Girls of These Days.

When in bed and afraid, a child covers its head. Some parents are doing that very thing figuratively, and they are in danger of suffering later. Then the wall will be: "Oh, why didn't I keep the confidence of my child, why didn't I watch her more carefully?"—Daily Texarkanian.

Of course if a modern mother reads this, chances are she will sniff with indignation. She lets her receive callers at the tender age of fourteen and the dolly goes into the scrap pile. Immediately thereafter the daughter enters into a life of gayety wherein the ladies are 15 to 16

Good Clothes Lend Confidence.

Courage oozes out of the holes in a ragged suit of clothes and fear enters. But give the same man a new suit, clean linen, a good hat and shining shoes, and you will see how soon fear will fly away and confidence be restored. He who before was afraid to speak in whispers lest he might be heard and consequently seen, will now talk loudly of million dollar propositions, though he may not have a cent in his pockets. It is the duty of every man to dress as well and as neatly as his means will allow. He should cultivate tastes in his apparel and show wisdom in his selection. His main object should be to give grace to his figure and attractiveness to his general appearance; but above all, he should dress in accordance and in keeping with his station in life.—Columbian Enterprise.

Took His Advice.

Once upon a time a very cool man called on his physician office and asked him for medical advice.

"Take a tonic and dismiss from your mind all that tends to worry you," said the physician.

Several months afterward the patient received a bill from the physician asking him to remit three guineas, and answered it thus:

"Dear Doctor—I have taken a tonic and your advice. Your bill tends to worry me, so I dismiss it from my mind."

Moral—Advice sometimes defeats its giver.—Answers.
