It Happened in School

The story is told of a teacher who recited to her pupils "The Landing of the Pilgrims," after which she requested each pupil to try to draw from the description a picture of the Plymouth Rock. One little fellow raised his hand and asked: "Please, teacher, do you want us to draw a hen or a rooster?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

His Scheme.

An Italian organ grinder possessed a monkey which he "worked" through the summer months. When the cool days of the fall came his business fell off, and he discontinued his walks and his melodies. An Irishman of his acquaintance offered him ten cents a day for the privilege of keeping and feeding the little beast. The bargain was made for a month.

Great curiosity filled the mind of the Italian, and at last, unable to restrain himself, he went ostensibly to see his pet, but really to find what possible use Pat could make of a monkey. The Irishman was frank. "It is like this," he said. "I put up a pole in me back yard, with the monkey on the top. For twelve thrains of cars loaded with coal go by every evenin'. There's thrains on every car. Every time a wan has bit him, but Oi have seventeen tons of coal."

Two Confessions

The new hubby and his new wifey were being whirled away from the church in the hack with the white horses. Presently he came down out of the clouds sufficiently to notice that she was sobbing on his shoulder.

"Dearest," he murmured, tenderly, "why do you cry?" "Oh, Philemon," she sobbed, "I have deceived you—basely, horribly."

"Oh, this is awful!" he groaned. "Tell me—tell me—the worst at once."

"I c-c-can't c-c-cook!" she sobbed.

His face cleared as if by magic. "Oh, pshaw!" he cried. "Is that all? You needn't worry over that, darling. I'm a poet and there will be precious little to cook!"—Exchange.

He Knew His Audience

Bishop Ames tells a story of a slave master in Missouri in the olden times of negro vassalage who said to his chattel:

"Pompey, I hear you are a great preacher."

"Yes, massa, de Lawd do help me powerful sometimes."

"Well, Pompey, don't you think the negroes steal little things on the plantation?"

"Ise mighty 'fraid they do, massa."

"Then, Pompey, I want you to preach a sermon to the negroes about stealing."

After a brief reflection Pompey replied: "You see, massa, dat wouldn't never do, 'cause 'twould trow such a coldness over de meetin'."—Chicago Record-Herald.

WHY NOT GET A GUARANTEE?

Every Article of Merit that is Sold These Days is Guaranteed—No Guarantee Often Means Poor Quality.

There is very little excuse for any person to claim that he has been "stung" on a purchase. Fifty years ago the buyer had to look out, but today it is unusual to find a merchant who will not return the money for any article that has proved unsatisfactory.

An excellent example of this kind of fair dealing is shown by clean-out guarantee that Calvert's drug store gives on Dodson's Liver-Tone.

These people tell us that any person who pays for a bottle of Dodson's Liver-Tone and does not find it a gentle and most pleasant liver "tonic," harmless, but a sure reliever of constipation and a perfect substitute for calomel, can get his money back just as quick as they can get it out of the cash register.

Dodson's Liver-Tone has practically taken the place of calomel. It is absolutely harmless, sure in its action and causes no restriction of habit or diet. No wonder the drug people are glad to guarantee it, while other remedies that imitate the claims of Dodson's Liver-Tone are not guaranteed at all.—Adv.

Roar of Niagara Falls Was Silenced.

Only once in history has the mighty roar of Niagara Falls been silenced. This phenomenon occurred on March 31, 1849. Early on that morning, states a writer in an exchange, people living near the falls were surprised by a strange, hush—as startling in effect as would be an unexpected and tremendous explosion in an ordinarily quiet community.

With the coming of light the amazed people comprehended the reason for the disquieting silence. Where they were used to see the great falls was a bare precipice down the face of which a few small and constantly diminishing streams trickled. Above the falls, instead of a rushing river, was only a naked channel, with insignificant brooks splashing among the rocks. All day long the falling water continued and persons walked, dry-shod, from the Canadian side, along the very edge of the precipice, as far as Goat Island, on the American side.

Early in the morning of April 1 the familiar thunder of the great cataract was again heard, and has never since been silent, though similar conditions, with like results, might prevail any spring.

The winter of 1847-48 was one of extreme severity, and ice of unprecedented thickness formed on Lake Erie. When the break-up came, toward the end of March, a strong southeast wind was blowing, and the ice was piled into banks as large as icebergs. Toward the night of March 20 the wind suddenly changed to the opposite direction, increased to a terrible gale, and drove the ice into the entrance of Niagara River with such force that a huge dam was formed, of such thickness and solidity as to be practically impenetrable, and strong enough to hold back the great mass of water pressing against it.

At last in the early morning of April 1, the ice dam gave way under tremendous pressure of restrained water, and the falls were once again one of the scenic wonders of the world.—Newark News.

Plenty of Room.

A retired clergyman tells a good story on himself. He used to officiate occasionally as a vacation supply in a suburban church. One Sunday he was accosted by an old lady, a housekeeper in the employ of a friend.

"I want to tell you, sir," said she, "how much I enjoy going to church on the days that you preach."

The clergyman said he was much gratified to hear it.

"Oh, sir," she added, with appealing candor, "I get such a good seat then!"

For a burn or scald apply Chamberlain's Salve. It will allay the pain almost instantly and quickly heal the injured parts. For sale by all druggists.—Adv.
