This new year is the Chinese New Year, The Chinese officially adopted the Gregorian calendar, but even so, they still celebrate their new year using the old Chinese lengar. According to this calendar, their year contains three hundred and fifty-four days and twelve lunar months, about one half of them with thirty days and the other half with twenty-nine. In order to make the months correspond with the movements of the planets a thirteenth month is inserted every two or three ears and two months are added every five years. The new year begins on the twentieth day of the first moon and it may fall anywhere from January 21 to February 19. nclusive. The advent of the new year is celebrated by festivities continuing from one week to a month. The new year is celebrated . by many of the old ceremonies. The use of fireworks, common in China, has been forbidden in American cities for several years but the rule is sometimes suspended for the festi-

New Students Arrive at Rice

(By Mark Hoover) Eight students have enrolled in classes at Rice High School since December. Rice has gained three freshmen, three sophomores, and two juniors. The three freshmen are Carol Holzmann, Debra Irish and Gary Parish. Debbie Norris, Maria Losoya and William Raabe make up the three new students who have enrolled in the sophomore class. The two juniors are Pam Parish and Rose Alaniz,

Out of the eight new students enrolled at Rice High School one girl arrived from Stewart High School, Stewart, Nebraska. The other students arrived from other various points such as El Campo, Columbus, La Feria and Haskell, Texas.
