There should be a law that will prevent railroad companies from confiscating coal while en route to its destination over their roads. There should be no law that would permit a corporation to take what belongs to others during the winter months to supply a demand that it should have prepared for during the summer. The individuals need fuel and it is just as important that they have it as it is that the railroads have it. This is one practice that railroads should stop.—Yokum Herald.

Last winter at two different times consignments of coal for Eagle Lake were seized by the railroad companies. If the winter had been a severe one there would have been suffering here for want of fuel.

Mr. W. D. Dunlavy, an old and respected Civil War veteran, aged sixty-seven years, died at Alletton Monday night and was interred in the cemetery at that place Tuesday afternoon. Deceased leaves three grown children—a son, Claude, and two married daughters, Mrs. Addie McFarland of this city and Mrs. A. W. Floeck of Houston.

"An old stocking makes a poor deposits bank. It is far from safe and in that it keeps the money out of circulation is a positive detriment to both its owner and the world at large. Money is of no value except for what it can procure for its owner and the miser who hoards it for its own sake labors under a sad delusion. He cannot eat it or wear it or use it for any other purpose under the sun except to buy things with, and he cannot take it along with him when he goes to his long home. Money is merely a token of value, and is only of use when it is kept in circulation by constant exchange of commodities or articles of value. This is what the banks do with money. The less cash they actually have in their vaults and the more credit for money loaned for a transaction of business, the more activity in business and greater general prosperity is indicated.—Brownsville Herald.

A small boy was overheard calling his grandfather an old fool. The grandfather, hearing him, sent him in to beg his grandfather's pardon, and heard him say between sobs: "Grandfather, I'm sorry you are such an old fool."

A Tribute to Corn.

Some years ago Gov. Oglesby of Illinois attended a meeting of the Good Fellowship Club in Chicago and at the close was called on for a speech. Having been all his life a farmer, he took "corn" for his text, and after referring to it as a symbol of immortality, which has to die in order to live its larger life, he went to say: "Aye, the corn, the loyal corn, within whose yellow heart there is health and strength for all nations. The corn triumphant that with the aid of man, hath made the world a garden for the social excellence that is, and is yet to be. This glorious plant, transplanted by the alchemy of God sustains the warrior in battle, the poet in song, and strengthens everywhere the thousand arms that work the purposes of life. Oh, that I had the voice of song, or skill to translate into tones the harmonies, the symphonies and oratories that roll across my soul, when standing, sometimes by day, and sometimes by night, upon the borders of this verdant sea. I note a world of promise, and then before one-half year is gone I view its full fruition, and see its heaped gold await the need of man! Majestic, fruitful, wonderful plant. Thou greatest among the manifestations of the wisdom and love of God, that may be seen in all the fields or upon the hillsides or in the valleys!"

It is said that when the old Governor sat down there was lacking the usual applause. "The company was awed into silence, as this prophet of the cornfield had opened up to them a wealth of meaning and value and beauty in what they had regarded as commonplace."

Some people in bestowing a compliment, do it in such an ungracious way that it takes away the pleasure the recipient would otherwise have. So, when praising one for some action, the praise is scorned by little criticism that it almost seems more like blame than approval. Killed the Johnson Grass.

Elmer Stovall, a well known farmer of the Robinson neighborhood, has astonished his neighbors by completely ridding a farm of Johnson grass in two years, and now has a fine crop of cotton growing on fifty acres of land recently set thick in this dreaded pest. He never missed a crop either.

Mr. Stovall accomplished his task by breaking the land in July and August last year, and turning two or three hundred head of sheep in. He kept turning the grass and weeds over with middle buster, and the moss kept coming near to the surface as the sheep nipped it, and the pest was soon under control at light expense.

Work on making a crop on the fifty acres of land cost Mr. Stovall just $55, or a little over one dollar an acre, and this where Johnson grass had been growing luxuriantly a little while before. It seems almost incredible, but it was done by work at the right time and in the right manner. This experience should be worth much to the farmers of this section, some of whom have come to regard Johnson grass as a pest which cannot be gotten rid of without years of work and the expenditure of large sums of money.

Persons having Johnson grass on their places will no doubt look Mr. Stovall up and find out from him in detail the plan of work followed to get such excellent and speedy results.—Waco Times-Herald.

Verdict for Dr. Pierce

Ladies' Home Journal.

Sending truth after a lie. It is an old maxim that "a lie will travel seven leagues while truth is getting its boots on," and no doubt hundreds of thousands of good people read the unwarranted and malicious attack upon Dr. R. V. Pierce and his "Favorite Prescription" published in the May (1904) number of the Ladies' Home Journal, with its great black display headings, who never saw the humble, growing, retraction, with its inconspicuous heading, published two months later. It was boldly charged in the standard and Illinois article that Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" for the cure of woman's weaknesses and ailments, contained alcohol and other harmful ingredients. Dr. Pierce promptly brought suit for libel, and the case was tried at Baring's.

At Baring's Dr. Pierce's case was tried. The editor maliciously published an article containing such false and defamatory matter with the intent of injuring his business, furthermore, that no alcohol or other injurious, or habit-forming drugs are used, and that the medicine is made from native medicinal roots and contains no harmful ingredients whatsoever. That Mr. Bick's malicious statements were wholly and absolutely false. The retraction printed in said Journal has been taken for some time past, and has obtained analyses of "Favorite Prescription" from eminent chemists, all of which certified that it contained no alcohol or any of the alleged harmful drugs. These facts were also proved in the trial of the action in the Supreme Court. But the business of Dr. Pierce was greatly injured by the publication of the libelous article with its great display headings, while hundreds of thousands who read the malicious statements never saw the humble, growing retraction, set in small type and made as inconspicuous as possible. The matter was, however, brought before a jury in the Supreme Court of New York State, which promptly rendered a verdict in the Doctor's favor. The "Favorite Prescription" is a great and noble base standard word returned.

Mr. J. W. Reese of Columbus was in the city Monday afternoon en route to Yokum to attend the funeral of his cousin, Mr. Less Reese, who was killed in Bay City at an early hour Monday morning by an accidental discharge of his own pistol. He was firing on the Gulf Line running between Bay City and Alton, and was killed while climbing down from his engine, his pistol falling from his pocket striking the step which caused it to go off. The bullet struck him in the back of the head. The accident occurred at one o'clock, death resulting about 7 hours later.

Cured of Bright's Disease. Mr. Robert O. Burke, Elmore, N. Y., writes: "Before I started to use Foley's Kidney Cure I had to get up from twelve to twenty times a night, and I was all bloated up with dropsy and my eyesight was so impaired I could scarcely see one of my family across the room. I had given up hope of living, when a friend recommended Foley's Kidney Cure. One 50-cent bottle worked wonders and before I had taken the third bottle the dropsy had gone, as well as all other symptoms of Bright's Disease." Sold by Eagle Lake Drug Co.
