B. H. DAILY, Eagle Lake.

Prior to the re-opening of the First National Bank, the officers and directors of that institution got signatures of a large percent of their depositors agreeing to leave their deposits in the bank for a specified time. This action was taken in order to feel the pulse of their customers, and as a safe guard should a run be attempted after the bank opened, but instead of a run, the bank has met with such phenomenal success that they have this week returned these agreements to their depositors attached to the following letter:

"During the month of December you agreed to leave your deposit with us for a given period of time, and we have not found it necessary to hold you to that agreement, and we return the agreement enclosed, which you gave us and wish to thank you for your kind consideration. The firm financial condition of this bank is better than it has ever been as evidenced by the facts shown in the statement enclosed, and it being controlled entirely by local people that have the interests of the depositors and community at heart as well as the success of the bank. The fact that our deposits have steadily increased every day indicates that our customers are being well taken care of, and that the public has implicit confidence in our institution. We are grateful to you for favors and patronage in the past, and we solicit, and will appreciate a continuation of your business. Yours very truly,
FOX STRICKLAND,
Cashier."

Miller's "King of the Castle Ring" show gave a performance here under canvas, leaving next day for Columbus, where they showed last night. Like all of the Miller shows, this is a very good one and the audience seemed well satisfied.

Mr. B. H. Daily says he is well satisfied with the results obtained from advertising in the HEADLIGHT. His big mid-winter clearing sale has been a success and so much so that he has decided to continue the sale two weeks longer. Read his half-page advertisement in today's paper.

Our sympathy is extended Messrs. A. C. and John F. McClanahan in the death of their sister, Mrs. Pearl Boney, which occurred at her home in Orange Thursday morning at 11 o'clock. The Messrs. McClanahan left Wednesday afternoon for Orange in response to a message of their sister's serious illness and were present at the time of her death.

Mr. Harvey Vineyard announces this week for the office of city marshal. The race is now a three cornered one, Messrs. Abe Beakes and Gray Payne having announced in last week's paper. Either of the three will make our city a good peace officer. Many have declared that it will be hard for them to decide how to vote, for they are all three such jolly fellows.

We have received through the courtesy of Congressman Burgess a handsomely bound copy of the Congressional Directory, containing a vast amount of information. It is noted that one senator has been in senatorial office 35 years and members of the House have held seats for 15 consecutive terms.

Mrs. E. O. Norris, who had been visiting relatives in Waco, and Miss Fannie Williamson who had been spending a few days in Houston, returned home at noon Thursday.

Mr. E. S. Winfree and family left Thursday for Yoakum, where they will reside in the future. Mr. Winfree will be manager of A. Levi & Co.'s wholesale house at that place. The best wishes of the entire community go with them. Mr. and Mrs. Winfree will be greatly missed in Eagle Lake, especially by the members of the Methodist church, in which congregation they were earnest workers.

Prof. Henry Moebes instructs us to forward the HEADLIGHT to him at Richmond, as he says he can't well get along without it. He says he still regards Eagle Lake as his home, and some day expects to move back to the old town, as he likes the place and has become attached to her people. Prof. Moebes is a jovial, good fellow, and a fine musician, and we regretted very much to see him leave our city.

The attention of our readers is especially directed to the page advertisement of Mr. J. G. Traylor's big reduction sale, which commences at his store today and continues until February 1. Read carefully his list of prices and you will readily be convinced that Mr. Traylor means business and everything in his store is being offered at real bargain prices.

The HEADLIGHT is this week glad to add the names of Mr. Leland Montgomery of Columbus and Miss Ines McLain of Austin to its rapidly growing subscription list.

Bring as your job printing order. Don't forget to use the special rate of the month to orders late in the month and bill heads, but give us your order now.

Oscar E. Linderholm of Chesterville, who was a guest yesterday at the Rice hotel, has within the last four years disposed of nearly 60,000 acres of land in and around Colorado county to actual settlers, who have put the land into rice. Chesterville is on the Sap, but these rice lands are also on the line of the Sunset route. "If the rice farmers can just be assured that next year's price of rice will be anywhere approximating the price of last year," said Mr. Linderholm, "they will know that they have passed their troubles. Mr. Linderholm said that the prospects were for a heavy movement of immigration to South Texas in 1908. On the next homeseekers' excursion he said that he expected a large crowd of prospective investors." Houston Post.

Columbus, Tex., Jan. 15. After having been closed several years the Stafford opera house will open next month with the Gordon Highlander band, the "Kilties." The Stafford opera house cost $50,000, seats 1,000 and has the most expensive curtain of any of the opera houses of the State. Mrs. Sarah E. Stafford, the owner of the opera house, lived nearby and was annoyed by the performances. She has lately finished a palatial home in San Antonio and has given over her residence in Columbus to friends. Houston Post.

The Episcopal church guild which has been suspended for a few weeks met Wednesday afternoon with Miss Mildred Thatcher.

Miss Nell Green returned this week from Baylor University to cooperate from a severe spell of sickness—home sickness.

Minor Kaykendall, the negro boy who had his left arm badly mashed at the laundry, had to have the member amputated Wednesday. Dr. Howard Fitzgerald performing the operation. Everything possible was done to save the arm, but to no avail. Minor is a good little negro boy and is quite a favorite among the white people of the town.

Mr. Lee Hughs, that prince of good fellows, is driving the finest team of matched bays in the community. Lee is a great admirer of fine horses, and his present horses are certainly beauties.
