ADVERTISING FIRM HEAD SAYS NEWSPAPERS MEDIUM

H. T. Ewald, president of the Campbell-Ewald Company, one of the largest advertising companies of the nation, which company places all of the Chevrolet Motor Company advertising, writes the Headlight as follows:

"Campbell-Ewald Company celebrated its twenty-fifth birthday on Saturday, February 1, and I want to take this opportunity personally to express my appreciation of the fine spirit of cooperation that always has marked our relations with your paper, and that has helped to no small degree in the successful development of our business.

"We are, as you well know, firm believers in newspaper advertising. Other media are important, but the newspaper is the final vital link between the producer and the consumer that must be, in the very nature of things, an essential part of any well balanced advertising program.

"It has been a great source of gratification to me all through my business experience to note the friendliness and courtesy that we have received invariably from publishers in the newspaper field, and it is because of this that I am impelled to write to you this expression of appreciation now that we have been doing business together for a quarter of a century or so.

"You will be interested to know that our business last year was the best we have had since 1931, and that I have every confidence of still sounder and better conditions in the coming year."

GARWOOD PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH ANNOUNCEMENTS

(H. C. Travis, Pastor)

Program for Sunday, March 1.

Sunday School at 10 a. m. Morning worship at 11 a. m. Sermon title, "Peter's Great Confession." Text, Matthew 16:18.

Christian Endeavor at 7 p. m.

Evening Worship at 8:30. Sermon title, "The Parables Concerning the Tares and the Net of Fishes." Scripture, Matthew, chapter 13 verses 24-30, 36-43, 47-50.

Many of you are ill this week, but if it is God's will may all of you be well and go again next week. The church people of Garwood are praying for you and may all of you find the peace that Christ gives to all who will look to Him for help.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Willson of Marlin spent the week-end here at the Bruce McCarty home. They were accompanied on their return Monday by his mother, Mrs. P. O. Willson, who is visiting in Temple and Marlin.

Supt. W. C. Reed left Saturday for St. Louis, where he is in attendance at the National Educational Association and convention of school superintendents.

J. M. Chumney was a visitor to Houston Monday, where he met Mrs. Chumney on her return from a visit to her former home at Lovelady.

Talent

It has been said that we all have a talent, that each of us has been fitted for some certain niche in life. The question is, are you going to fill that niche? Are we going to lag along and wait for something to find us, or are we going to hunt and find that something? We all have a place in this world, whether our traits tend toward art, literature and the other fine arts or some profession such as medicine or law. Here arises another question. Have you found out what you can do well? There are many ways in which these things can be found out. This is an age of specialization. The person who succeeds is the one who finds out his talent and develops it.

To take athletics for an example, there are many boys in our school who, if they were asked to try out for basket ball or track would say, "Well, I never could do anything in that." Come out and try. You can never tell what you can do until you have tried. If, when you have come out and done your best, you fail, no one is going to laugh at you. People get more pleasure in seeing a beginner come out and do his best and fail, than in seeing a veteran, famous above his ability, exert energy and win. Remember there is always a place for the boy or girl who really makes an honest effort to succeed.

H. E. Girls to Serve Lunches

The home economics girls have finished the study of preparing lunches. They planned to make and serve several lunches, but their plans have been postponed because of the weather and illness.

Four new sewing machines have arrived and the students are planning to take up sewing until conditions permit them to take up their former plans.

From the Grades

The third grade pupils are learning all they can about large buildings. They are studying the Woolworth building now, in their geography. The fourth grade pupils are learning to select the best clothing for Health Crusaders in their study of health.

The fifth grade had a test Monday in history. It was not hard. The students that do not take art made some very attractive posters. Tuesday they will start making booklets.

Why Monday Was Blue

Adell had on a blue sweater.—Clayburn was quiet.—Cleo was called down. — Lucile didn't quarrel with anyone.—March winds howled and windows rattled. — Rosemary had so much work to do.—Vivian had to study.—Jim Ella didn't get a letter.—Basket ball boys were disappointed Saturday.—Freddie had a cold.—Frederick didn't giggle in history class.—Samuel kept quiet. — Literature quiz was given.—Two of our teachers were absent.—Gertrude looked sad.

