'Fireflies' glow this summer

The sixty kindergarten and 1st grade Fireflies are having some exciting experiences to compliment their schoolwork. After reading the story, "The Enormous Watermelon", they ate watermelon brought by Mrs. Kucherka, kept their watermelon seeds and planted them. A field trip to Mr. William York's garden followed several stories about gardening. This gave many students their first experience in an actual garden.

The Fireflies visit the Wintermann Library every Monday. Several parents went also to fill out library cards for their children.

The parenting classes led by Mrs. Claudine Shorter were well attended during the second week of class. They will continue to meet until August 9 under the direction of Mrs. Claudia Mann.

The Firefly Summer School is designed to prepare kindergarten and first grade students for the regular school term.

Salinas donates $500 to scholarship fund

Ruben Salinas, a dispatcher with Natural Gas Liquids (NGL), an affiliate of Tenneco Gas, has presented a $500 check o the Villa Riders to fund a scholarship.

As a recipient of the Tenneco Gas 1991 Excellence in Community Service Award, Salinas selected the group he founded to receive the $500 Tenneco Gas donated in each winner's name.

Salinas, a 12-year NGL veteran, established the Villa Riders last year to provide college scholarships for La Porte High School Hispanic students. The group sponsors city-wide softball and basketball tournaments to raise scholarship funds.

"Villa Riders is my investment in the future of the community," Salinas says. "Each year we hope to increase the number of scholarships we provide and it's great to have help from Tenneco."

Tenneco Gas established the community service awards program this year to further its goals of good corporate citizenship. "Stating our commitment to community service didn't start volunteerism in this company," said Steve Chesebro', Tenneco Gas president, "but it has allowed us, as a corporation, to support employee efforts.

"It's volunteerism — our people out there in the community working hands-on with local groups to improve life for everyone — that makes Tenneco Gas a positive force in the communities where we operate," Chesebro' added.

NGL is a unit of Tenneco Gas, a division of Houston-based Tenneco Inc. (NYSE symbol: TGT). The diversified company has major business interests in natural gas pipelines, farm and construction equipment, shipbuilding, automotive parts, packaging, chemicals and minerals.

Higgins residence chosen as 'Yard of the Month'

A stunning display of white caladiums helped Frank and Anna Lee Higgins win the honor of Yard of the Month for August from the Civic Garden Club of Eagle Lake.

Four rows of greenery surround the front porch of the Higgins' colonial style home at 112 W. State. Lariope which currently is in bloom forms a border for the successive rows of white caladiums, dwarf hibiscus and clerea, an evergreen shrub, that lie behind it. Two large azalea bushes flank the front porch steps.

Pots of Mexican heather and Boston ferns scattered on the front porch add to the relaxed atmosphere created by the Higgins' home and yard.

But the focal point of the front has to be the huge magnolia tree planted by Anna Lee 28 years ago. Its presence dominates the left side of the yard and she states that the whole yard smells of magnolia blossoms when in bloom.

Anna Lee is especially proud of the honor because her grandson, Lee Higgins, who currently is visiting them during harvest, helped plant over 100 caladium bulbs that helped with the award.

Congratulations to the Higgins and to Lee!

Houston Astros/Busch Light Texas Tournament of Champions...

Softball teams battle for chance to play at Astrodome

On almost every summer evening, softball teams from throughout Texas battle for the right to call themselves the best in their local community.

Many of the players one day dreamed of playing in the big leagues. Their softball experiences are one way of living those dreams.

The Texas Amateur Athletic Federation, Busch Light and the Houston Astros are trying to make those dreams a reality. The inaugural Houston Astros/Busch Light Texas Tournament of Champions offers a chance to play at the Astrodome, on astroturf with elaborate electronic scoreboards and larger-than-life video screens.

Winners from eight regional qualifiers will advance to the championship to be held Saturday, Sept. 14, at the Astrodome in Houston. The tournament will involve male teams from the areas of San Antonio, Houston, Texas City, Bryan/College Station, Dallas, Ft. Worth, El Paso and Austin.

Each of the regional qualifiers are part of existing Texas Amateur Softball Association tournaments. In some cases, more than 30 teams have already signed up for regional events.

In addition to the tournament final, a Houston area celebrity softball game is planned for September 14th; proceeds to benefit the Texas Amateur Athletic Federation.

For more information, team captains should call Jack Aaron, Texas Amateur Softball Association, at 817-752-5981.

Ag. Commissioner Perry reports on Heritage Program, pesticides

Family Land Heritage deadline fast approaching

Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry recently issued a reminder that the deadline for participation in this year's Family Land Heritage Program is Friday, August 16, 1991.

