COTTON PICKER—SAINT OR DEVIL

Recently as I watched a cotton-chopping machine thin a stand of cotton at the rate of 10 to 12 acres a day, it occurred to me that as mechanical pickers and choppers draw closer to practicability the South may be approaching an agricultural revolution.

What would be the social and economic consequences to the South if mechanical choppers and pickers replaced the millions of workers who now wield the hoes and drag the pick sacks up and down the long rows? The Rust brothers have a cotton picker that many people believe will pick cotton successfully. And this Dixie chopper I speak of, while the quality of its work may not be equal to that of a good hoe hand, certainly offers great promise.

The average human cotton picker does not pick much more than 100 to 150 pounds seed cotton per day. Even steady pickers do not average much better than 1½ bales a month or three bales for the season. A vast army of 4,000,000 steady workers would be needed to harvest a 12,000,000-bale crop. As a matter of fact, probably as many as three pickers would be needed for the entire season.

But consider the Rust cotton picker. Under favorable conditions it can pick as much in an hour as the average picker harvests in a month. At the rate of only seven bales a day for 60 days, it would pick over 400 bales a season. If the South ever goes in for machine cotton pickers in a big way, 50,000 men operating picking machines will pick as much cotton as 3,000,000 field hands.—Progressive Farmer.

RULES FOR DOG DAYS

Some wise guy with a flare for statistics got himself quoted the other day to the effect that this extreme hot weather would probably result in the deadest records going to like themselves. That's easily explained. These are the dog days you have heard so much about all your life and yet can't tell why they are called "dog days." Everybody is hot and bothered, everybody angry and snappish. Temper to go with the temperature—and both seem to stem from high temper. There isn't but one way for you to get along—and that is to learn that you can't always have things your way. You must learn, as old Uncle Ephram used to say, to "take de bad wid de good." When you come home in the afternoon, dog-tired, all your business and your business cares at the store, office or shop, don't take them home with you. Don't be a single onery, sour face and relate the sweet things you ought to say to him when you get home—and if you get home and find her coming out of the kitchen a-sweating like a negro mulling tar for a street paving job, don't say—"Woman, what's the matter with you? Don't even think—"Why in the devil ain't you dressed up and a-looking like you cared something for me and the children?" Don't you think that—aiff don't say it, just chuckle her under the chin and tell her that you know she's having a hard time of it this hot weather, that some day you hope you can relieve her of all this work and worry—and then smack her in the mouth and tell her that you just know that any man having a jewel of a wife like she is ought to be the happiest and most thankful man upon top side o' earth.

Watch yourself in all these matters—don't go around all het up with your feelings sticking out like a sore thumb—and if you get to feeling that you are being "kicked around," just say "Oh, well, I may be a football, but no amount of kicking around can make a dent in me." If the poor Samarids could put just some that these be the dog days they could take the force-going rules and apply them in their political affairs and get along where, as it is, they are shouting and cutting throats. Shucks, Samarids, Republicans is like a magnificent temple, built by years of honest living. Yet it can be destroyed with a breath.

"I is a decidable trait of human nature, that most people would rather believe evil than good. Slander is born of envy and of hate that dares not stand up and fight in the open. In political campaigns we often find slander developed to a fine art. Many a shining reputation has been blasted by "whispering campaigns" when those who sought to destroy were incapable of defending issues.

Second Mrs. M. H. Wink of Gilden, were guests of the family of her brother, Mr. Carter Walker, here this week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Albrecht, little Miss Carmel Albright and Billy Gene Gordy spent Sunday visiting in Houston.

COUPLE OFFERED GOOD HOME FOR THE WINTER

Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Griggs of Sheridan are expecting to be absent from home for the winter, and are anxious to get a couple or small family to live in their home and take care of the place through the winter. Immediate possession can be had. Furnished home, forty-acre place, good location for chicken farm and within walking distance of school. Anyone interested should get in touch with Mrs. M. K. Griggs, Sheridan, Texas, promptly.

BRING ON YOUR HEAT STORIES

If any one starts a contest for the best heat story, The Press-News will nominate Jodie Wooten Falls woman who wrote a friend of the terrors of the heat wave in Northwest Texas. The lady modestly refused to allow her name to be used, but here are a few excerpts from the letter:

"We're now using the hot water tap for cold water and the cold water tap to scald dishes.

"I baked a cherry pie and placed it in the west window to cool. We had to put it back in the oven ten minutes before we could eat it. A coffee pot put a pot of beans on a simmer and the beans were done when later the beans were done.

"A Charlie farmer started home with 50 pounds of ice in a keg. Near Thornberry the steam presses blew the keg to pieces."—Record News.

Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Jones and little son, "Bob," returned late Tuesday from a week's visit to Mobile. Her mother, Mrs. R. L. McLellan, who had been spending two weeks with relatives in Mobile, returned home with them. Her friends are telling it that Mrs. McLellan brought home with her just a little bit of everything that is grown in Alabama.