Garwood High Rumors

Ask Charline, Lorraine, Evelyn, Boots or Teddy how it feels to stay in bed for a week or more.—Believe it or not, live people can ride quite a long way in a one seated car.—Charline's red Chevie was seen in town Saturday.—Vivian, Lucille and J. Ola like ham sandwiches and coca-colas. — Evelyn is well again. We knew she couldn't stay in bed very long.—Vivian, what do you mean by trying to pry a window open?—Freddie lost his mother in El Campo Saturday.—O. P. was disgusted Saturday. Charlie is very generous. He shares his troubles with others.—Ask Cleo for information on prairie fires.—Just forgive the first year Spanish class II they get a little Spanish mixed up with their English.—Boots does look rather pale.—Frederick's pink scarf is very becoming.—Gertrude's red and white checked dress attracted everyone's attention.—Freddie likes polo shirts.—Vivian has a new ring, and its plain gold too. Explanation, please! — Cleo put her farmer's daughter title into action Saturday by helping haul wood and put our prairie fires.—Edrie's hair has turned to sandals. Rosemary, your sister still seems to consider you too little to go with her.—Sylvia, you should be ashamed to hold your admiret in suspense what way. — Lorraine, you are tubbed, and especially by Cleo. She has to look up all her vocabularies now.—We are very sorry when Samuel learns a new saying. Who wouldn't be?—Gertrude, there is a report that you were trying to commit suicide Monday morning. For what reason please?—Spring clothes have put a new feeling into the school room.—Oh, how March winds can rattle that certain window. Oh well, we know it's not March but the wind has escaped its keeper.—Tut, tut, Rosemary, you are a greater hindrance than help.—J. Ola, how's that new romance?—Blotters were the go Monday.—Frank and Charles giggle more than Cleo.—Jack will some day be president of Samuel doesn't beat him.—Evelyn, is this a new romance?—Red finger nail polish is really very becoming to G. P.

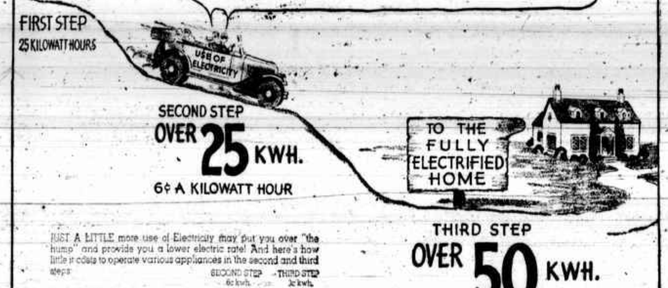
Texas Is Big Enough for Everybody

IT'S LOTS OF FUN TO EARN A LOWER ELECTRIC RATE AND IT'S SO EASY TO GET "OVER 25" AND "OVER 50"



JUST A LITTLE more use of Electricity may put you over "the hump" and provide you a lower electric rate! And here's how little it costs to operate various appliances in the second and third steps:

	SECOND STEP 6¢ kwh. over 25 kwh.	THIRD STEP 3¢ kwh. over 50 kwh.
Toast 10 slices bread	1¢	½¢
Bake 6 waffles	2¢	1¢
Make 6 cups coffee	½¢	¼¢
Wash clothes for 4	1½¢	¾¢
Iron 4 shirts, 10 towels, 2 wash dresses, 3 handkerchiefs, 6 underwear	3½¢	1¾¢
Mixer-cooker	1½¢	¾¢
Vacuum cleaner	2½¢	1¼¢
Roast 2 lbs. meat and 2 vegetables	3¢	1½¢
Use heating pad, hour	½¢	¼¢
Use Study Lamp, hour	9 10¢	9 20¢
Use 75-watt lamp, hour	½¢	¼¢

Electricity is certainly your cheapest servant. Use it more freely!

Looking Backward

Items of more or less interest from the Headlight file of Twenty-Four Years ago.

