A henpecked husband can sneak as big as anybody when he is alone.

The girls can't fool anybody by padding this winter after they have been walking the streets all summer in those silhouette skirts.

They say charity covers a multitude of sins. One of the sweetest charities is that which refrains from repeating the faults of others.

One of the joys of eating at a restaurant is to see a man bathe

his luxurious moustache in a cup of coffee and then use his lower lip as a vacuum cleaner.

It is folly to waste time depreciating the fashions of women in wearing x-ray skirts. The rainy season is now here and that spider web costume will not stand for a good, soaking rain.

"Kissing isn't dangerous at all,

Chicago's health commissioner.

It sounds reasonable: one meets hundreds of survivors every day.

Eagle Lake Headlight.

McCarty has been married

several years, but he can't help

remembering the events of yore,

when he meets the girls of his day on the streets.—Beeville

Picayune.

Eagle Lake was built around the first store, not around a mail order catalogue.—Eagle Lake

Headlight.

That reminds us of the fact that Brackett was also built around the first store, but the mail order houses are getting a lot of money that ought to be spent at home. Every dollar spent in our stores stays at home and is again put in circulation;

every dollar that goes to the mail order house stays there.—Brackettville News-Mail.

How do you like the town you live in? Pretty fair sort of a place, this Eagle Lake, isn't it?

Otherwise you'd move to some other town wouldn't you? All of us live here and we ought to pull together, and if there is anything wrong with this town, let's right

it. Nobody living in Houston,

St. Louis or Chicago is going to do any pulling for us, but they are doing a lot of pulling from us,

pulling away many of our good

American dollars, which ought to be spent right here, where they would do most good. What is A lot of people treat their religion like fire insurance. They never use it unless they have to.

You don't remember ever running across a man who would admit that he was getting more than he earned, do you?

When you run across a woman who cannot tell you what the other women on the street had on, drop a dime in her cup. She is blind.

Don't groan and holler when you're stuck, just grin and keep real dumb; for what you think is your bad luck would seem good luck to some.

Trouble is not necessary, says an exchange. One is not called on to get into a scrap on every occasion that offers. If a fool insults you it don't matter. A blackguard can't. A gentleman won't. But if an ordinary, honest, common citizen does, then run like the devil for the chances are he's right.

Some big city dailies have men working on big salaries, who go into spasms of humor over country papers that mention as local news the goings and comings of the people in a home town. But should some effete millionaire presents an actress with a kiddie pup those same papers will devote a column of space in a write-up of the affair.

Mary had a little skirt, which was so tight it really hurt; she minced along the crowded street with two-inch steps, a vision sweet. Her movements were so very slow, it almost seemed she didn't go. Her costume was exceedingly warm, 'twas but a matter of pure form. She couldn't catch a trolley car, could Mary, plump and chubby; she couldn't catch an omnibus, but still she caught a hubby.

According to Jeff McLenore it is easier for a Campbell to go through the eye of a needle than it is for a preacher to do anything that looks good to him. If the preachers were a "thorn in the flesh" to us like they seem to be to Jeff we would move to some country where civilization is unknown.—Schulenburg Sticker.

When a person reaches the point he can see no good in any of the preachers, the route mentioned by the Sticker is surely the one to take.

Don't hunt for trouble, but look for success. You'll find what you look for; don't look for distress. If you see but your shadow, remember, I pray, that the sun is still shining, but you're in the way. Don't grumble, don't bluster, don't dream and don't shirk. Don't think of your worries, but think of your work. The worries will vanish, the work will be done. No man sees his shadow who faces the sun.—Eagle Lake Headlight.

This seems to be very good verse, although State Press knows nothing about prosody, but it appears that the ideal of this motif must be an automatic automaton. "Don't dream! Dreams, as State Press understands them, are the foundations of every success. A machine might work, not shirk, not grumble nor bluster nor worry; dreams are the peculiar prerogative of man. Did no one dream of better things no progress were possible. Cold, logical thought can not be applied to the future, for one capable of such brain machination realizes the sheer incalculability of the unknown. But a dreamer does not; if he be of any worth he imagines an ideal condition, and either works mightily to fabricate it or imparts the idea to some other who is a worker.—Galveston News.

If there is anything in the world everybody detests more than a sissy man it is one of these he women.

It always amuses us to hear a woman with two children that she can not make obey her criticise the poor discipline maintained by a teacher with about 42 children to look after.

The Eagle Lake Headlight says we often hear, "My wife and I are one," which always brings up the question, "Which one?" The pronouns summarize it—He and She, but which one is it?—Houston Chronicle.

The chap who spends his money along has nothing for his old age and he who hoards his gold has to leave it behind him when he crosses the Styx. About the only safe way seems to be to die young.

When you hear someone criticize the cause, a man's friends will even conceal his faults. Those who are not his friends will repeat his faults and sometimes they go so far as to exaggerate his faults or manufacture faults for him.

It has been said that the man who squeezes a dollar never squeezes his wife. After looking over the Headlight's subscription books we are led to the conclusion that there are a number of good-looking married women in the Eagle Lake community who are not getting the attention they deserve.—Eagle Lake Headlight.

It is no credit to a woman to be hugged by a tightwad. It indicates that she is of the same stripe as he, for no stingy man really loves a liberal-handed woman. Still, it is a very good idea for either the husband or the wife to be conservative in money matters.—if both are good accountants.

News paper advertising tends to lower the cost of living, according to the consensus of opinion voiced by speakers at a recent meeting of the Commercial Club. It is asserted that the result of soaring prices, it was asserted. The relation of newspaper advertising to the high cost of living was summarized by the speakers as follows: It decreases living expenses. It increases the volume of sale. It increases sales to the consumer, lower prices. Advertisements tell people where to buy cheaply. Bargains would go begging.

HOUSEKEEPERS Must be Watchful

For great efforts are being made in this vicinity to sell baking powders of inferior class, made from alum acids and lime phosphates, both undesirable to those who require high-grade cream of tartar baking powder to make clean and healthful food.

The official Government tests have shown Royal Baking Powder to be a pure, healthful, grape cream of tartar baking powder, of highest strength, and care should be taken to prevent the substitution of any other brand in its place.

Royal Baking Powder costs only a fair price per pound, and is cheaper and better at its price than any other baking powder in the world.
