

The New Party.

The new party, which styles itself the "Progressive Party," was born at Chicago this week.

The moving spirit of the party is Theodore Roosevelt, but recently the most popular man in the United States as well as the greatest political force. Mr. Roosevelt is his party's nominee for President; for Vice-President Governor Johnson of California, a man of great ability and an astute politician, has been named. The party also has within its ranks many men who have been prominent in the councils of the Republican party, including ex-Senator Beveridge, Senator Dixon, James R. Garfield and Gifford Pinchot.

It is too early to predict the fate of the new political organization. It has been many years since a new party gained sufficient strength to be counted a dangerous competitor. As we see it at present the Progressive party is a force to be reckoned with. Beyond this we are unwilling to risk a prediction, but many students of the situation see in Mr. Roosevelt's move the destruction of the Republican party and the new party built upon its ruins. The Progressive convention was attended by as large and enthusiastic crowds as were in attendance upon the Republican and Democratic national conventions. —Honey Grove Signal.

The Man Who's Always on the Job.

No matter what line of business may be engaged in, or what position he may hold, the successful man of today and the man who is gradually forging ahead of his fellows, is the man who's always on the job.

Not necessarily the plodder who works early and late or the man whose mind is constantly on his work, but rather the fellow who comes down early in the morning after a good night's sleep, bright-eyed and with a clear mind, fit and right to tackle anything in sight.

He gets things done; takes on more work and puts it through. He always knows; doesn't guess or presume. He is not a growler or a knocker. He sets the pace and when he's around everybody gets busy. He heads off trouble and keeps things moving.

When the day is done he lays out his work, picks up his hat and steps out into the world carefree and happy, a fellow you always like to meet and a man among men.

Opportunities come to some who wait, but the man who's always on the job doesn't wait; he develops his own opportunities and never loses out by failing to take advantage of them.

Hats off to the man who's always on the job.

Different Views.

A colored man and his girl went to an old negro preacher to be married. The latter had a sense of responsibility, and undertook to lecture the two before tying the knot. "Rastus," said he to the man, "are yo' sho' yo' want dis gal? Dey tells me she ain't nothin' of a cook, an' I seen her myself playin' de pianna by de hour while her ol' mammy were playin' de washboard." "Well, ash, dat's a sign to me she's eddicated. I ain't afriad to tek her."

"An' Jinnie," said the old man, "wa't yo' want to de yo'sel' up to a no-count nigger like dis one fer? Many's de time I seen 'im comin' along in de dark ob de moon, wid chickens 'squawkin' under his arm, we're he'd spiled his neighbor's hen-roosts. Do yo' want a man like dat?"

"Yassah," answered Jinnie, "it sounds to me lak he were a good feller. I want to tek her." "Well," said the old fellow with a sigh, picking up his service book, "all I got to say is you is two ob de biggest fools dat de ploughshare ob ma experyence has eber turn out ob de furrow ob human natur."—Ex.

Capable of Responsibility.

Most persons whose lives amount to anything are carrying so many responsibilities that the burden of these often well-nigh reaches the breaking point. And with the pressure and strain comes a longing to "get from under." It is a good offset to any such feeling to ask ourselves how we should like it if we had no responsibilities. Suppose neither God nor man cared to trust us with any important tasks! There are derelicts of humanity in the world without obvious responsibility. We would not relish their place for ourselves. It is a glorious, undeserved privilege that we have heavy responsibilities. The heavier and more numerous they are the greater is the privilege. For it shows that we are counted capable. It would be a pity to forfeit the privilege by proving that we do not deserve it.

"Does rubber possess any healing powers?" I asked the great Chicago physician.

"None that I have ever been able to discover," he replied, "but there's a man in Boston who asserts that rubber will cure internally. He's a shoemaker, and in front of his shop is a home-made sign, on which appears: 'Rubber Heals Inside.'"

Proposed Amendment To The State Constitution So As To Authorize The Grant Of Aid To Indigent And Disabled Soldiers And Sailors And Their Wives.

(S. J. R. No. 9.) SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION.