(FEBRUARY 24, 1912)

E. L. Mooney this week sold his business to Westmoreland Bros., and the new firm will be known as the Eagle Lake Mercantile Co.—Albert Varner, negro, was hanged at Seguin last Friday. He was convicted in that court on a charge of criminal assault. His victim, a white woman, was attacked at her home north of Eagle Lake October 27, 1911. He was arrested a few days later by City Marshal H. S. Vineyard and taken to Houston for safe keeping.—A deal was consummated Tuesday wherein the Eagle Lake State Bank purchased the assets and good will of the Farmers-Merchants State Bank. J. E. Roberts, cashier of the F. & M. Bank will be made cashier and M. E. Gumm, cashier of the Eagle Lake State Bank will be made acting vice president.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Layne, formerly the Ashley place, of Lissie was burned to the ground Wednesday night.—Supt. J. H. Morgan of the Eagle Lake schools left today for St. Louis to attend the National Teachers Association.—Little Billy Salladay of Chesterville was quite ill with grip last week.—Mrs. W. H. Griffin died at her home in this city yesterday, of bronchitis. She became ill Tuesday, but not until yesterday was her condition considered serious. She was one of the old residents of Eagle Lake and a gloom of sorrow was spread over the town today when the news of her sudden death became known. Besides her husband and daughter, Miss Kate Griffin, she leaves one brother, Dr. H. Fitzgerald.—Tuesday we saw Robert Pegram and David Gorman, the undisputed "Beau Brummels" of Eagle Lake, have been trying to corner the chewing gum market this week. Bob Robertson, salesman for the Schlumberger Company informed the "Spearmint Kids" that his firm does not sell wholesale prices to the retail trade.—John H. Dorman and Miss Jewel Vickers, a pretty and charming young lady of Glen Flora, came up in Mr. Dorman's car Thursday night to see the Chase-Lister show.—Mary Maud McCarty entertained Thursday afternoon with a patriotic social. The first prize in a game of advertisements, a box of candy, was won by Miss Mildred Davis, and the booby, a set of blocks, going to Miss Hilda Lee Fruit salad, cheese and peanut sandwiches, cake and cherry ice cream formed the menu. Those attending were Aileen Douglass, Annie Margaret Thatcher, Alta Cross, Eugene Welford, Marie Paul Barbe, Hilda Lee and Mildred Davis.—W. Y. Westmoreland, who has been in a Temple hospital for thirty days following two serious operations, returned home today. His friends will rejoice to learn that he is steadily regaining his strength.—W. W. Little, Sr., one of Eagle Lake's oldest and most honored citizens, is very low at his home in this city.—Dr. Bat Smith of Bay City, a citizen of Eagle Lake many years ago, has again located here for the practice of his profession.

"SHARP STOMACH PAINS UPSET MY WHOLE SYSTEM"

DID YOU EVER SEE—

A Pacific coast newspaper recently carried a large advertisement as follows:

Did you ever see a man carrying a billboard under his arm? No.

Did you ever see a handbill on a reading table? No.

Did you ever see a picture of the new hat you want come into the home via radio? No.

Did you ever see a live newspaper thrown into the waste basket without being read? No.

That's why advertising in the Headlight brings results.

MILLIONS TO VISIT TEXAS THIS YEAR!

Celebrations Will Bring Vast Crowds Into State!

If early indications are authentic, a goodly portion of the population of the United States will be trending toward Texas during 1936, Centennial Year. Since announcement of the big state celebration was made, more than 12,000 inquiries have poured into the Centennial headquarters from all parts of the United States.

Texas is on parade! Millions of citizens from other states have accepted our invitation to see and know Texas! They'll be traveling through every part of the state!

The impressions our guests take home with them will depend upon individual Texans! Clean premises! Growing lawns! Colorful flowers and landscaping! New paint! All these efforts by individual citizens will make the impressions favorable to your town and to Texas!

Join in this state-wide crusade for a cleaner, more beautiful Texas! Let's every one of us do our part!

THE JOKESMITH

Some few made, mostly stolen, some merely borrowed. If you run across a good one, mail it to us.

Dunn—Does your wife darn your socks?

Brown — Sometimes she uses stronger language than that about them.

Tessie: "If you were me, Marie, would you accept Jimmie?"

Marie: "If I were you, dearie, I'd accept any one."

Sweet Young Thing: "Are you in town now for good?"

Traveling Salesman: "Well, I hate to commit myself."

Q.: "How do you know Annabelle is a good girl?"

A.: "Because she always brings home a Gideon Bible."

Mabel—Do you think it is right to kiss a boy friend goodnight?

