Nothing For Nothing.

It was said by all the neighbors of Mr. Squinchley that he was a very good man. He either sold it, or demanded something in exchange. On one occasion he was making a long railway journey. The seat directly in front of him was occupied by a man who had been coughing and sneezing at frequent intervals for more than an hour. At last Mr. Squinchley leaned forward and spoke to him. "That's a pretty bad cough you seem to have," he said. "Worst one I ever had in my life," wheezed the other. "Well, I know of a simple and harmless remedy, absolutely sure, that will cure it inside of two days."

"Some patent nostrum?" "No, you can make it up at home." "I shall be very grateful if you will tell me what it is." "I'll do it, sir," said Mr. Squinchley, narrowing his eyelids. "If you will tell me what'll drive away these warts I've got on my left hand."

While We Are Living.

In this life we pass through all the shifting scenes of humor and pathos, of comedy and tragedy, from the laughing and dancing morning of youth to the shadowy evening of old age. The world applauds us if we triumph; it despises us if we fail. Too often it gives the meed of praise to its benefactors only when they are under the sod. What a strange and cruel philosophy! What do words of praise avail to lift the shadow off our path no longer pressed by weary feet? What are songs worth to beasts that lie still in the songless dust? Why fill the hand of the dead with flowers which we have withheld from the living, and then with tears bend over the pallid face and whine, "he looks so natural." If you love to give, give it to the living. None but God can bless the dead. Who would not rather have one smile today than to know that a million roses would be heaped upon his coffin, should he die tomorrow? Who would not rather rejoice among the flowers of love while he lives than to sleep the dreamless sleep beneath a wilderness of flowers? God speed the day when the spirit of love shall fall upon the world like the light of morning until all nations shall burst into laughter and song. — Bob Taylor.

For the Fans.

In the absence of any base ball "dope" says an exchange, how will the following do? The game opened. Molasses at the stick. Smallpox catching. Cigar in the box and had plenty of smoke. Horn at first and Fiddle at second base. Corn in the field and Apple umpire. When Ax came to bat he chopped and Cigar let Brick walk and Sawdust filled the bases. Song made a hit and Twenty made a score. Every rule in baseball was broken. Kicked and said Apple was rotten. Balloon started to pitch and went straight up. Then Spider caught the ball. When Spider caught the fly the crowd cheered. Old Ice kept cool as the game went on until he was hit by a pitched ball, and you ought to have heard Ice scream. Cabbage had a good head and kept quiet. Old Grass covered lots of ground in the field. Organ refused to play so Bread loafed and put him out. In the fifth inning Wind began to blow about what he could do. Hammer began to knock, and Tree began to leave. Knife was put out for cutting first base.

He Remembered.

When the conductor came to collect the young lady's fare she discovered that she had left her pocketbook at the office where she works as stenographer. It is a predicament not uncommon with city dwellers, but the rest of the story, as told, takes a new and agreeable turn. "Why, I'm afraid I haven't any money with me," she said, looking very much embarrassed. The conductor said nothing, but stood there and waited. "I guess I'll have to get off," said the girl. "I have left my pocketbook at the office." "Here, lady," said a boyish voice coming from across the aisle. "I got a nickel I'll lend you." She looked at the boy and took the nickel. "Thank you," she said. "I'll pay you back if you will give me your name." "Don't worry 'bout that," he replied. "I'm the kid you give a half a dollar to last Christmas when you seen me sellin' papers down by the Savoy. I ain't forgot you. I'm sellin' papers there yet." She smiled at him when he left the car, and he was about the proudest boy in town. — Denver Times.

LAXATIVE SENT FREE TO TRY

It may be taken for granted that there is no family that does not sometime need a laxative. If you don't know of a good laxative, or the laxative you are using is losing its effect, we want to call your attention to Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which thousands of families are using successfully.

