An Editorial On Equality

(By Mark Hoover)
Some people call me the resident critic, but I am not. I simply report the news as it is and nothing else. There is, however, one pet peeve I have: nothing against the teachers here at Rice. They all do their best to the best of their ability, but there should be equality among the teachers and students at least in the lunch line. If not, then would someone please tell me "It's kind of hard to believe 'Two Face'." (By Barbara Baker)
On Tuesday, March 28, Rice High School's one-act play, "Two Face," journeyed to Sweetry to participate in zone competition. The winner of being alternate, the two first places going to Columbia High School and Wharton High School.

Kyle Walker was chosen Best Actor at the competition and Judy Ashby was named to the All-Star cast. An honorable mention award was presented to Susan Kell. The play, entitled "A Slave with Two Face," was under the direction of Mrs. Barbara Mackey. Congratulations to Mrs. Mackey and the entire cast for their superb performance.

Are they privileged? It would seem that way. But why? Is it because they are older or more educated? I have nothing against the teachers here at Rice. They all do their best to the best of their ability, but there should be equality among the teachers and students at least in the lunch line. If not, then would someone please tell me "It's kind of hard to believe 'Two Face'."