Marie—It is if there isn't any other way to get rid of him.

First Dumb Hunter: "How do you detect an elephant?"

Guide: "You smell a faint odor of peanuts on his breath."

Smith. "Don't you enjoy listening to the honk of the wild goose?"

Jones: "Not when he's driving an automobile."

Pete: "My wife doesn't understand me, does yours?"

John: "I don't know, I've never heard her mention your name."

"What is the difference between a bathroom and a cemetery?"

"There is no difference. When you gotta go—you gotta go."

Lizzie: "Yo oughta count yoked again, big boy; yo ain't so numerous."

Mose: "Stick a thermometer in yo' mouf, yo' ain't so hot."

Mechanics Prof: "Describe the mechanism of a steam shovel."

Frosh Engineer: "Don't kid me. You can't carry steam on a shovel."

We do not understand it, and being mere man probably never will—why do women pay two dollars for a pair of stockings that give the impression that they are not wearing any?

Customer: "I wish to buy an appropriate gift for a bride—something timely and striking."

Merchant: "How about a clock?"

The Eskimo sleeps in her white bear skin and sheeps very well I am told;
But last night I slept in my bare white skin and caught a helluva cold.

A naval officer fell overboard. He was rescued by a deck hand. The officer asked his preserver how he could reward him.

"The best way, sir," said Jack, "is to say nothing about it. If the other fellows knew I'd pulled you out, they'd chuck me in."

Doc: "When did you first suspect that your husband was not all right mentally?"

Mrs. Jones: "When he shook the hall tree and began feeling around on the floor for apples."

"Why did Noah take two of each kind of animal into the ark?"

"I guess he didn't believe the story about the stork."

Contractor: "Why did you leave your last place?"

Young Lady Applicant: "I was caught kissing my boss, sir."

Contractor: "Ur-ruin, you can start here in the morning."

Foreman (to workman): "Now then, Bill, what about carrying up some more bricks?"

Bill: "I ain't feelin' well, boss; I'm trembling all over."

Foreman: "Well, get busy with the sieve, then."

A colored man doing a hauling job was informed that he could not get his money until he submitted a statement. After much meditation, he evolved the following bill: "Three comes and three goes at four bits a week—$3."

"Oh, yes," said the pilot of the river steamboat, "I've been on this river so long I know where every stump is."

Just then the boat struck a stump, which shook it from stem to stern.

"There," he continued, "that's one of them now."

"You look all-in today what is the trouble?"

"Well I didn't get home until after day light, and I was just undressing when my wife woke up and said "Aren't you getting up pretty early, Jim?" In order to save an argument, I put on my clothes and came down to the office.

A man on trial for his life was being examined by a group of allenists. Suddenly one doctor jumped up and shouted at him:

"Quick, how many feet has a centipede?"

The man came back in a dry, dry voice: "Gall, is that all you have to worry about?"

French Maid (screaming in the night): "Help! Help! Madame! Help!"

Madame (awakening): "Be brave, Mimi. I'll call my husband and send him in there."

French Maid: "But, madame, there just it, he's in here now!"

Patricia: "Harry surprised me by telling me that we're going to take our honeymoon in France."

Nellie: "How nice! And how did he spring it on you?"

Patricia: "He said as soon as we were married, he would show me where he was wounded in the war."

"So your brother is a painter, eh?"

"Yep."

"Paints houses, I presume?"

"Nope, paints men and women."

"Oh, I see, he is an artist."

"Nope, just paints 'women' on one door and 'men' on the other."

At a fashionable dinner party in Chicago a young girl, noted for her cleverness in repartee, sat next to a bishop. The girl provoked much laughter from her venerable partner during the meal.

During the fish course the bishop spilled some salt. Gracefully he took a pinch of it and tossed it over his shoulder, with some joking remark. Unfortunately some of the salt slipped down the girl's back.

"Ah, Bishop," she smiled, "you can't catch me that way!"

"Mandy, how come youall's feet grow so big?" inquired Rastus the first evening he called on the village queen.

"Well, I used to live down South where the soil am rich, an' goin' barefooted so much jes' make 'em grow big."

"Suttahnly," remarked Rastus, with a broad grin.

"Look-a-here, Nigger, what youall laffin' bout?" asked Mandy.

