A gloom of sorrow was cast over our little city when news of the untimely death of Miss Cleo Clark, only daughter of Dr. and Mrs. L. E. Clark of Schulenburg, was received here early Sunday afternoon. She had been ill with typhoid fever only about a week. Miss Clark was in her twentieth year, a beautiful and accomplished young lady. She has often visited in Eagle Lake and was a social favorite with all who knew her. Quite a number from here attended the funeral in Schulenburg the following afternoon.

There will be services at the Episcopal church on Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:15 p. m. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend these services.

MOONEY & DALLAS

Six O'clock Dinner.

The marriage of Miss Jaquelin Bruce and Mr. Thomas W. Oliphint of Huntsville, has been the inspiration of numerous handsome affairs, particularly notable among these, being the elegantly appointed six o'clock dinner of six courses Monday evening, when Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Rayner opened the week's festivities in honor of the bride-to-be.

The rich warm coloring of the handsome dining room threw a soft and beautiful light upon the lovely table with its floral embellishment, silver and resplendent crystal the brilliancy and beauty of which from the first course to the sparkling champagne, were indeed typical of the Rayner hospitality.

Faultless cuisine, with the acceptable accompaniment of delicious old wines, and fragrant champagne, the unique souvenirs and place cards, to say naught of the brilliant and happy conversation, were indeed features of this elegant hospitality. Numerous and beautiful were the toasts drunk to the bride and groom prospective, the same being responded to.

Upon this pleasurable occasion, those partaking of the hospitality of the genial host and his wife, the dainty mistress of this handsome home, were the bride and groom-elect, Miss Jaquelin Bruce and Mr. Thomas W. Oliphint, Messrs. and Mesdames M. E. Guynn and J. J. Whatley, Mrs. R. M. Middlebrook of San Antonio, Misses Christine Davis, Naude Duncan of Egypt, Emma Lee Lewis of Bay City, Lazetta Walker of Altair, and Madeleine Oldham of Houston, with Messrs. Chas. Rayner, New York, Will Eastham, Huntsville and Algernon Harbert, Eagle Lake.

Mrs. McCarty Entertains.

The third of the series of entertainments in honor of Miss Jaquelin Bruce's marriage to Mr. T. W. Oliphint was given on Tuesday evening by Mrs. J. W. McCarty. The old home, which for nearly forty years has gathered under its hospitable roof, the young people on festive occasions, was elaborately decorated. The music room gave hint of the near approach of Christmas, with its decorations of holly, mistletoe, Christmas bells and its show of the Christmas colors, green and red. Mrs. Mansfield and Mrs. Guynn were the pianists for some beautiful violin numbers by Miss Margaret Mansfield, Mrs. Whatley and Miss Jaquelin Bruce. Mrs. Walter Brown and Mrs. H. W. Rayner sang each a lovely song. Then our own incomparable, native born, song bird, Mrs. Mary Van Houten-Reeve held the audience spell bound by the Reception at Mrs. Whatley's.

The handsome home of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Whatley was the scene of a beautiful reception Wednesday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Oliphint. In the reception suite a color scheme of red and green was artistically carried out with ferns, geraniums and yucca berries. The dining room was the acme of perfection, large red satin ribbon bows were used in the decoration; cut flowers were prettily arranged around the punch bowl which was presided over by Mrs. W. T. Bearl. On the dining table of festive oak was laid an exquisite lunch cloth
