Mr. Eaton will move down there in a few months. —Colorado Citizen.

A Des Moines man had an attack of muscular rheumatism in his shoulder. A friend advised him to go to Hot Springs. That meant an expense of $150.00 or more. Lightning Kills Few.

In 1906 lightning killed only 169 people in this whole country. One's chances of death by lightning are less than two in a million. The chance of death from liver, kidney or stomach trouble is vastly greater, but not if Electric Bitters be used, as Robert Madsen, of West Burlington, Ia., proved. Four doctors gave him up after eight months suffering from virulent liver trouble and yellow jaundice. He was then completely cured by Electric Bitters. They're the best stomach, liver, nerve and kidney remedy and blood purifier on earth. Only 50c at Calvert's Drug Store.

IT ONLY TOOK FIVE DAYS

To pay off depositors in the failure of the Harris County Bank & Trust Co, Houston, Texas. That bank failed about 60 days ago. We Prosper Any Way.

The Texas farmer rises early in the morning and slips into clothes made in New York, shoes made in Massachusetts; he cuts his wood with an ax made in Pennsylvania, an ax handle made in Wisconsin; he builds his fire in a stove made in Michigan and his wife dresses in goods woven in New Hampshire, proceeds to fry bacon that was packed in Illinois, and potatoes that were grown in Colorado. She makes biscuits with lard rendered in Nebraska, and wheat grown in Kansas; at breakfast they eat from dishes made in Ohio and use tables and chairs made in Minnesota. He goes to the field and uses a plow from Indiana, and a hoe made in Connecticut. When he retires to rest, he blows out a lamp made in Chicago and falls upon a bed whose springs were made in Pittsburg, whose frame was made in Detroit, and whose blankets came from San Francisco, and we prosper in spite of ourselves. —Ex.

Pleasant Surprise for "Hubby."

"We have the surprise beautifully planned," said young Mrs. Westerleigh to the guests, "and John doesn't suspect a thing. I think he has forgotten that today's his birthday. He will get home from the office at seven o'clock. Then he always goes upstairs to take off his coat and put on his smoking jacket for the evening. When he is upstairs I will call out suddenly, 'Oh, John, come down quick! The gas is escaping.' Then he will rush down here, unsuspecting, to find the crowd of friends waiting for him." It went off exactly as planned. Westerleigh came home at the regular hour and went directly upstairs. The guests held their breath while Mrs. Westerleigh called out excitedly, "Oh, John, come down quick! The gas is escaping in the parlor."

Every light had been turned out and the parlor was in perfect darkness. There was a rapid rush of feet down the stairway, then a voice said, "I don't smell any gas."

"Better light the jet," said Mrs. Westerleigh, tremulously. "Here's a match."

There was a splutter and suddenly the room was flooded with light.

Everybody screamed. The hostess fainted.

For there in the center of the room stood Westerleigh, attired only in a natty union suit, with a pair of trousers carried over his arm.

A Puzzling Situation.

Up in New York a man was tried and convicted of lunacy. It happened that the crazy man had a brother who volunteered to take him to the asylum. The officials agreed and gave the sane brother the necessary papers for the incarceration of his unfortunate relative, but they failed to designate which of the men was daffy. So when the two arrived at the asylum, the crazy man, as is usually the case, stoutly maintained that it was his brother who was insane and the sane brother had no way to identify himself the superintendent put them through an examination. This left him in a worse muddle than ever, so he locked both men up and the following telegram to the authorities of the town which they came: "Two men arrived here from your town today with papers for the admittance of one. Each declares the other is crazy. I put them on examination and one said he was going to build a railroad from the earth to the moon, and the other declared the republican party was against the trusts. Which one is crazy, or shall I confine both of them? Answer at once." —Ex.

Hitching On.

A real estate dealer in Tacoma by the name of Cook, a genial, jolly sort of man, was a great booster for the town.

A friend meeting him one morning, said:

"I see that you are spending a lot of money advertising these days, Cook."

"Why, no," replied Cook, in surprise. "I haven't advertised at all lately."

"Is that so?" queried his friend. "I thought, of course, over town—Cook with gas, you know."

The real estate man joined in the laugh. But the next morning the joker was surprised to find in the papers a large advertisement headed with the words: "Cook With Gas, or Gas With Cook. The One Saves You Money, the Other Makes You Money."

Mrs. Moffett of the Cherryvale Journal writes: "The new $8 corsets which encase one to the knees are often responsible for embarrassing their wearers. The other day at a card party a fat lady dropped a card. She made several ineffectual dives trying to pick it up. Finally, with a purple face, she gasped out: 'Will somebody wearing a dollar corset kindly pick up that card for me?'" —Exchange.
