Cong. Pickle Opposes Busing

[By Cong. J. J. Pickle]

With the passage of time it becomes clearer and clearer that massive, court-ordered busing does not accomplish the goals intended for integrated schools.

The points against busing are numerous. It creates racial disharmony, infringes on neighborhoods, inconveniences children and parents, is costly, wastes gasoline, and disrupts a normal academic routine.

But even beyond this, busing does not even do what it is supposed to do. Busing is supposed to integrate schools so they will be racially balanced. But in every urban center where busing has taken place, the schools are more segregated within three to five years than they were before the busing program began.

For these reasons I have always opposed busing. Since 1964 the Congress has voted often to limit busing or to prohibit busing. I have voted this way every time.

Busing is not required by any law passed by Congress. Busing is required by the United States Constitution's 14th and 5th Amendments, according to the United States Supreme Court, which is given the power to interpret the Constitution in our system of government.

I think the Supreme Court has misinterpreted the Constitution. It looks like at least four Justices of the Supreme Court agree with my view and are ready to alter earlier Court decisions on busing. These four men are Chief Justice Warren Burger, and Justices Power, Rehnquist and Stewart. These four men are the most recent appointees to the Supreme Court. This is an encouraging development for the vast majority of Americans who recognize busing as a public policy failure. Only one more vote added to these four and the Supreme Court majority opinion would be against busing. Hopefully, this vote will be forthcoming soon.

"OVER MY SHOULDER"

[By Rodney B. Kruse, Port City Stockyards Co. Sealy and Brenham]

February's cattle market took a jump of several dollars as South, Central, and East Texas market receipts started their seasonal shrinking. This lack of numbers acted as a main primer which set off the price rise.

New price peaks were hit for the year as packers fought over slaughter cows and bulls. These new peaks were near the same bench marks killing cows and bulls had left last summer.

Bigger cows, many still in good flesh because of the mild winter so far, were basically $55-$60, some touched $62, while thin slaughter cows recorded $45-$48. Good lean heifer bulls weighing over 1,200 were $63-$69, few up to $71.

Stocker-feeders entered February in better physical shape than they have in a long time. The overall quality of calves was rated as good considering February is supposed to be a mean cold month. Last year dropping temperatures caused cattle to look rough and increased health problems.

Good steer calves 300-400 pounds could be quoted by the last of February $1.$1.16, choicer steers went up to $1.22 with 400-500 pounds at 88c-$1. Heifer calves 300-400 pounds were usually 83c-93c.

The January 1, Cattle Inventory released in late February caused some eyebrows to be raised. Some labeled it bullish.

As of the start of this year all cattle and calves on U.S. farms and ranches were estimated at nearly 111 million head, about even with last year. The 1979 calf crop was estimated to be the smallest one since 1963 while an 8 percent increase in replacement heifers indicates herd expansion has begun but not at a fast and furious rate.

As herds begin to grow with a small calf crop and with more heifers being held for replacements it points to a still tight slaughter and beef supply. This could be taken as an automatic shift in prices to higher levels in the industry. However, price rises will be tempered as beef continues to lock horns with large supplies of pork and growing supplies of poultry as the threesome fight over consumer dollars.

Hog market held during February around the $38-$40 range on the better top hogs in Central, South and East Texas. Sows did not fare as well as the barrows and gilts during the month and finished the second month $30-$35 on the leaner sows. Even though the burdensome supply of hogs is still up in the corn belt fewer hog receipts in Texas during February helped top hog prices from the Lone Star state retain their aggressiveness.

The key to the market strength in February was numbers and for March its market receipts will still be light. Weather wise things appear to look good too. If you can usually make it through the middle of February without rough weather means you have made it through winter. March looks good.

Commr. Court Selects Option For Criminal Justice Aid

Colorado County Commissioners' Court met in special session Monday in Columbus with a relatively light agenda and decided to favor a combination state-local entitlement plan for future Criminal Justice funds in this county.

The court received word from the state's Criminal Justice agency that it must select its option for receiving monetary aid for criminal justice assistance for this county prior to March 1st. Because of the short notice, a sub-committee comprised of directors from the Houston-Galveston Area Council, comprised of thirteen area counties and the cities of Houston and Galveston, made a study of the situation and recommended that the local combination entitlement program would be the best option for the H-GAC area.

Three options were offered, first, a balance of state option in which the county would be competing with other counties for funds directly from the state; the local combination program; or a direct local entitlement program, operation of which was not definite at Monday's meeting.

