State CROP Director Speaks To Rotarians

Says 15,000 Die Daily of Hunger

Earl Bowers, the Texas Regional Director for CROP, the Community Hunger Appeal of Church World Service, with headquarters in Austin, was the guest speaker at the noon meeting of the Eagle Lake Rotary Club last Wednesday.

The director told the Rotarians and guests that an estimated 15,000 persons die daily from hunger.

"In the next forty years, we are going to have to change our eating habits in light of food shortages caused by the population explosion," stated the speaker. He said that the population of the world will double by the year 2000 and will continue to multiply rapidly from that time on.

He discussed the work of the CROP organization pointing out that only 24% of the contributions are required for administration and shipping costs, leaving 76% of each dollar to be used for food.

"This is why CROP is the best way to make an impact on the world to give people something for nothing," said Bowers. Therefore CROP is concentrating its efforts not in handouts of food but in hiring men to work in order to provide a livelihood and food for their families.

He pointed out that it is impossible to meet all the needs of the world, so CROP is directing its efforts into areas where possible starvation can be headed off.

"For $10 you can save the life of a child," he said.

He also said the most efficient means of obtaining that assistance, arrangements for qualified treatment or services will be made by the Texas Easter Seal Society.