"MEET THE MORES"

The following, very interesting story has been going the rounds of monthly publications. It has a "kick" to it.

Do you know the Mores? Meet the whole family. They are well worth knowing.

First there is Sleep More. He's double-faced in a way. Much better company at night than in the day time.

Here comes Learn More. He is always on the lookout for something to stow away in that attic brain of his. Something of a collector too. His motto is "Chisel and Chin," Chisel and Chin. He has that down though he doesn't strike gold in every one and everything. The exercise dies him good.

Then there is Do More. He's at it all the time. A little tiresome if you get too constantly. He is hard to know well, but after you are once used to him, he really is easy to get along with.

This quiet chap is Think More. If you shut yourself up with him for five minutes, or get him to walk with you to your car, he will cleverly show you how best to plan your day.

Pay More, the sister, is the most fun of them all. Only beware, she is a little woman and apt to lead you astray if you give her her own way. But keep her within boundary line and she will lead you along the road to health.

When you once know these four well, you will meet the flower of the family.

Her name is Earn More. She knows the hiding place of real contentment and will gladly show you the way.

SLANDER

Of mean, contemptible, cowardly sins on earth, slander is the basest and the most damnable. The thief of reputation, who strikes like a rattlesnake in the dark, is the arch robber of them all. Pollock, the slighter "the foulest whelp of sin," Tennyson referred to it as the "meanest spawn of hell," and also as "that fool-bird of rapine whose prey is mind, good name." Shakespeare—Slander is like a magnificent temple, built by years of honest living. Yet it can be destroyed with a breath.

"It is a deplorable trait of human nature, that most people would rather believe evil than good. Slander is born of envy and of hate that dares not stand up and fight in the open. MAGNET WILDCAT HAS OPENED NEW WHARTON COUNTY FIELD

Wharton county scores again this week in opening its sixth oil field, discovered by the Crusader-Cockburn wildcat in the Magnet area, six miles south of Wharton. Oil men familiar with the formations of the well say that the field will cover several thousand acres and that it is an extension of the Withers field, 10,000 feet to the Northwest, one of the three fields on the Pierce Estate.

The State of Texas will come in for a share in the new discovery, as the Colorado river practically divides the new extension from the Withers field.

Operators set casing at 5563, and on Tuesday perforated casing and made production test. The well at remotest flow-out, but improved machinery prevented.

The oil discovery in the Magnet area is expected to bring an active drilling program, and at this time several applications have already been filed with the State Railroad Commission for drilling permits. Several major companies and numerous independents hold leases in the disposed new field. An off-set tract to the new well containing thirty acres, unleased, brought $2,000 per acre when a core was brought out of the well this week. The deal was $1,000 cash per acre and $1,000 per acre in oil.

Indications are that Wharton county is due for further developments as the Spanish Camp area, regarded as a hot spot, is being drilled at this time by the Felmont Corporation, the drill being below 2,000 feet. The Humble and Shell companies plan drilling their blocks south of Wharton, in the belief that both blocks will produce.

HOSPITALIZATION INSURANCE

In the medical profession, the greater socialization of service has been a perennial subject for discussion. Something impressively indicative of successful development along related lines was made clear at a recent meeting of the Minneapolis Hospital Service Association. Hospitalization insurance, perhaps, a too restricted term to use for definition of what the association is doing.

Seventeen hospitals in the Twin Cities are now united in a plan, on a nonprofit basis, by which, upon nominal periodical payment, members may be assured of hospital care in time of need. There is already a membership of 24,000 including dependents of members, who number about 45,000, there are now some 75,000 persons in the Twin Cities who are directly or indirectly concerned with this fine community project.

It may surprise many to learn that 758 business or other organizations have developed the hospital service plan within their ranks, so that any person identified therewith is assured of immediate care. Nearly 2,000 Minneapolis school teachers have become members.—Minneapolis Journal.

AVALON OFFERS FINE PROGRAM NEXT WEEK.

A large crowd saw "San Francisco" at the Avalon last night. It is a wonderful picture, depicting the great earthquake in that city thirty years ago. Clark Gable and Jeanette MacDonald are featured in the picture. If you missed it last night, see it tonight.

"Sutters Gold," on Saturday night is another feature picture. Edward Arnold is starred in the role of General John A. Sutter, pioneer colonizer of the great west. Critics pronounce the picture the greatest success in which Arnold has yet taken part.

For the midnight show Saturday, the Avalon offers "Mad Love," with Peter Lorre, Frances Drake and Ted Healy.

Fanchot Tone, Cary Grant and Lynn Stone with Jean Harlow all star in the picture for Sunday and Monday, "Suzy." The story is about "Suzy," the show girl, who finds herself friendless in London in 1914. It is a thrilling picture, producing one sensation after another, and continuing to be one of the outstanding film productions of the year.

Tuesday and Wednesday, "The Case of the Velvet Claws," a great detective story comes to the Avalon with Warren William, Claire Dodd and Winifred Shaw. This is a picture that will thrill and entertain you from start to finish.

