Houston Oilers Reihner, Bethea and Meins Hunt Here

Several members of the Houston Ollers football organization were treated to a successful goose hunting expedition by guide Larry Wiese on Friday morning of last week. The group, hunting on D. R. Wintermann land, bagged nine greese and three ducks on the hunt and saw thousands more flying nearby despite the recent drought of birds in the area due to the extreme cold weather. Members of the hunting party included, shown L to r., George Reihner, starting offensive guard for the Oilers: Elvin Bethea, starting defensive lineman; Wiese; Denver Zatyka, distributor for Lone Star Beer in Rosenberg: Jerry Meins, head trainer on the Oiler staff; and Doug Griffith, member of the Triumphs rock band. Also pictured at bottom is Meins' Black Lab, Missy, who is shown holding up her share of the kill. Despite the wet weather, fire ants and other minor injuries resulting from the hunt, the group reported having a most enjoyable time and is planning to return next year. Bethea, Wiese, Zatyka and Meins are all members of Ducks Unlimited.
