NOTICE

It has been currently reported that the New Grand Theatre is going to close, or we believe this report has gone so far as to say that it had actually closed, and we wish to deny this report, deny it most emphatically, and state to the public that the New Grand has not closed and is not going to close. We have invested considerable money in this show, entirely too much to think of not running the business, and there is nothing more foreign to our intentions, either in the past or at the present, than discontinuing the New Grand, and we are at a loss to understand how such a report got its start unless it was done by some one whose "wish was father to the thought."

Previous to the present time neither of us have had the time to devote to running the show that was necessary in order to work the business up to that standard to which we now propose to raise it.

We have in the New Grand one of the nicest, noblest, up-to-date play houses in South Texas, one that should be, and we believe is, the pride of the citizens of this community. This show was installed at a tremendous cost and we believe that the civic pride of the people here will prompt them in giving us such patronage as is necessary to continue the show, we have that much confidence in the good people of Eagle Lake and surrounding community.

ple of Eagle Lake and surrounding community.

The errors of the former owners should not be charged to us, we propose to treat the people fairly and honestly and give them value received for every penny they spend with us, and will use our utmost endeavors to meet with the approval of the people in every way that is possible, and will justly appreciate any and all patronage that we receive, which patronage we will endeavor to merit by giving our personal attention to the show, beginning next Monday, October 28th, after which date the show will be under our personal management and supervision.

The New Grand is going to run indefinitely, all reports to the contrary notwithstanding. Give us a share of your patronage and "watch the fun".

Yours very truly,
W. M. WILLIAMSON,
JOHN W. DAY,
Owners of the New Grand.

To Farmers and Stockmen! First Public Sale! November 7, 1912

At my home, 2 miles East of Columbus, Texas

I will offer for sale at public auction, my entire herd of Registered Red Poll cattle, consisting of about 90 head, 18 bulls ranging in age from 6 months to 2 years; 20 heifers 6 months to 2 years old; balance young cows with calves at foot or bred to calve soon. In this herd there are several families or tribes represented which will enable one to buy bull not related to cows and heifers for a foundation herd. In addition to my registered stock I have for sale some high grade 3-4 to 15-16 cows, bulls and heifers, all ages. Same will not be sold at auction, but will be for sale at private treaty.

I wish to call particular attention to this offering of young bulls and heifers, 38 head of as good individuals as can be found in any herd of the best dual purpose breed in the country and the animals speak for themselves.

HISTORY—Red Polls are the great dual purpose breed of cattle especially adapted to the general farmer and equally good for the stock raiser who wants a quick maturing beef animal. For grading up common native cattle, no better cross could be made than from

Mr. and Mrs. Lorin Abbe were visitors to Houston this week.

Mr. S. P. Damon has let the contract to Contractor O. J. Howard for the erection of a brick business house on Main Street. The building will contain two stores. It will be built between the Farmers Supply Company and the Welhausen meat market building, and will cover the space now occupied by the small frame buildings in use by J. W. Schneider, Daniels ice cream stand and Geo. Redford. Mr. Redford will occupy one of the stores in the new building.

A certain automobile agency in a nearby town recently sent the Headlight an offer to carry a fifteen inch advertisement for $2.80 per month. Of course the Headlight turned down the "flattering offer," for we don't take advertising from an out of town auto concern nearly two-thirds cheaper than we charge our home advertisers. We have the same advertising rate to all, but we notice the ad referred to is appearing in a number of our exchanges.

Mr. T. L. Steubing has sold his twenty acre farm two miles north of town to E. L. Mooney. We learn that Mr. Mooney will convert same into an irrigated truck farm.

The idler is never happy. The time hangs heavily on his hands. The busy one never notices its flight. Indeed it seems all too short for the accomplishment of his worthy ends. He is, too, less liable to temptation than the one who finds both time and recreation a bore. Do your level best at all times and in all places. You owe this much to your friends, and to the Higher Power that created you. Then, whether your earthly existence be long or short you will achieve as much happiness as the world can offer, and will be well prepared for the bliss that has no ending. Follow the poet Longfellow's advice and be up and doing with a heart for anything.

A Pathetic Case

The pathetic incident of the unknown little boy killed by a train near Tomball some two weeks ago and whose unidentified remains were buried in an unmarked grave on the railroad right of way, is within itself sufficiently touching to recall to every parental heart that has heard of the circumstance the well known lines of the tender song beginning:

Oh, where is my wandering boy tonight?
Oh, where is my boy tonight?
My heart o'erflows, for I love him he knows.

Oh, where is my boy tonight? But when the further story is told of scores of parents and other relatives of missing boys visiting The Post editorial rooms to see if they could recognize in the photographic reproduction of the dead boy, secured while he lay in the embrace of death in his rude little coffin, the original of a loved one missing from their homes but not from their hearts, the incident becomes one that ought to appeal to every heart in the land for sympathy in behalf of those who have boys wandering they know not where in the broad, un pitying world today.

The problem of conserving the youth of our land, and of throwing those restraints and influences around them that will keep them at home without coercion and make them love the shelter and protection of the parental roof, is one of the most serious that confronts the civilization of the age. It is a problem that must be solved, as prisons and reformatories overflowing with youthful criminals admonish us, else the future will be full of menace for the very race of man. A growing criminal population throws its fatal blight over the whole, and in time the very supports of society will become so weak that it will sink helplessly under burdens itself has helped to impose.

Society as a whole is responsible for the boys that are wandering about the world unprotected, or confined in its prison holds, today, and society may well make the inquiry of itself, where are my wandering boys tonight?—Houston Post.
