(By M. G. O. Frost.)
"Twas a friendly game of poker that we started—just us five.
Sort of needed something to do, so's to pass the time as we sat.
And we made it two-bit limit in a simple game of draw—
Just an innocent amusement as a fellow ever saw.
Gambling? Never you believe it. No one wanted stuff like that.
No one given thought o' makin' more'n a buck to get a hat.
Or a bunch o' smokes, or something; that would let him feel he'd won.
Just a friendly game o' poker—might as well 's played for fun.
Rocked along about an hour, or perhaps it stretched to two,
Playin' loose like understand me, because there's nothin' else to do.
When Mack dealt two baby handfuls and I moseyed to the draw.
Where I copped two more just like 'em—sweetest fours you ever saw.
Then I raised her, oh in and gently, though I liked to bet my pile.
When the other four, among 'em, bumped my raise about a mile.
"More the merrier," I thinks me. "Go ahead, you suckers, bet.
When old Hades freezes over, I'll be stayin' with you yet!"
Say—I had two fulls against me; king-high flush and straight to boot;
And the silence that descended when I gathered in the loot.
Was the kind you'd serve in silence—thick as Pittsburgh's patent smoke.
And Mack's voice was low and solemn when at last he rose and spoke.
He opened our party's credit was unquestioned anywhere.
And his bankbook—here he showed it—proved that he was on the square.
"Twas a friendly game o' poker, but 'twas gettin' kind o' tame;
S'pose we make the sky the limit, so's the bunch could have a game."
"Twas a friendly game o' poker—thoughts of gambling all had spurred;
But 'twas a m. next day before that session was adjourned.
And the O. U.'s were written and polite farewells were said.
And the party straggled homeward to explain and go to bed.
Just a friendly game o' poker that we started—just us five—
For some innocent amusement so's to know we were alive.
None of us would think o' gamblin'—past a little two-bit bet.
But it happened last November and we're hardly speakin' yet."

The tramp sat serene and dirty on the back door-step eating the breakfast for which he had whined, and the servant stood looking at him curiously.
Presently the knight of the road observed the attention she was paying him.
"Wotter yer lookin' at me for?" he asked in idle curiosity.
"Think I'm a long lost cousin?"
"No," replied the maid coolly, "but I must say you remind me of a man I useter know."
"Sweetheart," asked the tramp cooly.
"None of your business!" was the maid's retort. "But something happened to him which'll never happen to you!"
"What's that? Died a millionaire, did he?"
"No; he was accidentally drowned while bathing!" Omaha Bee.

The Popular Girl.

The most popular girl in the school will generally be a girl who excels in games and outside sports. The reason is that to play most games well, a girl must be unselfish; she must "play for her side," and not for her own honor and glory, and she carries this out unconsciously in her daily life. You do not find her thinking that no one else is of any use in the world or putting on airs because she happens to be better looking than her companions, says Home Notes. She is simple and natural, and content to "give and take," and is as strict in her code of honor as her brother in a public school. Such girls will always win, be rich in friends and wherever they go they carry with them a breezy spirit of joy and good fellowship.

There are other girls who, by massaging the affected parts thoroughly when applying Chamberlain's Liniment, this liniment also relieves rheumatic pains. For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

A New Use for Chewing Gum.

Who hasn't had difficulty in dislodging a cinder from the eye? Sometimes one can succeed with a corner of a handkerchief, but frequently the cinder is too deeply imbedded to be got out in that way. It would be hard to find a more sticky substance than chewing gum. The next time you see any one with a cinder in his eye just chew a piece of gum till it becomes soft and pliant, twist it to a fine point and you will find as soon as you touch the cinder with it, out the cinder will come.—Leslie's Weekly.

DANGER FROM GRIPPE

Lies in That Cough and Weak, Worn-Out Condition.

Grippe, pleurisy, pneumonia, these are greatly to be feared at this time of the year.

To prevent grippe from being followed by either pleurisy or pneumonia, it is important to drive the last traces of it out of the system quickly.

Our advice is to take Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron preparation without oil, and get your strength and vitality back quickly.

Mrs. A. A. Grubbs, of Strasburg, Va., says: "Grippe left me weak, run down and with a severe cough, from which I suffered four years. I tried different remedies, but nothing seemed to do me any good until I took Vinol, from which I received great benefit. My cough is almost entirely gone, and I am strong and well again, and I am glad to recommend Vinol to others who suffer as I did."

Try Vinol with the certainty that if it does not benefit you we will give back your money. M. G. Calvert, Eagle Lake, Tex.
