On an Old Plank Road in the Southwest Desert

An [illegible] the Yuma Road [illegible] section of the "Old Spanish Trail." Authentic as to shrubbery and construction, the Yuma Road is one of nine famous "Roads of the Southwest," which have been reproduced by the Ford Motor Company at its exhibit at the Texas Centennial Exposition in Dallas.

Citizens of Eagle Lake who are planning to visit the Texas Centennial in Dallas, were urged today by B. H. McElhinney, local Ford dealer, not to miss seeing and enjoying the mammoth air-cooled exposition in the Ford Motor Company building at the Centennial. He also recommended that visitors to the Centennial ride over the reproductions of nine famous trails and highways of the "Roads of the Southwest" which encircle the lagoon near the Ford building.

Yuma Road, the Colorado desert section of the "Old Spanish Trail" which is known in Texas as State Highway No. 3 is reproduced in part in the "Roads of the Southwest."

The original Yuma Road stretched across the sandy wastes of the desert between Yuma, Arizona and El Centro, California. It was first built as two parallel rows of planks and was probably one of the most interesting of all highways in the Southwest. Because of the shifting of the sands by the desert winds, early wagon tracks were obliterated almost as soon as made. After the construction of the plank road it was a constant fight between man and elements to keep the planks from being buried by the blowing sands.

The first road was made of four planks, two for each wheel track laid across girders in the manner of a primitive railroad track. At intervals turn outs were constructed in the same manner as the regular roadway. As two cars approached of the one nearest a turnout would wait for the other to pass.

About 1919 this roadway was much improved and became a state highway. At that time it was reconstructed. The plank parallel tracking being replaced by an eight-foot wide cross-way planking road with similar eight-foot turnouts holding two cars. These turnouts were built every four-tenths of a mile along the route.

Now the road is paved. As construction of the paved highway progressed across the desert it was necessary to obtain quantities of water. In a small open space near the center of the dune area a well was drilled and at a depth of 153 feet a flow of water at the rate of 500 gallons a minute was struck. This well is believed to be one of the largest ever struck in the middle of the desert. With this water supply the embankment was stretched to a depth of three feet to form a firm sub-grade for the pavement. The embankment was covered with oil to prevent erosion.

TORTURES OF RHEUMATISM OVERCOME

Natural Juices in Marvelous New Prescription Bring Relief Where Other Remedies Fail

MEDICAL science says that painful affections like Rheumatism, Arthritis, Gout, Lumbago, Sciatica, and Neuritis can often be traced to failure of the digestive apparatus to properly eliminate poisons which form in the system. One of the most common of these is uric acid. When, instead of being eliminated through the kidneys, uric acid remains in the system, sharp pointed crystals are formed which settle in the joints, causing pain and inflammation, and tissues become unbearable. If neglected, even the heart may be affected.

Tricaco Brings Good News To Sufferers!

You can easily see how rheumatism and similar torturing diseases occur because the bowels fail to properly throw off waste. Salves and liniments can give only temporary relief. Get at the root of the trouble with TRICACO, an amazing prescription made from rich juices of natural herbs, barks, leaves, and roots. TRICACO contains absolutely no alcohol or harmful habit-forming ingredients. TRICACO helps cleanse the liver, gall bladder, digestive organs, and kidneys of waste. It is highly effective in the elimination of uric acid which is responsible for rheumatic suffering. Thousands report wonderful benefits. So stop using salts, pills and ointments that can give only short-lived relief. No matter what you have tried in the past save time, money and suffering by getting a bottle of genuine TRICACO today. If it doesn't give you the benefits you want, return the empty bottle in ten days and get back every penny you paid. Be sure to get genuine TRICACO.

TREASURY TO MOVE SIX BILLIONS IN GOLD BULLION

Well informed sources say that fifty or more armored trains may be required to move the bulk of Uncle Sam's $16,600,000,000 (billions) gold hoard into the strong box now nearing completion at Ft. Knox, Ky.

Although the new depository will not be ready for use until after Sept. 15, plans for the huge shipment already are being drafted secretly at the Treasury.

Each of the armored trains mentioned as likely to haul the gold probably will include six coaches, three bullion cars, two Pullmans and a diner. They are expected to move on special schedules, slower than an ordinary passenger train. Each express coach would hold from $50,000,000 to $75,000,000 worth of gold bars about the size of ordinary building bricks.

Although the new depository will be guarded primarily by Treasury employees, it has been placed on a military reservation where 1,400 troops are stationed normally.

The treasure house itself combines the most modern construction with a few characteristics of the medieval castle. Its outer walls are granite, inside it is built of steel and concrete.

Two water-filled moats will circle the building. At the touch of a button their water can be released to flood underground vaults where the hoards will be hidden.

Every scientific device, from torch-proof steel to photo-electric rays detecting anyone who approaches, has been employed to make the structure impenetrable.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Shacklett and his mother, Mrs. U. S. Shacklett of Houston, spent the week-end here with her mother, Mrs. W. E. Davis, and sister, Mrs. A. P. Harbert. Mrs. Shacklett was formerly Miss Myra Weldon Davis of this city.

