

FARMERS' MEETING

Next Tuesday Afternoon at The New Grand Theatre.

A farmers' meeting will be held at the New Grand Theatre, Tuesday afternoon. A public speaker, Mr. Paul Whiprecht, will discuss matters of interest to every farmer. The discussions will be taken up by local men with the intent that a live permanent organization may be effected, with the object in view of bettering farming conditions generally. Co-operation among farmers will be one of the chief topics. It is the one thing most needed for securing better markets, more adequate prices for farm produce, and for mutual aid among the farmers themselves.

Cotton, rice, corn, potato and other produce growers will find matters of interest in the talks. Dairying will also receive attention.

All persons reading this notice are requested to pass the word along to their neighbors, inviting them to attend.

The meeting will be held at the New Grand Theatre, Tuesday afternoon, beginning at 3 o'clock. The session will be under the auspices of the Farmers' Institute.

It is hoped to arrange to have music and some pictures as an entertaining feature of the meeting.

For Sale.

1912 Metz Runabout, 22 h. p. in perfect condition, $375. Also have a five-passenger Overland in perfect condition for $600.

New Law Firm.

Messrs. Carothers & Brown of Houston, a former law firm of Eagle Lake, have formed a partnership with Judge H. F. Ring of Houston, under the firm name of Ring, Carothers & Brown, with offices at 801-802 Scanlan Building. Mr. Ring is one of the most prominent lawyers in Houston, having resided in that city for more than twenty years and was associated with Presley K. Ewing, under the firm name of Ewing & Ring. Both Messrs. H. W. Carothers and W. F. Brown are too well and favorably known for any mention from us at this time. This partnership will in no way effect the Eagle Lake firm of Carothers, Brown & Wirtz, and the business here will be carried on in future just the same as in the past. The new Houston partnership makes one of the strongest and most reliable law firms in Houston.

W. C. T. U. Program

The Dixie wants to impress it upon you—be at the Dixie tonight. Miss some other night if you will, but NOT tonight.

Card Club Entertained

Mrs. J. U. Frazar entertained the Ladies Card Club on Wednesday evening. The prizes were handsome hand made handkerchiefs, Mrs. W. D. Walker winning the club prize and Mrs. Russell of Mississippi, the guest prize. A delightful Mexican lunch was served. Besides the regular club members, the following visitors were present: Mesdames Russell, Estep Brown, John Matthews, Fitzgerald, Wagner and Oliphant. Next meeting will be with Mrs. M. E. Gwynn.

You can't afford to miss that program at the Dixie tonight.

Good Building Lots

I have removed all clouds from titles of lots in the Griffin addition, and now offer for sale some choice building lots. Lots at all prices, for rich and poor.

W. H. GRIPPIN.

Mrs. Sam Nixon of Nixon is visiting Mrs. G. A. Stoerner. Mrs. Nixon has decided to send her daughter here that she may have the advantage of our excellent school.

Miss Myra Walker left Wednesday for a visit to relatives in San Antonio.

Mr. Max M. Landa, who believes Eagle Lake is good enough for him, is arranging to build a nice home. Eagle Lake is growing in pretty homes—and it will continue to grow. May the old town grow on and prosper forever.

Look, watch and wait for Hamburger & Waldvogel's Big Fall Sale.

Mr. H. W. Carothers of Houston was here Wednesday, on his return from a business trip to Oklahoma.

Conner-Johnson Wedding.

Mr. Allen B. Conner, formerly an Eagle Lake boy, and Miss Alva Johnson of Austin were quietly married in that city at 11:30 a. m. last Tuesday in the rooms of Mrs. Montgomery in the McDonald building on West Seventh Street, Rev. Dr. R. J. Briggs officiating. Only the near relatives and intimate friends of the contracting parties were present. Mr. Conner is well known to every Eagle Lake citizen, having been born and reared here, a brother of Mr. W. M. Conner. He is a prosperous young business man connected with the Long-Bell Lumber Company of San Antonio. The Austin Statesman says of the bride: "The bride is one of the most beautiful and accomplished young ladies reared in Austin, and has hosts of admirers and friends." The young couple left Austin on the 12:20 train over Missouri, Kansas & Texas, bearing with them the cordial congratulations and good wishes of many friends. After a brief bridal tour Mr. and Mrs. Conner will be at home at the Gunter Hotel in San Antonio.

The September Social for the Christian Aid Society was given last Friday by Mrs. J. R. Strahan. The pink and white brick cream with pink and white cake were both lovely and delicious. Then the Devil's food and Sunshine cake, all of which sustained the cake baking reputation of Miss Ollie Strahan. The financial result was $11.00.

Public Speaking.

There will be a public speaking next Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the New Grand Theatre. Everyone cordially invited. The meeting is under the direction of the Farmers' Institute, and subjects relating to better farming and co-operation among farmers will be discussed.

The little woman sat alone in her seat, and in the course of an hour or so he sauntered back with a magazine in his hand, flopped down beside her and began to read the periodical. She smiled at him and in various ways made herself pleasant or tried to, but there was apparently no response to her interest in him. When he answered her he did not take his eyes off the magazine. There was nothing polite or engaging in his manner. True, there was no frown or unkind expression, but there was absolute indifference. And thus the same attitude of both continued the day was most gone when they left the train for their home.