Senate Joint-Resolution to amend Section 51, of Article 3, of the Constitution of the State of Texas, so as to authorize the grant of aid to indigent and disabled Confederate soldiers and sailors and their widows, and to soldiers who served in the militia and in organization for the protection of the frontier and their indigent widows, and to grant aid for the establishment and maintenance of a home for the indigent and dependent wives and widows of Confederate soldiers and sailors, and such women as aided the Confederacy, and authorize a special ad valorem pension tax, and making appropriations for same.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

SECTION 1. That Section 51, Article 3, of the Constitution of the State of Texas be so amended as to hereafter read as follows:

ARTICLE 3. Section 51. The Legislature shall have no power to make any grant or authorize the making of any grant of public money to any individual, association of individuals, municipal or other corporation whatsoever; provided, however, the Legislature may grant aid to indigent and disabled Confederate soldiers and sailors who came to Texas prior to January 1, 1900, and their widows in indigent circumstances, and who have been bona fide residents of the State of Texas since January 1, 1900, and who were married to such soldiers and sailors anterior to January 1, 1900; to indigent and disabled soldiers, who under special laws of the State of Texas, during the war between the States served for a period of at least six months in organizations for the protection of the frontier against Indian-raids or Mexican marauders, and to indigent and disabled soldiers of the militia of the State of Texas, who were in active service for a period of at least six months during the war between the States, and who were married to soldiers prior to January 1, 1900, provided that the word "widow" in the preceding lines of this section shall not apply to women born since 1861, and also to grant aid for the establishment and maintenance of a home for said soldiers and sailors, their wives and widows, and women who aided in the Confederacy under such regulations and limitations as may be provided for by law; provided the Legislature may provide for husband and wife to remain together in the home.

The Legislature shall have the power to levy and collect, in addition to all other taxes heretofore permitted by the Constitution of Texas, a State ad valorem tax on property not exceeding five cents on the one hundred dollars valuation for the purpose of creating a special fund for the payment of pensions for service in the Confederate Army and Navy, frontier organizations and the militia of the State of Texas, and for the widows of such soldiers serving in said armies, navies, organizations, or militia.

SECTION 2. The Governor of the State is hereby directed to issue the necessary proclamation for the submission of this amendment to the qualified voters of the State of Texas at the general election of State officers, in November, 1912. At which election all voters favoring this amendment shall have written or printed on their ballots the words: "For the amendment to Section 51, Article 3 of the Constitution relating to increase of Confederate pensions;" and the voters, opposed to said amendments shall have written or printed on their ballots the words: "Against the amendment to Section 51, Article 3 of the Constitution, relating to increase of Confederate pensions."

And the sum of $100,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated to pay the expenses of carrying out the provisions of this resolution.

Definition of Before and After.

For twelve months before they were married she never came down town without seeing him. If she walked one block he always managed to be waiting for her on the corner, smiling like an oyster on the half shell. If she carried a package as weighty as a spool of thread, he took it from her by force, for fear she would strain herself or break a mainspring. He wanted to call on her every night, and would have done so if her father had been dead. He just simply existed, and that was all, when out of her presence. He was so considerate of her feelings he never went near her after taking a drink until he had thoroughly overhauled and deodorized his breath. Twelve months after they married, and he saw her down town, he darted in a screen door to keep her from seeing him. He saw her pass by with a big, heavy bundle but he never went out and offered to carry the load. Perhaps it was because he was already loaded himself. He usually made it home for supper and then went down town on important business. This is what I call before and after taking.—Sam Jones.

Why They Love Them

We have it on the authority of some old bachelor cynic that a French woman will love her husband if he is either witty or chivalrous; a Dutch woman, if he does not disturb her ease too much; a Spanish woman, if he wreaks vengeance on those who incur her displeasure; an Italian woman, if he is dreamy and poetic; a Danish woman, if he loves her country; a Russian woman if he, despises all the westerners as miserable barbarians; an English woman, if he succeeds in gratifying himself with the court and aristocracy; and an American woman if he has plenty of money.