Next Thursday and Friday the Avalon will show what theatre critics over the land pronounce "Anatevka's best loved play," "Green Pastures" excepted, "Tevye" kicks off this picture. Twenty-five spirituals, two score than in the stage production, are sung in the film version by the Hall Johnson choir. The Avalon management urges that you do not miss this unusually fine program of pictures during next week.

COLUMBUS STREETS TO HAVE TRAFFIC LIGHTS

The Colorado County Citizen says that the Town Commission of Columbus is installing traffic lights at important streets in that city. The lights will be timed to give the greater portion to through traffic on Highway No. 2. Lights will govern Columbus traffic at all important streets entering the main highway.

PRAIRIE CHICKEN FACES EXTINCTION IN TEXAS, STATE BIOLOGIST ADVISES

One of the finest game birds in Texas, the prairie chicken, faces immediate extinction unless hunters spare it during the coming short season—September 1-4.

Dr. Walter P. Taylor, senior biologist in charge of the Texas wild life service survey, says:

"The prairie chicken which today can be found only in a few coastal counties of Texas and nowhere else, has been hit especially hard the last two seasons by heavy floods at an especially precarious time when the young were coming off the nest.

"If hunters fire on them this year, they are running the risk of exterminating them.

"In a conference over this serious matter, Valgean Lehmann, field biologist for the wild life service, and T. T. Waddell, game warden, with headquarters at Eagle Lake, gave reports on a 1000-mile search they made for prairie chickens.

"They traveled over 75 per cent of Colorado county and 25 per cent of Austin county, following bird dogs four days by means of horse and automobile.

"In this intensive search, they saw only 50 grown prairie chickens and 10 young ones, which gives you an idea of the scarcity of the birds. Only a few years back they extended from Southwestern Louisiana to West Texas. They were so thick that hunting contests often were held to find out who could kill the most birds.

"Now there are a few in Harris, Waller, Fort Bend, Colorado, Austin, Brazoria and Victoria counties, and perhaps some scattered elsewhere along the coast.

"When the species is gone, it is gone forever. Texas is the only state that has the prairie chicken and, therefore, it is her responsibility to protect it."

Doctor Taylor said incidentally that if the prairie chicken were protected and allowed to increase, it would make a far finer game bird than the pheasant, for it is essentially a southwestern bird and better for game.

NEWS FROM THE HOME DEMONSTRATION AGENT

(By Miss May McCrary)

Tuesday, September 8, at 2 p. m., a Woman's Home Demonstration Club will be organized in Weimar by Miss May McCrary, county home demonstration agent. All ladies interested are invited to attend this meeting.

"My pantry has kept the canned goods 15 to 20 degrees cooler during the hot month of August," Mrs. E. B. Obenchain, garden demonstrator of the Columbus Women's Home Demonstration Club, told the County Home Demonstration Agent.

Mrs. Obenchain built a ventilated pantry, 4½ by 4½ by 7. The pantry has five shelves and a space for shelf holes 240 number 2 or 3 cans. There is a square ventilator at the bottom, two ventilators at the top of the pantry and six holes were bored in each shelf and space was left at the back of the shelves that the air could circulate. The pantry is lined with beaver board which helps to regulate the temperature. During the cooler months the ventilators can be closed and the temperature raised in the pantry.

1280 feet of vegetables have been planted for a fall garden by Elva Radick, garden demonstrator of the Glidden Girls' 4-H Club. She also has a 60-foot shed of spinach, and has cabbage and cauliflower planted in a hot bed that will soon be ready to transplant.

Elva, with the help of her father, cleaned and fertilized the garden before planting. The garden is irrigated and already beans, beets, turnip greens, spinach and Swiss chard have come up. 200 feet of Irish potatoes for winter use have been planted and she expects to plant several more rows.

A little back porch used as a "catch-all" place has been made into a pantry by Mrs. H. O. Swearingen of the Ramsey WHD Club. Mrs. Swearingen made two windows for light and ventilation and shelves were placed around the sides of the pantry. Scrap lumber was used so that the pantry was built without cost.

For 25 cents Dorothy Hoelscher, clothing co-operator of the New Phelan Girls' 4-H Club has made a cup towel and slip. Dorothy made the cup towel out of a flour sack. By pulling threads to get a straight edge and using a ½-inch guage she was able to have a straight, even hem. In making the slip Dorothy learned to use French seams and to cut and use bias bindings.

Lady Took Cardui When Weak, Nervous

"I can't say enough for Cardui if I talked all day," enthusiastically writes Mrs. L. H. Caldwell, of Statesville, N. C. "I have used Cardui at intervals for twenty-five years," she adds. "My trouble in the beginning was weakness and nervousness. I read of Cardui in a newspaper and decided right then to try it. It seemed before I had taken half a bottle of Cardui I was stronger and was soon up and around."

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.
