H. NUSSBAUM :: The House of Bargains

Opposed to Amendment.

The following article opposing the adoption of Section 49 and 52 of article 3, known as S. J. R. No. 18, was handed to the HEADLIGHT for publication:

At a meeting of the Alumni Association of the Agricultural and Mechanical College the following resolutions opposing Senate Joint Resolution No. 18 were adopted:

Whereas, Senate Joint Resolution 18 amending Sections 49 and 52 of Article 3, of the Constitution of Texas, to be voted by the people July 19, 1913, is so framed as to be misleading to the voters, so drawn that in order to reject one measure the voters must reject all, so ambiguous that its most ardent advocates are divided among themselves as its meaning, and

Whereas, Said resolution, if embodied in the Constitution by the taxpayers, would involve the unnecessary expenditure of hundreds of thousands of dollars of the people's money for the establishment of another agricultural and mechanical college at Austin, which would simply attempt to duplicate under less favorable conditions, the work now being successfully carried out by the Agricultural and Mechanical College at College Station, and

Whereas, Many of the most active supporters of this resolution are the very men who very recently made a desperate effort to destroy the Agricultural and Mechanical College, and

Whereas, The proposed amendment places no limit on the amount of bonds that any legislature may issue, and no limit on the amount of interest that may be paid on such bonds, and

Whereas, We yield to none in our interest in the cause of higher education, but as loyal citizens, we hold that no amount of money which might be secured for such a purpose would justify us in advocating a measure that would put in the hands of any legislature the power to bankrupt the State, and

Whereas, We have consulted with eminent legal talent and many members of the Legislature as the meaning and proposed resolution, and they advise us that the amendment is ambiguous, capable of almost any construction and dangerous, not only to the College, but to the State at large, therefore,

Be it resolved, That the Alumni Association of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas, in annual convention assembled, after a thorough consideration and discussion of the proposed amendment to Sections 49 and 52 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Texas, known as Senate Joint Resolution No. 18, believe that the passage of the proposed amendment would be the death knell of the A. and M. College of Texas, and that we pledge ourselves to use every legitimate means to defeat it and call upon every friend of the A. and M. College of Texas to aid us.

Resolved, further, That we regret that in defending the very life of the A. and M. College, it is necessary for us to oppose a measure advocated by an administration which has, heretofore been uniformly friendly to the institution.

Be it further resolved, That copies of this resolution be furnished at once to the press of the State.
