B. H. DAILY.

A Mill "Sight."

Quite an amusing incident occurred in a cotton mill factory in a leading Texas town the other day.

The cause was related by the mill owner himself to a group of friends in the corridors of the Rice hotel last night.

He would not permit the name of his mill to be repeated or its location made known lest an enterprising shyster lawyer prey upon the cupidity of the victim and induce him to file suit for "seven thousand dollars."

The story is best told in the language of the man himself:

"We had a break-down in the mill. One of the looms got out of better as looms have a habit of doing, and we needed a skilled mechanic and needed him badly. I sent into a town and got one."

"He was flashily dressed and proceeded to make a dash on the 50 or 60 girl laborers who were employed in the room in which he was to make the repair. With all of his good clothes he was a good workman and soon had the break remedied, and while giving it a thorough test the remarkable catastrophe occurred."

"The mechanic was stooping over and stooped too close to one of the big wheels and one of the prongs caught him right in the bust of the breeches and gave him three or four good wrenches entirely denuding him of everything except his socks and shoes and threw him right over into a bevy of young girls."

"He sat in a heap somewhat dazed for an instant but seeing the bewildered women he gave a wild 'woof,' like a startled animal and made a wild flight for the first opening while the ladies fled in panic. He rushed slap into another room where a lot of more girls were working and shielded like a horse and dashed for the steps where a crowd of women had hid. He peered over his shoulder and could not reach it and chased up and down a few minutes and finally made it into the engine room in a fit of exhaustion."

A religion that fails to make a man pay his debts promptly and cheerfully isn't worth wiggling around in the vest pocket. There are men who profess great interest in the work of the church the mention of whose names would give an army of bill collectors nervous prostration any time. "Get right with God" is advice that every sensible man should heed—and the first step in that direction is to get right with your fellow man—Honor Grove Signal.

Have you ever heard the reason why the American government is called "Uncle Sam"? It was because one Samuel Wilson, government inspector of beef and pork at Troy, N. Y., in 1812, had a way of marking his barrels with his own initials "U. S." meaning the United States. A workman who was something of a wag saw the letters, and facetiously remarked that he supposed they stood for "Uncle Sam."

The joke was retold and retold until it became a common saying and the general government has been so nicknamed for nearly 100 years. Over a century ago the United States was also known to England and other foreign countries as "Brother Jonathan." Why? Because George Washington was very greatly influenced by the opinions of Jonathan Turnbull, and had a way of saying, "Well, I must consult Brother Jonathan," before he made decisions. The term became local and then drifted to its general use.

She continued to run, dragging the shafts, and ran up on the sidewalk in front of Nathan's store, striking one of the show windows and breaking one of the large plate glasses into smithereens.

He continues: "In Hibernia we have a medicinal which more fully answers the above purposes than any other drug with which I am acquainted. In the treatment of diseases peculiar to women it is seldom that a case is seen which does not present some indication for this remedial agent." Our popular tax assessor, Mr. Henry J. Laas, informs the HEADLIGHT of the increase in taxable values for the present year. The increase on all the different railroads and all other corporations that do business in this county is $1,400,810.00; on real estate and all personal property is $1,605,244.00, making a total increase for the year of $3,006,054.00.

Mr. Laas says there is fully six hundred to seven hundred thousand dollars in money and notes more given in this year than that of last year, which is included in the $1,605,244, so you will notice that the total increase on the different real estate for this year will not more than reach $1,000,000.00. Mr. Laas is of the opinion that our farmers should not complain at this; as the increase in money, notes and the different corporations amounts to fully two-thirds of the total increase of the county.