Mrs. M. E. Cooper and daughters, Mrs. R. F. McCord of Fort Worth, who is visiting the family here, and Miss Cora Cooper returned Monday from a visit to Mrs. J. O. Cooper in Beaumont.

Mrs. Nat Holman returned home Sunday evening from Austin where she has been spending six weeks attending summer school at the University of Texas.

Mrs. Leone Glueck, who is attending Draughon's Business College in Houston, spent the past week-end here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Glueck.

J. Y. Davidson, for some time at Caldwell as prescription druggist in that city, came in Sunday for a visit to the old home town.

18-YEAR-OLD BOY MEASURES OVER 8 FEET; WEIGHS 425

If the family yardstick is accurate, Robert Pershing Wadlow, Alton, Ill. youthful giant, today measures 8 feet 5 inches tall, which, if scientifically verified, would make him the tallest person in medical history.

Since his 18th birthday on February 22, when he stood 8 feet 3½ inches, the boy has also added 35 pounds to increase his weight to 425 pounds.

Robert's father, 150-pound Harold T. Wadlow, an engineer, measured and weighed his son. It has been 16 months since physicians last used scientific instruments to measure the boy's proportions. He then was 8 feet 1½ inches tall and weighed 375 pounds.

A height of 8 feet 5 inches would make Robert a fraction of an inch taller than the famed "Irish Giant," Charles Byrne (O'Brien), who some medical authorities agree was slightly more than 8 feet 4 inches tall when he died in 1783. Another authority reported the tallest authentic giant measured 8 feet 2.2 inches.

The Alton youth, a pre-legal student at Shurtleff college there, has been spending the summer resting and fishing.

However, Robert and his father will go to the Missouri state fair next month at Sedalia, where the boy will have the refreshment concession.

Robertson Grubaugh, in the service of the United States Army, was a guest of the family of his aunt, Mrs. H. W. Graves, this week. He left for a visit to his home at Rockdale, from where he will return to his duties in the Government service in the Hawaiian Islands.

Mrs. J. Anselin of Houston, a former citizen of Eagle Lake, is a guest of the family of her daughter, Mrs. S. O. Boothe. Mrs. Anselin's many friends here are delighted to see her.

Miss Wyatt Graves returned home Sunday evening by Southern Pacific from a visit to Mrs. O. F. Corley and family in Houston.

Mr. E. W. Smith, probably better known to his friends as "Dad," came up from Houston Friday afternoon and spent the week-end visiting friends here.

Mrs. L. W. Stues, who has been taking special work at the State Teachers' College at San Marcos, returned home during last week-end.

Scott Carney left last week for Buchanan Dam, where he has a position in the engineering department. Three Eagle Lake citizens are now on the work, Scott, Ben H. Faber and Sam Norris Davidson.

"HELLO, OSCAR" NEW GAME FOR TEXANS

"Hello, Oscar," the fascinating new game that originated in the minds of Texas Centennial Department of "Information heads," has spread over Texas like an epidemic almost over night.

The prime purpose of the new game is to make Texans conscious of the great number of out-of-state cars traveling over Texas during Centennial year. The novel pastime is similar to the game children play known as "stamping horses." The rules are not compulsory, but may be altered according to the wishes of the players.

"Hello, Oscar," is a derivative of "Hello, Out-State-Car." As many persons as care may play. The first to spy a car bearing an out-of-state license shouts "Hello, Oscar" and thereby gains one point. If the driver of the car answers his greeting he gains another point. Should a player see two out-of-state cars pass each other he is given five points. Of course, there is a penalty of one point when a player cries "Hello, Oscar" when there is no out-of-state car in sight.

Some opine "Hello, Oscar" is another step toward insanity, but everybody's playing it. It's surprising the number of out-of-state cars to be seen in Texas every day.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED

One of the significant angles of the late lamented Mary Astor custody litigation was the public's reaction to the popular screen actress' diary revelations.

Less than a generation ago another popular movie idol was dragged into highly unsavory legal difficulties. Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle, jovial of the films, made whoopee in a California hotel. One of the young women participants was fatally injured at the party, and her death led to disclosures which cost Arbuckle his public popularity, his job, his fortune and his career.

That happened back in the corn-jar days of early prohibition when gin and opium were listed in the same contraband category and drinking was regarded as a high crime.

Times have changed since the early twenties and so have public moral reactions. In these days of strip shows, nudie colonies, frank fiction, easy divorces and cork popping, the movie public at least, is not perturbed by implied philanderings of their idols. The demand for Mary Astor films is greater than ever. The custody hearing may have cost her sleepless nights and a lot of attorneys' fees, but no apparent box-office.—Dallas Times Herald.

DECEASED CANDIDATE

In Harris county a dead man received many thousand votes—almost enough to elect him over his successful opponent. The Texas primary is yearly becoming more and more a matter of voting against somebody, rather than of voting for anybody particularly. But it is hard to imagine a man's voting against a corpse; that carries political spite a bit too far. On the other hand what a politician thinks when a dead man can get 20,000 votes in a race against him, would be interesting to hear.—Dallas Journal.

Miss Marjorie Walker left Tuesday for Columbus to resume her position in Assessor-Collector Rabel's office. She has been connected with the office during the assessing and collecting seasons for the past two years.
