

H. Nussbaum's Xmas Stock Reducing Sale

In 10 departments will begin on

Monday, Dec. 1, '13

AND WILL CONTINUE UNTIL THURSDAY, DECEMBER 25, 1913

The following departments will be placed on sale at less than wholesale cost. The reason we do this is because it is our motto not to carry goods over from one season to another. We would rather move the goods at a loss. The times are hard in Eagle Lake and everybody knows it, but we are going to make it lively for you for 21 days. We will take the lid off good and strong and will save you many, many dollars by doing your Christmas shopping in these departments.

"Don't sleep in hot rooms."
"Don't eat the fresh air."
"Don't stuff yourself at meal time. Overeating reduces your resistance."
To which we would add—when you take a cold get rid of it as quickly as possible. To accomplish that you will find Chamberlain's Cough Remedy most excellent. Sold by all dealers.—Adv.

THE CHANGE OF FASHIONS GREAT

Article Published in Ladies National Magazine Under Date of May, 1847.

Fashion is proverbially a fickle goddess, but never has she been more so than during the past century. Our great grandmothers delighted in high-heeled shoes, enormous toupees, hoop petticoats; our grandmothers flourished "in immortal youth," under robes with short waists. In our own day we have seen the reign of bishop's sleeves and Dunstable bonnets; of low-necked dresses and high-necked dresses of short cloaks, of long cloaks, and now no cloaks at all.

Old ladies are still living who began life with their hair combed over a cushion on their head a foot high and after passing through the gradations of tight curls, loose curls, long curls and short curls, are now interestingly demurely down the side of their face and set off with a modest Quakerlike cap!

A hundred years ago, that is in 1747, hoop petticoats and white powder worn in the hair were in all their glory.

The hoop petticoat is a fashion now more than three hundred years old.

For outdoor costume, the ladies wore coquettish little hats perched on one side of the head. The modern bonnet was then not yet invented. Indeed, to this day, it is only the women of the United States and England, with the females of the better classes in Europe, that wear bonnets.

In 1777, a lady in full dress resembled in shape an enormous cabbage; in 1797 she had shrunk to the stalk with all its leaves shorn away. In 1777, a fashionable lady could scarcely crowd her way along a modern ball; in 1797, she looked as if she could almost squeeze through the banisters. In 1777 she was an inflated balloon; in 1797, she was a collapsed parachute.

Since that period fashion has played a good many fantastic tricks, but she has never discovered its ground, though occasionally the mode looks that way. Short waists, however, have gone to the "tomb of all the Capulets," never we hope to be revived. We wish the old fashioned stomacher with its stays would come into vogue again, as it would be an effectual check to tight lacing, a habit we fear not easy to banish, though the handsomest figures among our acquaintance belong to women who have never laced.

All rude nations dress suitably to their climate; but the fashion appropriate in one place, when imitated by a Parisian modiste, becomes often ridiculous. Even the fashion proper for Paris is not always proper here.

What changes in fashion may be in store for us, who is prophet enough to tell? But we doubt if the next century will be as fertile in absurdities as the past.

What Would You Do? In case of a burn or scald what would you do to relieve the pain? Such injuries are liable to occur in any family and everyone should be prepared for them. Chamberlain's Salve applied on a soft cloth will relieve the pain almost instantly, and unless the injury is a very severe one, will cause the parts to heal without leaving a scar. For sale by all dealers.—Adv.