"Jes' jes' thinkin' youall must a done a heap o' settin' down, too!"

An Englishman spending Christmas Day in China and knowing nothing of the language, went to a restaurant for his Christmas dinner. He selected his meal by pointing to the various items on the menu. One dish pleased him very much, and he took it to be some very tastefully prepared duck. When the waiter came to change his plate he pointed to it, elevated his eyebrows and said: "Quack, quack?"

"Not quack, quack," said the waiter in very good English, "just puss, puss."

"Do you have much variety at your boarding house?" "Well, we have three different names for the meals."

A man wandered into a tennis tournament, the other day and sat down on a bench.

"Whose game?" he asked.

A shy young thing sitting next to him looked up hopefully.

"I am," she replied.

A young man just out of college sought the advice of a hard-headed and successful business man.

"Tell me, please, how should I go about getting a start in the great game of mechanics?"

"Sell your wrist watch and buy an alarm clock," was the laconic reply.

Lena Svenstrum had worked for two years for a certain family of high social aspirations and had been kept quite busy. Finally it was decided that all members of the household must be vaccinated but the question came up, where to vaccinate Lena so it would not interfere with her work.

"How about an arm?" asked the doctor.

"I'm afraid she would not be able to do the milking and other housework," said the lady of the house.

"The leg should be the place then," suggested the doctor.

"That would interfere too," objected the lady, "because she has to get down on her knees every day to do the scrubbing."

"Well, exclaimed the M. D., scratching his head, "I don't know, I'm sure, just where to vaccinate her so it won't interfere with some of her work. Have you any suggestions, Lena?"

"Vell," replied Lena, pondering deeply, "Aye don't get mooch time to sit down."

BLUE BONNET BLUE, FASHION'S NEWEST COLOR, TEXAS HONOR

"Bluebonnet Blue" reflecting the clear violet tint of the State flower of Texas, has been created by Margaret Hayden Rorke, managing director of the Textile Color Card Association, in honor of the Texas Centennial Celebration.

The official bluebonnet color has been created by Mrs. Rorke at the invitation of the Texas Centennial commission of control, of which Lieut. Gov. Walter F. Woodul is chairman. It is described as a violet tinted pastel blue with depth and brightness. "Bluebonnet Blue" is slated to receive wide promotion in summer fashions, because it reflects one of the smartest trends in the important blue range and is as well a becoming tone, easy to wear. It is equally attractive for sports and evening clothes and also provides a flattering accent to navy or black town costumes in blouses, scarfs, gloves and other accessories.

The bluebonnet, a member of the lupine family, grows wild in Texas and in the Spring, the fields of the State are blanketed with these fragrant blue flowers. In some spots, these blooms share space with clusters of prickly pear cactus. It is related that, as the pioneer settlers in the Southwest reached the vast plains of Texas in their ox carts during the latter part of the 18th and the early 19th centuries, they saw in the Springtime acre upon acre of blue flowers whose petals were shaped like tiny bonnets. The flower was named the "bluebonnet," after the headgear of the intrepid pioneer women.

The bluebonnet is said to have been brought to Texas from its original home on the hills of Jerusalem by the brown-robed Spanish padres, who planted it in the mission gardens early in the 18th Century. From within the mission walls, the violet blue flower spread over the hillsides of Texas, where each year it turns the landscape into a brilliant blue carpet.

As is the case with other popular flowers, many legends have been woven around the origin of the bluebonnet. Several of these colorful stories are charmingly related in "The Legend of the Bluebonnet" by Joan Goodnight Joyce. Each of these legends embodies the spirit of sacrifice, due no doubt to the tiny crimson spot which appears within the splotch of white on the upper petal as the blossoms grow older.

The Aztec version of the legend tells of the maiden who, in order to appease the wrath of the gods, offered her sinless self as a living sacrifice upon a hillside altar. As she ascended the hill, her little blue bonnet dropped unnoticed from her tresses and on the morning after her death, the ground about that altar was covered with blossoms the identical shape and color of her headdress, each splashed with a minute drop of her blood.

The Texas Centennial committee will give the "Bluebonnet Blue" wide publicity throughout the country in the press and over the air and this animated flower tone will also be featured in fashion shows, store displays and at various social events.

