SAGE OF CALHOUN WRITES OF LYNCHING

The Headlight has received the following communication from T. L. Sorell of Calhoun:

"Talking about the Columbus lynching, and it has already been talked about too much, the Houston papers handled the affair with considerable diplomacy. They didn't defend the Columbus citizens, but as mouliders of public opinion, they had to deplore lynching. I believe, however, that down in their innermost recesses, they thought it was a good job well done.

One of them remarked that it would give the northern papers an excuse to blame the south. The north's attitude on what they call the negro problem is understandable enough, but they are wrong. Their experience has been limited to their actual knowledge of the subject is nil. In short, they just don't know.

But now comes a prominent club woman from our own section who advises and almost commands Governor Allred to do something about it right now. She omitted an expression of sympathy for the poor
