Screwworm Alert Is Sounded

Warm weather and rains over a big part of Texas have combined to provide ideal conditions for the most serious livestock pest in the state - the evermenacing screwworm.

Stockmen should be particularly alert for this flesh-eating pest at this time because infestations can build up rapidly in late spring and early summer unless all cases are reported as soon as possible.

Regular herd checks and the treatment of all wounds are essential to keep screwworm cases at a minimum.

Any wounds found in livestock wounds should be sent to the Mission Lab, Box 969, Mission, Texas 78147. Kits for making the worm samples are available from the county Extension office and local livestock inspectors and veterinarians.

If the worms are confirmed as being screwworms, sterile male flies will be dropped over the area where the con-

REFLECTIONS ON International Sunday School Lesson

(Psalm 107:10-11; Matthew 4:10)

A number of years ago, a man was passing through a small African village. He happened to notice some children playing marbles with some rather rough stones. His trained eye detected beneath the stones a diamond. He quickly traded the children out of their marbles, and obtained twelve million dollars worth of stones and some classified to the finding of one of the world's great diamond mines.

The value of those diamonds depended on the user, and on how they were used. As marbles in the hands of children they had little value. As diamonds in the hands of an expert, they became objects of great value. This is true of the Bible.

Christ demonstrated that the best way to deal with temptation is by depending on the Bible. The Gospel accounts tell that he went into the desert and fasted for forty days. Then Satan tempted him with the basic type of temptation that people face always. Each temptation was answered with a verse from the writings of Moses. The account demonstrates that a man in his weakest condition, filled with the God's spirit, and armed with God's word can resist any temptation.

The usefulness of the Bible comes in its practical application to our lives. It gives us the guidance and insights necessary for facing the problems and temptations of daily living. Owing or carrying a Bible has little value unless it is also read and applied to daily living. It is the world's most useful book when it is used this way.

Atoms are mostly hollow. If the nucleus in the center were enlarged until it measured an inch wide, the electrons swirling around it would form a spherical envelope 600 feet across - the length of two football fields.

REFLECTIONS ON International Sunday School Lesson

(Psalm 107:10-11; Matthew 4:10)

A number of years ago, a man was passing through a small African village. He happened to notice some children playing marbles with some rather rough stones. His trained eye detected beneath the stones a diamond. He quickly traded the children out of their marbles, and obtained twelve million dollars worth of stones and some classified to the finding of one of the world's great diamond mines.

The value of those diamonds depended on the user, and on how they were used. As marbles in the hands of children they had little value. As diamonds in the hands of an expert, they became objects of great value. This is true of the Bible.

Christ demonstrated that the best way to deal with temptation is by depending on the Bible. The Gospel accounts tell that he went into the desert and fasted for forty days. Then Satan tempted him with the basic type of temptation that people face always. Each temptation was answered with a verse from the writings of Moses. The account demonstrates that a man in his weakest condition, filled with the God's spirit, and armed with God's word can resist any temptation.

The usefulness of the Bible comes in its practical application to our lives. It gives us the guidance and insights necessary for facing the problems and temptations of daily living. Owing or carrying a Bible has little value unless it is also read and applied to daily living. It is the world's most useful book when it is used this way.
