Garwood ARG Assn. Sends Dale Popp To Nat'l Institute

Dale Popp, 1979 graduate of Rice High School and past president of the Rice Future Farmers of America chapter, was selected by the American Rice Growers Cooperative Association to represent it at a national institute. Popp is the son of Postmaster and Mrs. Herbert Popp of Garwood.

Dale attended the American Institute of Cooperative Education, on the campus of the University of Missouri in Columbia, Mo.

This is an annual educational institute and was attended this year by 250 persons August 6th through 9th.

Parke Christensen, manager of the Garwood ARG Co-op, said Popp was selected to participate in the Youth Scholarship Program, being one of only 700 named nationwide for this honor.

The Youth Scholar Program teaches the role cooperatives play in the American business system. The Youth Scholars study the basic characteristics of cooperatives, and their value as community developers.

Other programs at the Institute include sessions for young farmers, new cooperatives employees, women, as well as a general adult program.

The American Institute of Cooperation is the national educational organization for agricultural cooperatives with 1,100 members nationwide.

Popp plans to attend Sam Houston State University in Huntsville this fall.

June and John Mahalic
