Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gold of Neda, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Faas of Edna.

Flanking the altar were a pair of candelabra. Baskets of greenery adorned the church entrance. Peach gladioli were placed on the back altar and beside the main altar. The communion rail and side altar were accented with greenery, and ivy and hurricane lamps were placed in the windows

Her full A-line skirt, sweeping into a chapel-length train, fell into three tiers edged with lace.

She wore a cap of net flowerlets and small silk flowers attached to a veil of white net bordered with white pearls.

Her cascading bouquet consisted of white roses, miniature carnations and baby's breath. Entwined in the bouquet was her grandmother's gold rosary.

Reception

After the wedding, the reception was given at the Neda KJ Hall.

Mrs. Tommy Marek assisted guests in registering at a table covered with a white net cloth trimmed with peach ribbons and bows. Featured on the table were the bride's book, a candelabrum and baskets of rice bags.

The bride's table, covered with a white ruffled net cloth and trimmed with white bows and lilac-of-the-valley, was highlighted with a three-tiered cake with two white bridges descending from the sides onto two small cakes. The cake was adorned with peach and red silk flowers.

A food and punch table, covered with white net and accented with peach ribbon and a candelabrum, held kolaches, rolls, punch and coffee.

Cheese and crackers were served from a separate table covered to match the food and punch table.

A white net cloth trimmed with red ribbon, covered the bridegroom's table which was accented with a candle and a cake decorated in the shape of the bridegroom's red and silver truck. The truck was standing on a base cake in the shape of a highway. Both cakes were made by the bride.

A dinner was served followed by a dance. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Korenek of Neda, the bride's aunt and uncle, led the grand march.

For her traveling attire, the bride wore a burgundy wrap-around dress of nylon knit with a V-neckline and a tie at the waist.

Holiday Gifts That Save Resources, Celebrate Life

Consider holiday gifts that save resources and celebrate life.

After you've made your list of receivers and given thought to their ages, "likes" and needs, let "Consume with Care" be your watchword for the 1979 holiday season.

Here are ideas for this kind of gift-giving:

Give a gift of energy — your own.

Visit an elderly friend or babysit for a young mother so many times during 1980. Or volunteer your time and talents to a community agency that needs help.

Make your own gifts, such as children's stuffed toys, doll clothes, wooden blocks, knitted or crocheted items, baked goods or jams and jellies. Or give a plant that you grow from a cutting.

In buying, select items judiciously.

Ask yourself if it is useful, if it will be used? Is it made of

Remodeling Precautions

Make basic repairs before cosmetic work when remodeling a home.

A new paint job or other cosmetic work can, with a small investment, spruce up an old home.

However, basic improvements must come first.

Don't forget to do the following:

Correct termite damage or structural defects — before closing in the new walls.

Add electrical wiring as necessary before closing up the walls — it is easier now than later.

Run all ductwork for heating and air conditioning before the walls are closed.

Fix or replace the roof before installing new drywall or plaster inside so that roof leaks will not damage the new interior work.

Fix the subfloor where partitions were removed, and properly prepare otherwise, before carpeting or installing a finished tile floor.

Replace all rotted exterior wood before the outside of the house is painted.

Put new drywall over old plaster or fix the plaster before applying paper or paint.
