There is much reckless and industry-inspired talk in Washington of late that gasoline prices may double in the next year. If the Nixon Administration allows that to-happen, the 1976 Republican candidate can kiss his chances of success goodbye-and deservedly so.

Experience shows once prices of necessities rise, they seldom go down again. Thus the critical fight at the moment is to hold the price line, as far as possible, in this shortage period. Those who argue that higher prices will automatically take care of the situation overlook the fact that it is the poor and lower middle classes-the majoritywho will suffer in such a situation, while big business and the rich go on as before, ignoring the shortage problem.

THE NEED FOR REST

(By Richard B, Douglass) A noted husiness executive was recently asked his secret for doing mountains of work, 11-could never get it all done working 7 days a week. I manage it easily in 6." He was not trying to talk in riddles. He was simply saying that a person's body and mind have to have a rest. God created man, .He knows that it is necessary that men have a rest from their labors. This is the reason for giving the commandment, "Remember the sabbath day, to keep it holy." God made this day for more than res or recreation though. He made 11 for worship, Wor ship restores the soul.. It recharges our batteries as nothing else can do. Simple rantia not apough. It takes worship to prepare a man for the tasks of the week.

When this commandment is read, many wonder why Christians worship on the first rather than the seventh day. When God finished the work of creation, He rested on the seventh day. This set the example for Old Testament believers. In the New Testament, God finished the work of redemption with the resurrection of Christ, This was ... on the first day of the week. After the resurrection, Christians worshiped on the first day of the week. They observe the sabbath of redemption.

One of the most interesting facets of this command relates to work. God positively states, "Six days shalt thou labor." Not only are posedly to have-coffee with and worship, but we are to we to have a holy day of rest have a week of work, Many
