Our Bread Is The Best.

Not His Kind.
"Oh, George," she said, with real sorrow in her look and voice, "why were you so slow? I have just promised to go to the party with Henry. But, my Cousin Beth is here, and you can take her. You will like Beth, I know, for she is both beautiful and brilliant."
"Well," said George, regretfully, "I don't want a beautiful, brilliant girl, at all; I just want you."

A Hopeless Popul.
Into the police court of Mobile there had been haled for the fourth time a negro boy, charged with chicken stealing. The magistrate determined to appeal to the boy's father.
"See here," said His Honor to the parent, "this boy of yours has been up in court so many times for stealing chickens that I am tired of seeing him here."
"I doesn't blame yo', Judge," said the father, "an' I's tired of seein' him here."
"Then why don't you teach him how to act? Show him the right way, and he won't be coming here."

Confident an Enemy Will Appear.
The Irish people are managing to get some old-fashioned fun out of the menacing situation in Ulster. The London Chronicle, which is for home rule, says that at the moment when both bands of volunteers were swarming through an Ulster town a volunteer of some kind, in full panoply of war, was met in the street by a friend.
"So you are going to fight?" said the friend.
"Yes."
"Who are you going to fight, the Nationalists?"
"No, we are not going to fight the Nationalists."

A Yard of Pork.
Rev. Robert Humphreys tells the following story, which is related of the Rev. Griffith Jones, a noted Welsh humorist.
The Rev. Jones was standing in the door of a store which he conducted in his home town, when he was approached by a resident who, knowing his fondness for a joke, asked:
"Can you sell me a yard of pork today?"
"Yes, sir," promptly answered Jones.
"How much is it?"
"Just six shillings."

THE SECRET OF SUCCESS
GENUINE MERIT REQUIRED TO WIN THE PEOPLES CONFIDENCE
Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.
A prominent druggist says: "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy that I know of has so large a sale."
According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder diseases, corrects urinary trouble, and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.
You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address: Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention the Eagle Lake Headlight.

Cough Medicine for Children.
Never give a child a cough medicine that contains opium in any form. When opium is given and more serious diseases may follow. Long experience has demonstrated that there is no better or safer medicine for coughs, colds and croup in children than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is a purely vegetable preparation. It contains no opium or other harmful drug. For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

Backache
Miss Myrtle Cothurn, of Russellville, Ala., says: "For nearly a year, I suffered with terrible backache, pains in my limbs, and my head ached nearly all the time. Our family doctor treated me, but only gave me temporary relief. I was certainly in bad health. My school teacher advised me to take Cardui."
Cardui
The Woman's Tonic
I took two bottles, in all, and was cured. I shall always praise Cardui to sick and suffering women. If you suffer from pains peculiar to weak women, such as headache, backache, or other symptoms of womanly trouble, or if you merely need a tonic for that tired, nervous, worn-out feeling, try Cardui.

The Lesson of Saving.
The people of the South are learning a lesson which will be with them for at least a generation to come. To live within their means and make due provision for the proverbial "rainy day." Too many of us have thought our "rainy day" in life would only come when we were old and feeble, and consequently put off the saving habit for the future, feeling that we had plenty of time—that our earning capacity would be good for many years yet; hence, the stringency occasioned by the war caught many unawares, and they put on their best mettle to meet the exigencies of the present situation; whereas, had we all been safeguarding our individual interests as we should have, the war would have troubled us little. The lesson is: We must save a little as we go along; we must not expect Fortune to be always smiling on us, and must be prepared to meet and brave the storms of adversity that usually come in the lives of all.—Sulphur Springs Gazette.

The Work Cure.
"Little Miss" was waiting for John to come and spade her flower bed early one beautiful spring morning. After waiting until her patience was gone, she began her own spading, in a most determined and provoked manner.
It was not long until old John appeared, with an amused smile on his old black face, and his tattered hat in his hand, bowing and apologizing most humbly. In reply to Little Miss's inquiries as to what had made him so late, he said:
"Well, Little Miss, it's jes' this way: Ez I was comin' by Miss Harney's, she said, John, can't you come in an' fix this flower bed for me? And I jes' went in an' resisted her a minute, an' come right on. And, Little Miss, as I gits in sight, an' sees you a-spadin' an' a-rakin', I says to myself 'John, ef mo' high-bawed ladies struck a hones' sweat, they wouldn't be so much of this heah nervous perspiration. They sholy wouldn't.'"
She was very much in love with him, and one evening, while they were alone, she asked:
"Frank, tell me truly, you have kissed other girls, haven't you?"
"Yes," replied the young man, "but no one you know."

Fever Sores.

Would Never Do.
John Kendrick Bangs, a most persistent jokesmith, once told this yarn about a farmer who was in search of a driving horse: "I have got just the thing you want," said a dealer in equine perversity. "This little animal is only five years old, as sound as a nut, and he goes ten miles without stopping."
"Humm!" cried the farmer.
"He'd neffer do for me. I lift eight miles from here, and mit dot horse I have to walk two miles."
