EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

Water Amend. On Nov. 2 Ballot

Few Texans are aware of it, but in addition to elections candidates from president on down Nov. 2, they will be asked to vote on a constitutional amendment said needed to provide water funds for the state's future.

The proposed amendment would authorize an additional $400 million for water development bonds handled through the Texas Water Development Board. Some $235 million in bonds for 80 water development projects already have been funded under the current $400 million authorization. Critics claim that the current project already has drained $6.6 million from general taxes for debt payment.

A second amendment would authorize $100 million in water quality improvement bonds, but the water development issue is the item drawing the most attention.

The funds would permit construction of additional reservoirs, water treatment plants, transmission lines and water storage badly needed in the state, according to Texas House Speaker Bill Clayton.

The speaker said about 500 municipal water systems are going to face problems meeting new federal Safe Drinking Water Act standards and the development fund is the only place many of the small towns and communities can go to get their water supply and improvement projects financed.

Texas now uses 33 million acre-feet of water annually for municipal, industrial and agricultural purposes. Routine anticipated growth by the year 2020 is expected to require a total of 30 million acre-feet per year.

Clayton said the charge for the bonds will amount to about $2.50 per person in Texas over the bonds' 10-year maturity, or about 25 cents per year per person.

The speaker also said the legislature next year likely will consider the possibility of reorganizing the state's three major water agencies: Water Development Board, Water Quality Board and Water Rights Commission.

The water bonds amendment deserves attention of the state's voters because the project will mean literal life and death for some of the state's small towns and cities.

3 Arrested In County For Abduction

Three men were arrested in Colorado County around 1940 a.m. Tuesday, August 29th as suspects in the robbery and abduction of a Channelview man, Robert Lee Johnson, 34.

It was reported that Johnson was driving an International van truck when he stopped to assist a stranded motorist. He said officers he picked up a hitchhiker whom he later identified as J. Andrew Cain, 25. He said the man pulled a .32 caliber revolver and ordered him to drive about 200 yards where they picked up two other men. Johnson said the men robbed him of $60, then drove to a spot on a county road near Brookshire where one of the men pulled a knife and slashed his throat.

Johnson said he played dead and was left on the road. When the trio drove off he got up and later was picked up by a constable from Brookshire.

Two-Thirds Of First Crop Rice Sold

The Eagle Lake office of the American Rice Growers Association has offered nearly all of the 1976 first crop rice up for bids and manager Donald Obenhaus reports that about two-thirds of the rice put up for bids has been sold on bids offered.

The market seems to be strong on $7.25 per cwt. as the top bid. That was the top figure offered in a sale on Wednesday for last week for five lots of rice, all LaBelle variety, grown by A. W. Kohlfel, Vernon Gertson, Ralph Gertson, and Robert Adkins, two lots. Riviana continued the leading bidder with top bids on fifteen of the twenty lots offered for sale. There were 182,053 cwt. in Wednesday's offering.

Monday's sale found fifteen lots of rice, totaling 61,391 cwt. going up for bids and $7.25 cwt. was the top bid again offered by Comer for a lot of LaBelle grown by Robert Adkins.

A total of 1,106,431 cwt. has been offered through the local office to date. Obenhaus expected to have another sale on Wednesday of this week and that should just about complete the offerings of first crop rice for the 1976 season.

Future Water Shortages Coming Rotarians Told

Thornton, commented that water regulations are becoming so severe that in the near future even the private landowner will be required to obtain a permit to drill a well. He sounded a dark note for local rice farmers with the prediction there could be a water shortage on the Colorado River within several years.

He noted that the Texas Water Development Board is now requiring that all water users in the state refine and improve their rights for use of water for irrigation and for other purposes. ## Wharton Co. Sheriff Flounroy In Shooting

A 27-year-old Wharton truck driver was shot and killed by Wharton County Sheriff H. R. "Mike" Flounroy late Wednesday night, Aug. 25th outside a Wharton restaurant after the man pulled a gun.

Dead on arrival at a Wharton hospital was Frank Gentry, an Army veteran of the Vietnam war who had been out of the service two years. He died at approximately 11 p.m. after being hit twice on the left side from Flounroy's 45-caliber automatic, one of the bullets exiting the ribs on the right backside and the other penetrating the center of the sternum.

"It was either me or him," Flounroy said, adding, "I almost walked and went long. I thought I might already have been shot."

There is a possibility that the Wharton County Grand Jury will be called back for a special session to study the case, but according to County Attorney Homer Taylor, "to my knowledge they will not be recalled. According to the information I have, I don't see any point in it. It will be handled like any other investigation."

The next regularly scheduled session of the Grand Jury is not until October.
