Unique Disciples Spread Farming Over New Land

Farmer 'Forty-Niners' sailing to California carried seeds with them.

With a second case of hog cholera confirmed near Hargrett in the Texas Panhandle during the month of July, Texas has lost its "hog cholera free" status, advises the county extension agent, P. Johnnie Cooper.

The state was declared "hog cholera free" about a year and a half ago but has now lost its designation as the disease has spread in the area where it was first detected on July 4th.

Since the disease can remain undetected in a herd for a number of months, officials with the USDA Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service will be keeping a close check within a 100-square mile area that is under state and federal quarantine.

The infected herds have been destroyed along with 23 additional herds that were possibly exposed to the infected animals. Five herds have also been destroyed in Oklahoma due to possible exposure to the diseased herds. The producers are indemnified on a basis of an appraisal.

Hog cholera is a highly infectious virus fatal to swine. However, it affects no other livestock and is not transmissible to humans.

Swine producers in Colorado County are urged to keep a close check on their herds and to report any suspicious disease signs to a local veterinarian or animal health official.

Signs of hog cholera include high fever and loss of appetite. Other signs may include abnormal death losses among young pigs or possible abortions.

The disease can spread rapidly and deal a severe blow to the swine industry unless producers keep a close check on their herds and report any sick animals.

Those who register its "hog cholera free" status six months following the last reported infection.

Texas No Longer 'Hog Cholera Free'

Brown Speaks to Rotary On Defensive Driving

Clyde P. Brown, the superintendent of the Tennessee Chiropractic Plan and a certified Defensive Driving Instructor, was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Eagle Lake Rotary Club on Wednesday of last week and stressed the importance of defensive driving.

Brown pointed out that statistics in the state show that there were 56,400 traffic fatalities in the state in 1972 and under the lower 10 percent of the driving fatalities the driver killed was under the influence of alcohol.

"Defensive driving calls for diligent driving one mile at a time, constantly in control of all facilities, and watchful for the other fellow's driving," said the speaker. He urged all who have not taken the defensive driving course from their mothers. Sows should be wormed at breeding time and again shortly before farrowing.

Once pigs are weaned, they should be treated with a worm medication. Since there is no medication to kill all worms, producers may want to have the pig's fecal sample examined by a veterinarian to determine what parasites are present. Then an effective medication can be recommended.

With the current prices of hogs, producers should take every step to assure good herd health. Controlling internal parasites goes a long way in boosting the performance of the swine herd.

Brown was introduced by Albert Postelovsky, program chairman for the DD course and in charge of the DD course that will be given to the retired persons in October.

Gregory, Duyka Graduate at Southwest Texas

Gregory Duyka, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Duyka of Eagle Lake, was among the graduates receiving degrees at Southwest Texas State University last Saturday, Aug. 16th. Graduation exercises were held at 8 p.m. in Evans Field in San Marcos.

Duyka received a Bachelor of Arts degree from the School of Education with a major in Psychology.

Mrs. Anton Duyka and daughter, Carolyn, and son, Clifton of Houston, were among those attending the exercises.

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTEBOOK

By P. JOHNNIE COOPER, Colorado County Agricultural Agent

Many vegetables do not grow satisfactorily during the late spring and summer are better adapted for fall and early winter production in Colorado County.

By starting with transplants now, warm season vegetables such as tomatoes, egg plant and peppers can be grown with reasonable success for harvest, especially when the plants are protected from the first killing frost.

If you still have live tomato plants left from the spring that show signs of growth, rejuvenate them rather than starting from transplants. Cut off all old stems above the new growth. Keep the plants watered and fertilize them with about one tablespoon balanced fertilizer per plant once a week for three or four weeks.

August through early September is the time to make the last planting of summer squash and cucumbers for slicing and pickling.

Green beans planted during August or early September usually produce the best quality for freezing and canning, since the harvest occurs during cooler weather when the fiber content is low.

Additional information on fall vegetable gardening is available from the county Extension office.
