THE JOKESMITH

Some low made, mostly stolen, some merely borrowed, you can always find a good one, mail it to me.

"Daddy, what are diplomatic relations?"
"There are few, if any such people, my boy."

First Co-ed: "George's mustache makes me laugh."
Second Co-ed: "Tickle me too."

Neil: "What makes you think he's married?"
Belle: "Because he's such a good husband."

New Boarder: "By Gosh, this is an excellent hash, what's your recipe for making it?" Landlady: "I have no recipe. It just accumulates."

Prof: "A fool can ask more questions than a wise man can answer."
Prof: "That's why we all flunk ed."

Professor: "Do you think that Hamlet was insane, Mr. Piffle?" Mr. Piffle: "Well, anyway, he didn't think that people could have more ham by raising less pigs."

Rufus: "Every time they fire one of those big guns $500 goes up in smoke." Goolus: "Why don't they use smokeless powder?"

Professor (to freshman): "Please tell me what has become of your ethics?" Freshman: "I traded it in for a good job for a Hudson."

He: "Did you hear about Pete?"
She: "Hurt him?"
He: "No, he said the only thing he noticed was that he made holes in his handkerchief every time he blew his nose."

1st Wolf: "Have you been at Mrs.
Burgard's door?" 2nd Wolf: "No. She'd make a muff of me."

"So you played golf the first time yesterday, eh, Rastus? Did you do any slicing?"
"No, sah. Ah didn't git mad at nobody."

O'Flaherty: "Was the best man at the O'Connor wedding?" O'Toole: "I don't know. They didn't fight."

Stranger: "They harvest ginseng only once in seven years." Farmer: "You don't say so! That new hand I just hired belongs to a ginseng farm."

Supporters: "A visiting team." Rotten ground this! It's hardly a blade of grass on it." Home team supporters: "Well, haven't come to graze have you?"

Bill: "Do you realize that it takes three-fourths of my income to keep you in clothes?" Hermie: "Is that so? What do you do with the rest of your money?"

"Your doctor's out here with a flat tire." "Diagnose the case as flatulence of the perimeter, and change him accordingly," ordered the gate man. "That's the way we do it."

Minister: "I do wish I could think of some way to make the congregation keep their eyes on me when I'm preaching such good sermons."
"Little son—Father, you want to put the clock right behind the pulpit."

One day little Eleanor Jane was watching her mother canning fruit.
After the rubber rings had been put on several cans Eleanor Jane exclaimed: "Oh, mamma, let me and the garter on the rest of them."

1st Actor: "Did you make good out of those bloodhounds in your Uncle Tom's Cabin show?" 2nd Actor: "Oh, yes. We set them on the manager to make him come across with our money."

"I'm a daughter of the Revolution," proudly stated the matronly-dressed and important looking woman at a meeting in Washington.

to them. "You," she said, coldly,
"have loved before!"

While had been absent from school two days during the first week. The teacher sent word to his mother to leave the room, and the mother sent a note as follows:
"Dear Teacher: Willie got wet in the a. m. and sick in the p. m.
Please excuse."

Memorandum—I understand that two towns in this section are engaged in a water war over who was the birthplace of Professor Coprolite.

Progress—Yes Kokomo claims it was Kokamoo and Kalamazoo claims it was Kokomo.

Campaign Manager—I hear poor Johnson has lost his memory. He can't remember a thing from one day to another.

Candidate—He'd be a good man to take charge of our campaign contributions.

At a recent conference of teachers, one of the school principals rose and made a "pep" talk and then proposed a toast, in pure cold water: "Long live the teachers of this great state."

An under fed, pallid, wrinkled, wizened, weak, shaky little woman got up and asked, in a tremulous voice, "What on?"

An Englishman observed to an American abroad, "Wonderly pushing country, your 'America,' but it's too bad really that you've no titled leisurely class, don't you know?"

"We have 'em all right," said the American. "We call them tramps!"

Geofus—Did you hear that thieves had stolen a brand new $5 hammock from Harry Davis yesterday?

Geofus—You mean the one that he sleeps in?

Geofus—Yes. And the funniest part of it is that the thieves stole it right while he was sleeping in it.

Little Bride (whispering)—Oh, the days of chivalry are past.

Rubby—What's the matter with my ducky now?

Little Bride—Matter enough! Sir Walter Raleigh laid his cloak down on the ground for Queen Elizabeth to walk over, but you flew off the handle just because poor, dear mother sat down on your hat and crushed it.

"This is tough luck," said Ham, mournfully, as he leaned out of the windows of the Ark.

A man consulted a physician for a general run-down condition. The doctor told him he was suffering from "exhaustion," and told the doctor he wouldn't dare tell his wife that, and asked for some big word to tell her, that would obscure the meaning. The doctor refused to