What can a man be thinking about who treats his wife that way? Does he regard her as nobody? Has she ceased to interest him? Or is he utterly forgetful of his duty to her? In either event, does he expect her to continue to love him, sacrifice for him and do all in her power

If you must miss one, miss some other night—not tonight; let it be the Dixie tonight.

New Garage Building

Mr. A. Townley is erecting another garage building on Main Street, opposite the Eagle Lake Machine & Repair Shops. The new garage will do a general auto repair business, and Mr. Jessie Scarville, an expert automobile man, will be in charge of the business. With three garages, Eagle Lake must be some automobile town.

Invitations have been received in Eagle Lake announcing the approaching wedding on Thursday, October, 17th, at half past ten o'clock a. m., in Honey Grove, Texas, of Mr. W. Ellis Wilson of this city to Miss Jessie Delaune of Honey Grove. The Headlight's heartiest congratulations are extended in advance.

Life as We Often See it and Interpret It.

Some time ago we were on a passenger train and just across from us was a married couple. They seemed to be about thirty-five years of age and very much set in their ways. The woman seemed bright and talkative and often turned to her husband with some remark or suggestion. He sat there, for the most part like a dummy, and if he answered her at all it was in monosyllables. But this did not daunt her, for ever and anon she would address her remarks to him. But he was as indifferent and cold as a clam and gave no sort of encouragement to her. We wondered how she mustered up courage enough to keep on in her stupid chatter with him, but she did and seemed oblivious to his indifference and bearishness. After a while he got up and went back into the smoker and was gone some time. We had occasion also to pass back there and we observed him in an animated conversation with another gentleman. His eyes were bright, his tones fluent and his manner popular and entertaining. He was like another man.

The little woman sat alone in her seat, and in the course of an hour or so he sauntered back with a magazine in his hand, flopped down beside her and began to read the periodical. She smiled at him and in various ways made herself pleasant or tried to, but there was apparently no response to her interest in him. When he answered her he did not take his eyes off the magazine. There was nothing polite or engaging in his manner. True, there was no frown or unkind expression, but there was absolute indifference. And thus the same attitude of both continued the day was most gone when they left the train for their home.

What can a man be thinking about who treats his wife that way? Does he regard her as nobody? Has she ceased to interest him? Or is he utterly forgetful of his duty to her? In either event, does he expect her to continue to love him, sacrifice for him and do all in her power to make herself his equal? Did he treat her that way when he was addressing himself to her as a young woman? Was she then dull and monotonous in his esteem? No! He was all politeness then and her least wish called forth his quick response. But now she is his wife, ministering to his every want, and he draws himself within and has but little to say to her. She regards him as her lover, but he has charge of her now, and she is his lackey. After he clothes her, furnishes her a home and supplies her needs his duty is discharged, and while he listens to her and receives her caresses he has no response to make to her interest in him.

And we imagine that there are many such wives and husbands in society today. They are living together under the same roof and the world thinks they are congenial and happy; but such is not the case. No woman can be happy as the mere servant of a man. It takes his love, his gallantry, his nice little attentions that she loves, she is not happy. She merely exists and her life is misery. She would rather live on bread and water, if she's the right sort of a wife, and have the delicate love and affection of her husband, than to live in a cold place with every luxury and her husband treating her with indifference and cool contempt. Under such circumstances her heart dries up and her wealth of womanhood becomes impoverished. Any man who thus treats his wife may furnish her a home with its comforts, but he at the same time makes her a miserable and an unhappy woman. In the case of the two above noted we could easily read in the woman's face a look of disappointment and an expression of heart-hunger. Shame on the boorish husband who can smile at everybody else and make himself agreeable to everybody else except his wife!—Texas Christian Advocate.

DO YOU UNDERSTAND ABOUT DRUGS?

THE old style drug store was a place where little attention was paid to the care of stock. Drugs of unknown value came in, were put in stock and kept there until sold, remaining often for years and until they had lost what value they originally had.

Our kind of a drug store is where the finest drugs only are bought. They are inspected on arrival and rejected if not up to our standard. While in stock they are properly protected against deterioration and are discarded if they lose their freshness. You must trust some one else, the quality of drugs. Why not trust us. You want pure, fresh drugs—we have them.

Modern Bohemia

A well known viveur, and cosmopolitan lamented, at a roof garden supper in New York, the decay of bohemianism.

"The bohemianism of Marguerite—where is it?" he said. "Nowhere. Search the Boulevard des Italiens, search Piccadilly, search the Great White Way—you'll find nothing but cold, calculating, mercenary hearts."

"In a lobster palace, over a woodcock and a bottle of champagne, I once heard a middle-aged widower say ardently to a beautiful show girl:

"It is true that I am slightly older than yourself, but you must remember that a man is as young as he feels, and as for me

"But the show girl interrupted coldly:

"Oh, I don't care anything about that," she said. "The only thing that interests me is whether you are as rich as you look."
