ROAD TAX ELECTION WON IN COUNTY BY 77 VOTES

Light Vote Polled Over the County, But Election Has Carried By Seventy-Seven Votes

The election held in Colorado county last Saturday to determine whether or not an additional road tax shall be levied for the further maintenance of the public roads, and tax not to exceed five cents on the hundred dollars' valuation, carried by 77 votes. The vote at the different boxes in the county was as follows:

Voting Precinct	For	Against
Columbus	92	2
Altair	10	1
Garwood	19	41
Rock Island	15	14
Shedden	11	29
Oak Grove	11	29
Buescher	11	29
Shaw's Bend	9	8
Brushy	13	28
Frelsburg	13	28
Mentz	6	18
Bernado	11	28
Alleyton	15	28
Eagle Lake	92	8
Total	For—355	Against—278

The returns from Provident City had not been received up to last night, and Santa Anna held no election. Should the entire Provident City box go against the tax, it would have no effect on the result, as this is but a small voting box. The above figures show that there was but little interest in the election and only a light vote polled over the county.

The Board of Directors of the Colorado county road tax election, to Judge J. J. Mansfield for furnishing the returns in last Saturday road tax election.

Should Save and Bank It.

If I were a young man on a fairly decent salary I'd decide how much I ought to save out of it each week. Then I would put that amount in the bank each Saturday as I drew my pay, and I'd either live on the other part or starve. I'd rather take the chance of starving a little as a

The Peanut and the Hog.

The business men and farmers of Texas are overlooking a tremendous opportunity for profit where they fail to consider the peanut and the hog in Texas farming. Briefly, the case stands thus:

From ten pounds of corn the farmer can get one pound of pork; from ten pounds of peanuts he can get two and a quarter pounds of pork. An acre of corn producing fifty bushels may be expected to make five hundred pounds of pork; an acre of peanuts producing, say, forty bushels and a ton of hay, will make one thousand to twelve hundred and fifty pounds. As the best weight at which to market a hog is from one hundred and eighty pounds to two hundred and fifty pounds, one could expect two acres of corn to fatten two hogs if he were able to make it. Similarly, a yield of one hundred bushels, the State's average yield is about twenty bushels per acre. Two acres of peanuts should fatten ten to fifteen hogs.

The advantage of the peanut over corn as a pork producer does not fully state the case, for there are other advantages in favor of the peanut in hog raising in the cost of production and the draft upon the soil. Corn is a very exacting crop, requiring plenty of rain, drawing heavily upon bushels per acre takes out of the ground $14.50 in plant food—is a subject to insect pests and plant diseases, and require to be harvested at considerable expense of labor and money. The peanut is a drought-resister, making good yields when corn withers in the field, is a soil builder and few insect enemies; and the hog will do his own harvesting, digging up the ground while rooting for the nuts and fertilizing the soil with animal manure while he feeds. The peanuts requires less cultivation also than corn and will grow better on poorer land.

In a sentence, as a feed for hogs the case may be summed up as being between a drought-afflicted and somewhat expensive crop on one hand and a practically certain and much cheaper crop on the other and the comparative net profits as expressed in pork.

The hog is of all farm animals a quick money-maker. A sow will produce two litters of seven to fourteen pigs a year, and these pigs should be made ready for the market at eight to ten months. The market quotations at present show a two hundred pound animal to be worth $17 at North Fort Worth, or the output of two acres of peanuts in pork is worth, at the market, $170 to $225 as against $85 where the farmer has raised 100 bushels of corn on his two acres, or $40 where he has made the State's average yield. Furthermore, as has been shown, there is less expense to pay in crop production for the peanuts.

The peanut is peculiarly adapted to the sandy loams of Texas, and hog raising is not a business requiring a large investment. Hog raising is within reach of the man with little means, the small farmer who has difficulty in keeping ahead of his debts, and the investment may be turned over several times a year. Business sense, work and study are requisites of success, however, in this as in every other gainful occupation.

The farmers of Stephens county, Okla., are planting 85,000 acres to peanuts this year. In 1913 they had 40,000 acres, and a few years ago the first farmer, seeking relief from the droughts and hot winds that ruined his crops three years out of five, started peanut growing there by planting five acres. There can be no overproduction where the livestock is grown to consume the yield, and the crop is more profitable when marketed on the hoof. These facts should appeal to the farmer, and the banker can well afford to finance the peanut growing hog raiser. In fact, in some sections of the State the banks are already furnishing the hogs on pledges off the farmers' crops.

As payable from the proceeds of the first and second or third and third litters. The importance of the peanut and the hog in Texas farming and farm profits has caused the Texas Industrial Congress to include peanuts in its crop contests this year and the hog in its livestock classes, and to offer special prizes to the farmers who most profitably ness man should interest himself to introduce the peanut and the hog into the farming within his trade territory, and as many farmers as are qualified under the rules of the Congress would do well to write and make application to enter the contest.

The peanut and the hog offer an opportunity for financial independence to many a farmer who otherwise has little hope ahead, and prosperity to replace the frequent hard times in our Texas towns. "The world has no surplus food supply," said Col. Exall, "and one-half the people lie down hungry every night." If the farmers of Texas should devote just a part of their raising to peanut growing and hog raising there would be no likelihood of overproduction, and the result, in adding to their own prosperity, would be to literally add millions to the credit side of the profit and loss accounts of the total business interests of Texas.

A Perfect Separator Oiling System

The new system of De Laval automatic oiling provides for a constant and liberal supply of CLEAN oil to every wearing surface of the machine at all times. There are no oil holes to fill up with dirt or perhaps to be neglected altogether, and every part is supplied with clean oil from the oil reservoir automatically and constantly. In other, so-called, automatic oiling systems some of the parts have to be oiled by hand and no provision is made for getting rid of dirt that may get into the oil from the outside or of small particles of metal which come from wear, so that after a short time the oil supply becomes foul and injurious to the finely adjusted wearing parts.

DE LAVAL

CREAM SEPARATORS have the only automatic oiling system which provides for a constant supply of fresh oil and, at the same time, the constant discharge of the used oil together with all worn metal particles or dirt which may have gotten into the used oil. The perfect system of De Laval lubrication means an easier running and a much longer wearing machine. Come in and let us explain the advantages of De Laval automatic oiling.