SOUVENIR FROM THE STRATOSPHERE BALLOON

The Headlight has received a souvenir, a bookmark made from a piece of the fabric bag of Explorer II, the balloon of the National Geographic Society—U. S. Army Corps Stratosphere Expedition, which on Armistice Day, 1935, carried Captains Albert W. Stevens and Orvil A. Anderson to the highest altitude ever attained by man.

On the front of the book mark is printed a picture of the balloon ascending into the air, and a condensed account of the balloon and its ascent into the stratosphere is given on the back.

The continuous strains to which the balloon was subjected in two inflations and during long hours of successful flight at record altitude made it advisable to retire it honorably.

Taking off from the "Stratobowl" in the Black Hills, near Rapid City, South Dakota, at 7:01 a. m. (MST) Explorer II soared with its cargo of more than a ton of scientific instruments, and the two intrepid officers, to 72,395 feet above sea level. Eight hours and thirteen minutes later it landed near White Lake, South Dakota. To keep the huge bag from dragging the gondola and thus injuring its load of precious instruments, the officers pulled the rip-cord as the gondola touched the ground. Nearly the entire top of the bag opened and the helium gas, which was used to inflate the balloon, was lost in the atmosphere.

The fabric of the balloon was of high grade cotton cloth, rendered gas-tight by the application of pure rubber. Produced by the Goodyear Zeppelin Corporation of Akron, Ohio, especially for the National Geographic Society-Army Air Corps Stratosphere Expedition, the bag Explorer II was the largest ever constructed. It made into a tent, the cloth of the bag would have covered about two and two-thirds acres of ground. When fully inflated the bag was large enough to enclose an office building more than eleven stories high and of equal width and depth.

HENRY ARTHUR SHOOP BURIED AT ROCK ISLAND

Henry Arthur Shoop died at the home of his son, Rex, in Garwood on Thursday of last week. He was born in Pennsylvania March 18, 1856, having reached the age of 79 years, 11 months and 2 days.

He was married to Miss Raechel Bennett on February 4, 1880, in the state of Iowa. In 1913 they moved to Texas and settled in Rock Island. He engaged in farming until six years ago when he was disabled to do the work on the farm, and moved to Garwood. For the past several months, being severely ill, he lived with his son. Everything was done to make him well again, but in vain. Slowly, from day to day, he grew weaker, until the Lord called the weary pilgrim home. He united with the Methodist church when he was a young man.

Mr. Shoop is survived by his sorrowing wife and eight children, five sons and three daughters, two preceding him in death. The sons are, Robert of Corpus Christi, Governor of Alberta, Canada; R. A. Bud of Garwood, Max of Rock Springs, Wyoming and Roy of Garwood; the daughters are, Mrs. Lizzie Orr of Naper, Nebraska; Mrs. Addie Wilson of Buffalo Gap, South Dakota, and Mrs. Lerna Powell of Eldorado, Texas. He also leaves thirty-one grandchildren and six great grandchildren, and one sister, Mrs. Lettie Hammons of Chicago, and many other relatives and friends.

Funeral services were held at the Garwood Methodist Church, with Rev. H. C. Travis, Presbyterian minister, and Rev. A. P. Forster, Methodist pastor, officiating. Interment was made in the Rock Island cemetery.

FORMER PASTOR HERE TRAPS SMOOTH SWINDLER

(From San Antonio Express)

Dr. Albert Stuckey, a Pennsylvanian who was trapped here by the Rev. Neal Ellis, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, pleaded guilty in two complaints charging swindling Thursday before Judge Charles J. Matthews, County Court-at-Law No. 2.

Stuckey was given a fine of $3 and costs and five days in jail in each of the two cases.

According to one complaint, he cashed a customer's draft here on the Carlisle Trust Co., Carlisle, Pa., Jan. 17, for $10. The other complaint was in connection with a $145 draft on the Farmers Trust Company of that city.

Rev. Ellis was one of several churchmen approached by Stuckey, according to police. The Baptist pastor quoted him the Bible, while Stuckey unsuspectingly awaited the arrival of police.

Mrs. E. W. Jones and baby returned Monday from Dallas where they had been with Dr. Jones at the Baylor Hospital. Dr. Jones, who recently underwent an operation has been having a hard time of it but is showing improvement at this time.
