A Russian Tea

The May Tea was given Monday by Mrs. R. S. Simmons in her beautiful new home. One of the pleasures of the occasion was the going over of the whole house, which is beautifully and tastefully furnished. Preston Simmons who presided over the musical program rendered on the Victrola, was anxious that the music should suit the occasion and he carefully, the day before selected such pieces as "Nearer My God to Thee," "Abide With Me," etc. On the profane pieces he wrote "Don't play this," "But the best laid plans, etc." (you know the rest). The music got shuffled up. So the church ladies ate the dainty salad luncheon and sipped Russian tea to the notes of the most earthly ragtime. The Russian Tea raised the pew fund $7.00. A storm was brewing and there was a homeward rush amid clouds of dust, lightning and School Inspector Here.

Mr. R. C. Harrison of Austin, representing the State Department of Education, was here Wednesday inspecting and getting a line on the Eagle Lake school. The Department of Education is inspecting and classifying all the schools of the state that the state is assisting financially. Mr. Harrison stated that he was mighty well pleased with the Eagle Lake school. "You have a school and equipment here to be proud of," he said to the Headlight reporter. "It is a pleasure and a recreation to me to visit such a school as you have here in Eagle Lake. Your school shows that there must be a live, wide-awake and energetic board behind it. Your school proves it, and the school work is there and shows for itself."

Best Medicine for Colds

"When a druggist recommends a remedy for a cold, he is usually talking about Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I know, Dr. King's New Discovery is the best throat and lung medicine I sell. It cured my wife of a severe bronchial cold after all other remedies failed. It will do the same for you if you are suffering with a cold or any bronchial, throat or lung cough. Keep a bottle on hand all the time for everyone in the family to use. It is a home doctor. Price 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed by Mont. G. Calvert. Adv.

Handle Briscois & Terrell Crop.

Mr. A. M. McCarty returned Monday from a week's business visit to Kansas City. While he is buying potatoes independently again this season, he has contracted to handle a number of fields of potatoes for Kansas City houses, including the Briscois & Terrell crop of something over two hundred acres.

Sold Spud Crop in Field.

Mr. Wm. J. Magee has sold his potato crop in the field to Messrs. J. E. Roberts, P. T. Gordon and W. E. Welford at one dollar per bushel or close around that figure. Mr. Magee has in about one hundred and eighty-five acres and his crop is said to be as good as there is in this section. Mr. Magee always makes a good crop, regardless of seasons. He's a potato farmer from the word go. The gentlemen purchasing the Magee crop bought for speculation.

Remember the Headlight

HEADLIGHT WANT-ADS BRING RESULTS

Hash House English

Waiters in the cheaper American restaurants possess a vocabulary of slang and a stock of stories replete with humor. There is an old story of a waiter who shouted out his orders in such quaint terms that a traveler determined to baffle the man's ingenuity. The waiter, however, was equal to the occasion, so when the traveler ordered two eggs, which were to be scrambled and served on toast, the waiter translated the order to "Adam and Eve on a raft. Shipwreck them."

Two customers, a man and a woman, who visited a cheap restaurant in New York, were startled when they gave their orders and heard the waiter in turn shout them through a small window to the cook.

"Give me two eggs fried on one side and three slices of crisp, broiled breakfast bacon," ordered the man.

"Two cackles slapped in the face and three squeals crisp," howled the waiter, while the woman looked aghast.

"And yours, madam," said the waiter, innocent of creating any sensation.

"I'd like a steak, well done, covered with onions," she replied.

"One steak, creamed and suffocated," again yelled the waiter.

"What would you like to drink?" asked the waiter.

"The woman ordered a cup of coffee, with cream, two lumps of sugar and, of course, wanted a spoon. The man wanted a cup of coffee without cream.

Here is what the waiter ordered:

"Cup of mud, two chunks of ballast, milk the Jersey, and throw in a scrap of iron; draw another in the dark."

"Did you ever see a Jew come in," said a veteran waiter in another restaurant, "go to a side table, and whisper that he wants pork chops? This is what we tell the cook: 'Forbidden fruit, put out the lights and chase the rabbi!'"

At one of the health resorts in the United States persons in declining health would ask for invalid dishes. Accordingly an order of milk toast with a poached egg on top became known to waiters as "Graveyard stew; tombstone on top."

In the very cheapest class of restaurants "suicide" is the term for a small steak.

Among other terms that may be heard any day in these restaurants are the following:

"Four on two, right and left."

"Two orders of eggs fried on both sides, placed on toast."

"Two cackles and a pig." Pork and eggs.

"Shorty-Brown in swimming."

Short ribs with brown gravy.

"Stack of blankets." Wheat cakes.

"Two chicks on a hill." Chicken croquettes.

"Floating in the ocean." Poached eggs.

One of the regular customers of a city restaurant observed for several mornings that, when serving the dishes, a new waiter would invariably get his fingers in the meat and vegetable dishes. When the aforesaid waiter came around to the table one morning the customer gave the following order supplemented with some sarcastic comment:

"Give me two hard boiled eggs with the shells on, a cocanut and a pot of tea; now get your fingers in 'em, will you?"—Life.
