn't wearing that ring because of the way it fits. It doesn't.

Dotty Dimple lost her shoe. Sounds like the beginning of a nursery rhyme, doesn't it?

Let's ask Linnie Etta, Dorothy, and Alice about charging admission and giving us a chance to see what we listen to as they change each other to study geometry.

Jokes

Bill: Did you get home before the storm last night?

Ross: Sure. There never is any storm at my house until I get home.

Father: William, did you forget what Mother told you about turning the other cheek when someone hits you in a fight?

William: Well, he hit me on the nose, and I've got only one nose.

MISS VIRGINIA NORTHINGTON AND AL MORTENSEN MARRIED

Of prominent interest on the social calendar of the month was the marriage of Miss Jessie Virginia Northington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Northington, Jr., of Egypt, and Alfred Mortensen, son of Mr and Mrs. J. M. Mortensen of Alvin, which was solemnized at the First Methodist church of Houston at 10:00 o'clock Thursday morning. The impressive nuptial service was read by Bishop A. Frank Smith in the presence of immediate members of the two families and a small group of close friends.

Unusual interest was centered on the date of the ceremony, February 7th, which marked the 60th wedding anniversary of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Northington, Sr., who make their home at Egypt.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a youthful model in brown and white contrast, her accessories and the lines of her frock featuring a note of smart simplicity. She wore an old-fashioned brooch of dull gold more than 100 years old which was worn by her great grandmother as a girl. Her corsage was of white orchids and lilies of the valley.

Exquisite arrangements of snowy chrysanthemums marked the altar space and tall ivory tapers burning in the intricately wrought altar standards, lighted the scene. During the ceremony the strains of "Traumerei" by Schumann were softly played by Mrs. Steve P. Barclay of Wharton, an intimate friend of the family. The traditional Lohengrin and Mendelssohn wedding marches were also rendered by Mrs. Barclay; and Cadman's "At Dawning" was sung by Mr. Barclay.

Mrs. Mortensen, who is a member of a prominent South Texas family, graduated from the Wharton school and later attended Kidd-Key College. The groom has made his home in Houston for the past several years where he is associated with the Southwestern Theatre Equipment and Supply Company.

The bride and groom left immediately after the ceremony for a wedding trip to West Texas, and upon their return will make their home at 3518 Mosley Drive, in Houston.

FORMER WHARTON BOY IS MARRIED AT MT. PLEASANT

(From Wharton Spectator)

The Mount Pleasant Times says: "Distinctive simplicity marked the wedding of Miss Eppie Murphree, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Murphree of this city, and Mr. Raymond Wright Davidson of Houston, son of Dr. and Mrs. G. L. Davidson of Wharton, which took place at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Eppie Hutchins, at 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning before members of the family and a few close friends.

"The bride, who entered on the arm of her father, wore a brown tailored ensemble with brown accessories and a corsage of sweetheart roses. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Jesse Roberson before an arch of evergreen, banked with fern and baskets of varicolored gladioli. The traditional Lohengrin wedding march was played by Mrs. Dan Witt, who also rendered Schubert's Serenade softly throughout the ceremony. Mrs. Witt wore a tailored green frock with a corsage of sweet peas.

"The bride is a graduate of C. I. A., Denton, and has been engaged in the public schools of Wharton for the past four and one-half years. Mr. Davidson graduated from A. & M. College and is associated with the Mosher Structural Steel Company of Houston in the capacity of architect.

"After a short wedding trip the couple will be at home in Houston."

Mr. Charlie Elliott, well known citizen of Glen Flora, was a business visitor in the city Monday.

Gardener Duncan is spending the week in Burnet.
