The House of Bargains

Solemn Compact

At an early day in Kansas a couple appeared before a Probate Judge named Aplington to be wed. The Judge had never performed a marriage ceremony, but he determined to do the job according to the statutes in such case made and provided, as he understood them. There was a large and appreciative audience present, and the Judge commenced proceedings:

"Fellow Citizens—This here man and this here woman have appeared before this court to be hitched in the legal bands of wedlock. If any galoot in the mob knows of anything that might block the game of hook to a higher court, let him toot his bazoo, or else keep his jaw to himself now and forevermore. All in favor of my proceeding, as authorized by law, say 'I,' contrary 'No.' Nobody says 'No.' The motion's carried unanimously and the court rules that there is nothing to prevent the trying of the case.

"Now," continued the Judge, "grip your fins." The candidates joined hands. "Amos Peabody, do you solemnly swear that you'll freeze to Mandy forever and provide for her and treat her square and white, according to the rules and regulations set down to govern such cases in the laws of the United States, so help me God?"

"Yes, sir, I do."

"That fixes your end of the bargain. Mandy Thomas, do you solemnly swear that you'll hang on to Amos for all coming time; that you'll nurse him in sickness and be square with him in wellness; that you'll always be to him a good, true, honest, up-and-up wife under the penalties prescribed by the law for the punishment of such offenses. Do you swear this, so help you

God?"

"I swear I will."

"Then, by the power vested in me as Probate Judge in and for Morris county, State of Kansas, I, John Aplington, pronounce you, Amos Peabody, husband, and you Mandy Thomas, wife, and legalize you to remain such now and forevermore; and you'll stand committed until the fees and costs in the case are paid in full, and may God have mercy on your souls."
