Miss Theresa Theuman Becomes Bride
Of Joseph Connally Laughlin Dec. 22nd

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH CONNALLY LAUGHLIN

Our Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic Church was the setting for the marriage of Miss Theresa Frances Theuman and Joseph Connally Laughlin, Saturday, December 22nd at five o'clock in the afternoon.

Miss Theuman, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Miles Theuman, and Mr. Laughlin, son of Dr. and Mrs. Jones Connally Laughlin, exchanged vows before the Reverend Edward Geiser. A nuptial mass followed the exchange of vows. Altar boys were John Trapp, Stephen and Shawn Spantzel and lecturer was Draper Stephens.

The church was resplendent for the wedding with the glow of candles down the entire aisle and chancel area. To either side of the altar were immense urns, atop tall pedestals, filled with white gladioli, viburnum and plumosus. Two couple arrangements of white gladioli, viburnum and plumosus flanked the cross on the altar. Spiral candelabra entwined in plumosus fern and holding tall ivory baroque candles at each side of the chancel completed the setting at the altar.

The entire length of the aisle was a glow with standards of aisle candelabra entwined in plumosus. Family pews were marked by nosegays of fresh "poin" - viburnum, gladioli and plumosus.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was lovely in a formal gown designed by Blanchi. The floor length gown of ivory silk peau de sole was fitted with a high waist. Lace and pearl detail embellished the front panel. The full bishop sleeves were embroidered with pearl and lace detail with a hand cuff. From a row of buttons at the back of the gown, soft gathers draped into a regal sweep ending in a court length train.

The bride wore a cathedral length veil of silk illusion attached to a Juliet caplet. Her bouquet was a large cascade of Forever Yours red roses with gypsophylla with variegated Oregon holly.

For something old she wore a dinner ring which belongs to her mother; for something new, her wedding gown; something borrowed, a pair of pearls; and something blue, belonging to Jerry Lou Pate; and for something blue, her garter. A penny was placed in her shoe by Susan Kaluza, flower girl, by Susan Kaluza, flower girl, the groom's sister.

All were identically dressed in gowns of deep Christ-mas red silk velvet. Each was fashioned with a round lace edged neckline, long sleeves and a floor length skirt. Matching slippers and bandeau of fresh Forever Yours red roses and gypsophylla for the hair completed each attendant's ensemble. Each carried a nosegay of red roses, gypsophylla and Christmas snowflake mistletoe, variegated Oregon holly.

Serving the groom as best man was Marshall Willis, Groomsmen were Curtis Fitzpatrick, Tom Laughlin, Sammy Meitzen and Henry Dostal, Jr.

The wedding guests were ushered by the groomsmen and Ross Obenhaus.

Organist for the ceremony was Mrs. Leon Spantzel. She played an interlude of organ selections prior to the processional and accompanied the bride and groom, soloist for the wedding. She sang

The wedding Prayer, Pans Angelicus at the Communion, and Mother Dear, Oh Pray For Me.

Mrs. Theuman selected a street length dress of pale pink for her daughter's wedding, accented with a pink rose corsage.

RECEPTION FOLLOWS

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Theuman honored the couple with a reception in Diner Hall.

Upon entering the hall, guests were registered at a table covered in a floor length cloth of satin and organza accented with red velvet bows at each corner. A memory candle was placed to one side of the table.

The bride's table was covered in a floor length cloth of satin and sheer embroidered organza. A large gold and crystal sphere held a centerpiece of deep red roses, Oregon holly, Japanese pine and eucalyptus with four tall ivory taper. A silver punch service was at one end of the table with the tall column wedding cake at the opposite end. The cake was garlanded with clusters of fresh red roses with a pair of doves on top.

Next to the bride's table was the groom's table covered in a floor length cloth of white satin with a red felt coverlet. A Christmas arrangement in a silver and crystal candelabrum of red carnations, white mums, Oregon holly and spruce branches centered the table. To one side was the silver coffee service and to the opposite side the German chocolate groom's cake.

A buffet table nearby was covered in a floor length cloth of white with a red felt coverlet. A menu of various party sandwiches, pickles, olives, sliced ham and turkey breast with party breads, popcorn mustard and mayonnaise was served from all silver appointments.

The champagne table and gift table were also covered in floor length white cloth with red felt coverlets. The champagne table was centered with an immense hurricane chimney and red candle nestled in a large silver bowl filled with Christmas holly, spruce and pine with red velvet accents. The gift table was centered with a tall manzanita branch forming a rice bag tree.

Members of the houseparty were Misses Rhonda Koch-wel, Monica Kaluza, Connie Breithaupt, Susan Braden, Rhonda Schilling and Mrs. Mike Wood. Each wore a corsage of peppermint carnations.

Following the reception the couple departed on a brief wedding trip. The bride chose for travel a white and navy ensemble with a red rose corsage.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Laughlin are now at home in Lake Jackson, Texas.

REHEARSAL DINNER

The rehearsal dinner was hosted by Dr. and Mrs. Jones Connally at Jack's Restaurant on Friday evening, December 21st at eight o'clock in the evening.

Champagne was enjoyed before the delicious steak dinner was served to the honored guests, their parents, wedding attendants, the Rev. Edward Geiser and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Moore of San Antonio, relatives of the groom.