"The Family Land Heritage Program honors those families who have actively maintained agricultural production on their land for 100 years or more," Perry said. "By participating in this program, Texas farmers and ranchers can preserve and record the rich agricultural heritage of their families."

Basic requirements for participation in the program include continuous agricultural production on the farm/ranch for 100 years or more, land ownership within the family, and complete operation or supervision of the land production by family members who are Texas residents. The farm property must also be at least 10 acres with a minimum of $50 income from agricultural products or if less than 10 acres, sales must total at least $250 a year. If all of the land was ever leased to someone outside the family it will not qualify.

"Since the program began in 1974, more than 2,500 properties throughout the state have qualified for this honor," Perry said. "This year's honorees will receive certificates of recognition in October at the annual Family Land Heritage ceremony in Austin."

Texas residents who own agricultural property that think might qualify for the program, may obtain application forms and information about the program from their local county judge or county Historical Commission chairman. Applications and supporting documents must be certified by the county judge of the county in which the land is located.

Forms and information may also be obtained from any Texas Department of Agriculture district office or the main Austin TDA office, P.O. Box 12847, Austin, Texas 78711.

TDA is the final judge on eligibility.

Perry fights to keep pesticide regulations at TDA

Commissioner Perry is urging members of the Legislature to resist efforts to move pesticide regulation from the Texas Department of Agriculture.

Perry said he is hopeful that legislators will turn a thumbs down to a recommendation from Comptroller John Sharp that would place regulatory authority for pesticide use at a proposed new Department of the Environment or DOE.

The Comptroller's Office proposed creating the DOE by merging a number of other state agencies and programs. Under the proposal as approved by the Texas Senate, oversight of the department — and its regulations — would come from gubernatorial appointees and an executive director hired by the governor. That, Perry said, would lessen accountability for the pesticide program.

"Let's leave responsibility for pesticide use under an elected official — who is directly accountable to the people of Texas. Let's not place this important duty in the hands of a mega-bureaucracy."

Moving pesticide regulation, Perry said, would not be in the best interest of agricultural producers, consumers — or taxpayers as a whole.

"Creation of the DOE is aimed at cost-effectiveness. But to move pesticide regulation would not produce any cost-savings," Perry said, "and it certainly would not be more efficient. In fact, this move would cost the state more than half a million dollars each year.

"The typical agricultural pesticide user does not have the resources or time to work with a complex bureaucracy. Agriculture needs to be able to work with an accessible and knowledgeable entity such as TDA," Perry said, noting that TDA has offices throughout the state to serve constituents' needs at the local level.

"Agriculture is different," the commissioner continued. "We're not

Hunter education courses continue

Attention hunters! If you need to take the hunter education course before fall hunting seasons, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department can help. Actually, even those who do not have to take the course can benefit from it.

Beginning Sept. 1, persons born during the period Sept. 2, 1971, through Aug. 31, 1975, must have completed a certified hunter education course to hunt legally in Texas. Also, if you plan to hunt in another state this fall, the course is accepted by all states and Canadian provinces.

"This course is designed to teach hunter safety and responsibility, but we also want to make young hunters aware of their hunting heritage," said Terry Erwin, conservation recreation coordinator. "This course will make them a better hunter and more responsible sportsman. Hunters must realize that they will be held accountable for not only their own actions, but those of other hunters. Wouldn't you rather hunt with someone who is safe and responsible?"

While not mandatory for persons born before Sept. 2, 1971, it would be beneficial to all hunters to take the course.

"We want to produce safe, knowledgeable, responsible and involved hunters. Even veteran hunters could use some refreshing," Erwin said. "The course will give you a reason to give back to the sport instead of just being a taker of the resource." It also can help the mature hunter develop more effective hunting skills and provide information on how to prevent accidents.

Course topics include hunting heritage, the sportsman's role in wildlife management, safety and responsibility, understanding the basics of modern firearms, archery and muzzleloader firearms, survival and wilderness first aid, game laws, wildlife identification and basic hunting techniques.

The course was mandated beginning June 1, 1988 and by Sept. 1, 1993, all hunters born on or after Sept. 2, 1971, and who are at least 12 years old, must take the course to hunt legally in Texas.

The course, which costs $5, is 10 hours long and must be scheduled over a minimum of two days. Those hunters affected by the law are required to carry proof of certification while hunting. Proof is not needed prior to purchase of a hunting license.

A course will be held in Weimar on August 12 with Henry E. Beyer as instructor. Another course is scheduled for Sept. 16. Call 713-263-5202 or 725-8599 for more information.
