

Announcements.

FOR COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT.
To the Electors of Colorado County:
The county school superintendent law passed by our last legislature has precipitated a great educational revival having for its object the betterment of our much neglected rural schools. The noble leaders in this work are pleading for your co-operation both in favoring the constitutional amendment which will place the children of the country and of the city on the same educational footing and in placing in charge of your schools a man of unquestioned ability. I feel justified in announcing my candidacy for this very important office and if elected I pledge my undivided time and energy to the betterment of our schools.
Very respectfully,
W. M. COLEMAN,
Prin. of Weimar Institute.

We are sorry indeed to learn that Dr. G. A. Foote has decided to leave Eagle Lake and locate further west. He offers his residence, all household goods, horses, etc., for sale, and is offering everything for sale at a bargain. Dr. Foote expects to leave by the 15th, and has asked us to state that all parties who are indebted to the firm are invited to call at once and settle their accounts in order that he and Dr. Robinson may be able to straighten their business before that date.

J. M. Kuykendall of Hallettsville, who was formerly a resident of this city and a business partner of Mr. Henry Esser, was last Wednesday night assaulted and severely injured by unknown parties in Hallettsville. When found about a block from the courthouse square he was unconscious and had lost much blood from knife wounds in the neck and chest. He was unable to account for being assaulted and does not know who the assailant was.

Mr. John Tatters has severed his connection with the Tatters Acetylene Gas Co. John has not yet fully decided what business he will enter, but he is thinking of moving away from Eagle Lake in hope of having better health.

The Literature Club held its regular fortnightly meeting Thursday afternoon with Mrs. J. Mark Callison. About twenty were present. Mrs. Haynie Matthews came up from Matthews to attend. That the members are making progress in their literary study was evidenced by the fact that every lady answered roll call with a quotation from Richard Harding Davis, the author under consideration. Miss Bruce and Mrs. Fitzgerald rendered some good music. Little Rose Turner, who has considerable musical talent, was called on for music. She acquitted herself with great credit. The fine taste of Mrs. Callison was in evidence in the beautiful appointments of the table. The color scheme was white and purple. The snowy napkins were edged with an embroidery of violets. Chocolate was served with macarites, the cakes being tied with narrow violet ribbons. At the end of each ribbon depended a tiny bunch of violets. Cut glass bowls held clusters of narcissus blossoms, the first flowers that bloom in the spring. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Callison.

The HEADLIGHT people took supper in the handsome dining room of the new Hotel Brown one night this week by special request. The service is fine. Two competent men servants move quietly and quickly over the linoleum to attend to your wants. There is not a particle of noise. Mrs. Brown says she hardly feels at home yet but thinks she'll get used to her three story stone mansion after a while. She always did keep a good table and now she has everything else to correspond.

Nearly all of Thursday was consumed in the preliminary trial of Chuck Woods charged with criminal assault upon his grandmother, Kathrine Gaskins, in the justice court here. County Attorney Lester Holt represented the State and the defendant was represented by W. M. Williamson, Esq. A considerable portion of the day was taken in arguments upon questions of law by the attorneys, one of which was whether a small book containing a birth record of the family, should be permissible as evidence in the case. After an argument of some length, the Court sustained Mr. Williamson and the evidence was allowed. Judge Davidson granted Woods bond in the sum of $300, which he gave and was released from custody.

The members of the Home Mission Society met at the Methodist church Tuesday afternoon and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Mrs. W. H. Koethauer, president; Mrs. P. T.