The white covered tables with a U-shaped effect were decorated with red and green Christmas arrangements. The honored couple and wedding attendants were seated at the head table. Seated at the second table were the guests and the wedding party. At the third table were seated parents of the bride and groom, the Reverend Edward Geiser and Mr. and Mrs. Moore, seated gifts to their attendants.

Lesson

(John 13:1-5; 12-14; 34-35)

A Roman historian tried to explain why the much persecuted Christians of the first few centuries finally became such a powerful influence in the empire. "The Christians, out-loved, out-thought, and out-died their enemies," he explained. The distinctive love of the Christians was something that has been a constant source of comment by writers throughout the centuries. The reason seems simple. Christian love stands in bold contrast to the kind of love that can be found in other people. It is love that cares for people whether they deserve it or not.

In John 13:1-5 Jesus told his disciples: "A new commandment I give to you, that you love one another; even as I have loved you; that you also love one another. By this all men will know that you are my disciples, if you have love for one another." The setting in which Jesus made this statement is the washing of the feet.

The disciples of Jesus had gone to the home of one of Jesus' friends to prepare the Passover Feast. After the feast was prepared and Jesus and the disciples had seated themselves, Jesus got up and took a basin of water and a towel. He began to wash the feet of the disciples.

It was the custom that one member of each group be responsible for the washing of the feet of everyone, if there was no servant in the home. The job was a servant's task. The need was two-fold. The men wore sandals and their feet needed washing. The washing was also a ceremonial prayer for cleaner behavior. Baring a religious meal that was to remind them of the great deliverance God gave to His people during the Exodus. None of the disciples wanted to accept the role of a servant. Their pride would have been offended. So Jesus took the task.

Jesus used this occasion to teach the disciples a lesson on love. This occasion became the backdrop against which he could give them a commandment related to loving one another. In a dramatic way, Jesus stated that love expresses itself in service. It is not merely a matter of words. We can say that we love someone with great emotion packed into every word. The reality of that love becomes evident when we do something. What we do may seem like a very menial job. It might look like we are doing a slave's task. But love becomes clear when it is expressed in meaningful service.

Christian love is caring enough to do something. It may be expressed in words when words are what is needed. But it always goes beyond a simple verbal expression when a concrete action is in order. Christian love reaches out to meet the needs of people in every area of their lives. When Christians express this kind of love, future generations of historians will continue to point out that Christians are characterized by their love.

With so many diverse groups in the state - rural, urban, agricultural, industrial - it is not surprising that we have a wide variety of needs. It is our job to see that the final proposal adequately reflects the views of the people of District 30.

As the Convention convenes, I intend to issue a weekly report to you, my constituents of District 30. I hope to keep you informed of the progress of the Convention because you, in the final analysis, will be the sole judge of our work. Therefore, I would appreciate your responses to my reports and additional advice to help me better represent the needs of District 30.

Rep. Wilson
Reports On Convention

(By Representative John Wilson)

On Tuesday, the Constitutional Convention began with all the pomp and ceremony of a truly historic event. Lieutenant Governor Hobby presided until Speaker of the House Price Daniel, Jr. was elected permanent president. Lieutenant Governor Hobby urged the 161 delegates to "write a new chapter of Texas history."

Atomic Energy Commission. That gives us, at best, a start date of 1976, and completion in the 1980's.

This plant will help relieve our fuel supply problems in the future. Because a nuclear generating plant doesn't rely on natural gas or fuel oil. Both of which are in short supply.

If this plant were in operation today, it could supply a large part of the electricity needed for our entire service area.

Then why isn't it in operation now?

Here's the answer: While nuclear plants are a tried and proven alternate solution to other methods of generating power, the concept is fairly new. For example, in 1973, there were only 39 nuclear units operating in the United States, with another 161 being planned.

most difficult option to represent the opinions of his constituents, and the battle which will ultimately end in compromise should be fierce. However, I am confident that principles will be placed above politics and that the Convention will produce an acceptable Constitution. Please remember that the new Constitution will be submitted to the voters and can be enacted only if the people of the State approve it in the November general election.

As the Convention convenes, I intend to issue a weekly report to you, my constituents of District 30. I hope to keep you informed of the progress of the Convention because you, in the final analysis, will be the sole judge of our work. "HOW WILL A
NUCLEAR
ELECTRICITY
FUTURE?"

In recent weeks Central Power and Light has been telling you and Mr. Joe Bond of Edinburg about some of the problems associated with the energy crisis here in South Texas.

We've leveled with you as to the severity of the problem, and asked for your help. And now we'd like to give you a look at part of the solution to our problem.

Between Palacios and Bay City, a nuclear plant is being planned by CPL. This plant is being planned by the City of Austin, and the City Public Service Board of San Antonio.

It takes approximately three years to collect the necessary data, prepare reports and receive the construction permit from the

And, building a nuclear facility is a major undertaking. It takes time... and money. CPL's part in this joint venture project will take hundreds of millions of dollars over the next several years. Dollars spent long before one kilowatt of power is generated.

CPL is doing everything possible to protect your supply of electricity... for tomorrow as well as for today. And the South Texas Nuclear Project is just one of the answers.

If you'd like to know more about the energy crisis in South Texas... what we're doing about it, and how you can help, write John Speaker, P.O. Box 2121, Corpus Christi, Texas 78403.