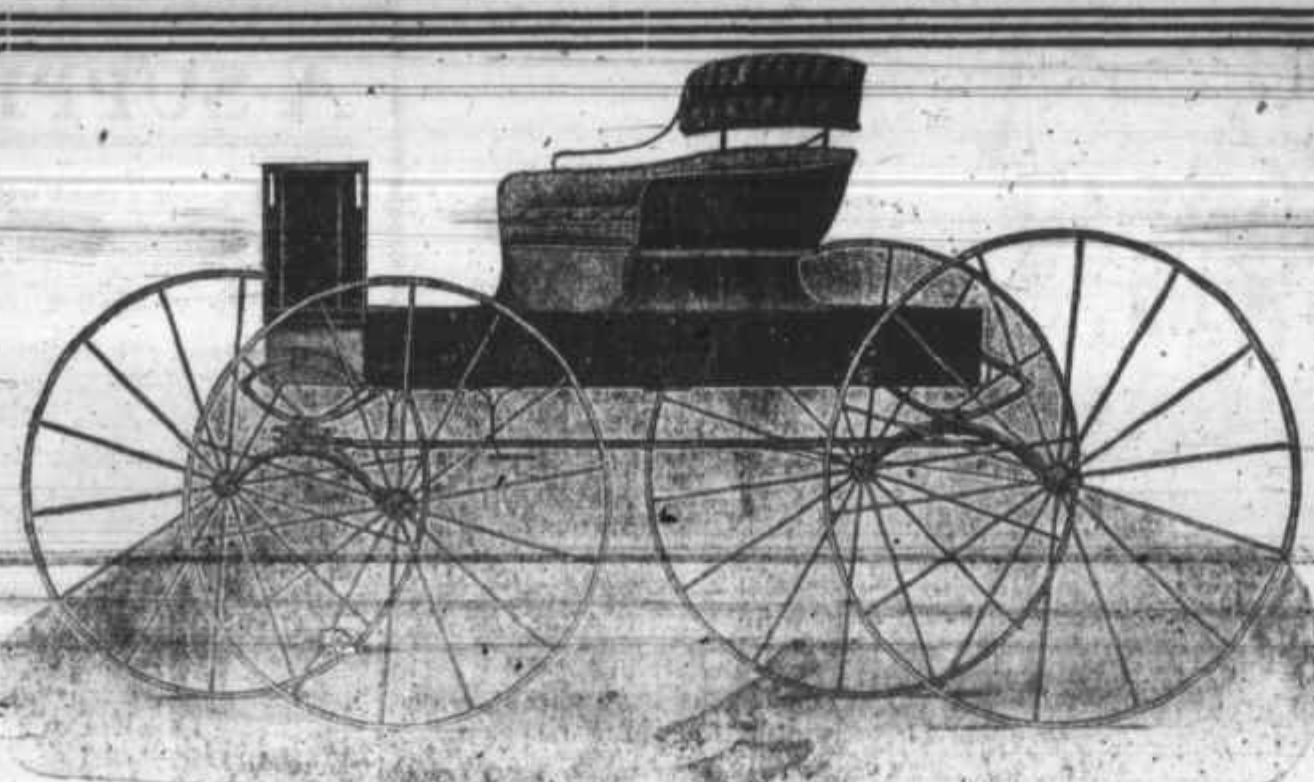

We have scores of letters from mothers, and scores of prominent men saying they are using it personally and giving it to their families. Men like Mr. C. R. Smith of the Traffic Clearing House, Pine Bluff, Ark., and Mr. George B. Turner, a lawyer of Harlan, Ky. The thousands of mothers who use it themselves and give it to their children would take too much space to mention.

The reason they prefer Syrup Pepsin is that it is a mild, gentle laxative.

tive- tonic that does not gripe— effective and yet so mild that babies can take it. Its tonic ingredients invigorate the body and strengthen the stomach and bowel muscles so that they again do their work naturally. If you have been a victim of salts, pills and strong cathartics you will discard them when you once use Syrup Pepsin.

You can buy a fifty cent or one dollar bottle of any drugist, but before doing so you may want to try it free. If so, send your address to Dr. Caldwell and he will promptly forward a free sample bottle. Then, being convinced, do as others are doing and buy it in the regular way of your favorite drugist.

For the free sample address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 402 Caldwell Building, Monticello, Ill.

CRYING FOR HELP.

Lots of it in Eagle Lake But Daily Growing Less.

The kidneys cry for help. Not an organ in the whole body so delicately constructed. Not one so important to health. The kidneys are the filters of the blood.

When they fail the blood becomes foul and poisonous. There can be no health where there is poisoned blood. Backache is one of the first indications of kidney trouble. It is the kidneys' cry for help. Heed it.

Doan's Kidney Pills are what is wanted.

Are just what overworked kidneys need.

They strengthen and invigorate the kidneys; help them to do their work; never fail to cure any case of kidney disease.

Read the proof from an Eagle Lake citizen.

Mrs. M. E. Cooper, of Eagle Lake, Texas, says: "A member of family was subject to attacks of lumbago, during which the person's back would become so sensitive and lame that the simplest movement caused suffering. The kidney secretions at times were so frequent in passage and were distressing. Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from Calvert's Drug Store, brought relief at once and before long removed the pain and lameness in the back."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Little Johnny was found in the library, busily snipping away at the open dictionary.

"Johnny," the father asked, "what in the world are you doing?"

"You see father," said the bright, shining light of the household, "today at school the teacher said there was no such word as 'fail,' and so I'm cutting it out of the dictionary."

To The Patrons of the Water Works.

I would again ask all patrons of the waterworks system to please refrain from abusing the RULES of the Water Works Co. There are a great many that are wasting water and sprinkle their lawns during hours when not allowed.

We permit you to sprinkle your lawns during the hours of 7 and 9 a. m., and 5 and 7 p. m.; hose to be held in hand of some person, automatic lawn sprinklers positively not allowed.

We absolutely prohibit the use of water for irrigating gardens. If you insist upon continuing this practice you will have to be placed on a meter system.

The waterworks system is operated for the comfort and safety of the public, and we cannot permit any one individual to take more rights than other as that would be unfair.

Your cooperation in enforcing the rules will be appreciated.

Respectfully,

A. H. KOENIGSBERG.