County Judge Lester J. Cranek, a member of the executive board for H-GAC, expressed the belief that the local combination option recommended by the sub-committee would probably be the best route to follow. He indicated that if the county did not indicate its option by March 1st, the state would automatically place the county in the balance of state program.

Advantages Cited

The sub-committee cited as advantages of the local combination option: first, H-GAC already has a staff which would be available to work with the program (without addition of personnel, indicated Judge Cranek); second, availability of funds would be guaranteed since the H-GAC annually receives funds for Criminal Justice activities; and third, surplus funds might more readily become available for use of this county. As a disadvantage, the committee noted that this would place some additional burden on the present H-GAC staff.

Precinct 1 Commissioner Otto Loessin made the motion to recommend to the H-GAC that steps be taken to implement the local combination entitlement option. The motion was seconded by Precinct 2 Commissioner Rafael Veselka and they and Precinct 3 Commissioner Crockett Leyendecker voted for, and Precinct 4 Commissioner Bill Stiles against.

COKER 19

Vigorous, Early Corn Thrives On Thick Planting!

Coker 19 is our highest yielding early corn. Plant it thick and reap the reward. And you can expect an additional yield-pop with irrigation.

Coker 19 starts off fast, matures early and dries down in the field faster than any other Coker corn. It's a great yellow corn for early feed or the early cash market.

★ Coker 19 topped Texas' official variety tests in Wharton County, both with its high yield of 157.2 bu/A and its average over all Wharton Co. tests of 147.3 bu/A.

★ Coker 19 made 142.5 bu/A for Arthur Mahaffe and Sons in Colorado County Extension trials.

★ In official tests at Weslaco, Coker 19 yielded 104.4 bu/A ... more than 25 bu/A above farmers' average corn yields in the Valley.

"However, during Texas Public School Week we extend a personal invitation to parents of students enrolled at Rice High School to make a special effort to visit this campus. We will make every effort to arrange conferences with teachers, counselors, and administrators if you wish to visit with any of these. We encourage parents to visit the campus, eat with us, and visit classes. Our campus hours are from 8:15 a.m. to 3:15 p.m.," added the principal.

court and the officers in the courthouse during the audit.

His staff was to add a letter and the full audit will be returned for consideration and acceptance of the court at the March 10th meeting.

Phone Cable Policy

The court clarified its position on individual phone installation applications and noted that the laying of cables require the full court's consideration but individual installations can be approved by Commissioners if notice is received at least 24 hours prior to the installation. An application form is being prepared for approval Mar. 10. Laying of all wire and cables must be to a depth of 24-inches; and individual phone installations made across paved roads must be bored under the roads, not trenched.

The court approved the laying of a 2¾" x 3/8" gas gathering line by Cities Services from a well in the South Dubina Field southwest of Weimar, under County Road 202 in Precinct 2, Rafael Veselka, commissioner.

Precinct 3 Commissioner Crockett Leyendecker was granted authority, under the county employees policy handbook, to increase pay of an employee, Gary Mikulenka, by one step on basis of merit of work being accomplished as a maintainer operator.

The court appointed Lucille Neuendorff as alternate election judge for the General Election. Mrs. A. G. Kollmann is presiding judge in voting precinct 10, the Buescher voting box.

Judge Cranek noted that the commissioners' court has authority to appoint election officials only for the general elections. The party primaries are conducted by officials named by the executive committees of the respective parties holding the primaries.

In the final action the court took cognizance of a letter from owners of the 59 acres which formerly comprised the Columbus Airport, that the airport lease terminated Dec. 31, 1979, and the owners are allowing continued use of the property for airport facilities only for the time being in order to prevent hardships to users of the airport and the situation is not a permanent one. The letter was submitted by Lee Hammons, agent for the owners.

Work is underway on a new airport facility for Columbus, west of Highway 71, a few miles south of Columbus.

Water System

gallons and a concrete storage tank of 100,000, plus the 300,000 gallon 143-ft. tall elevated water storage tank on McCarty.

The new facilities increase the storage from 700,000 gallons to 1,200,000 and the pumping ability of the new well doubles the previous capacity, commented city manager Smith.

Tank Builders, Inc. constructed the new tank at a cost of $99,648 and the project still needs an additional coat of paint on the tank (the first paint applied was not accepted by the project engineers, O'Malley and Clay of Brenham, represented by Bob McDaniels). The additional paint will be applied once the weather warms this spring.

The entire project was financed with a $300,000 waterworks revenue bond issue approved by a vote of 127-7. Total costs are expected to exceed the bond issue by some $70,000 and the city has arranged to make a short-term loan with First National Bank of Eagle Lake [at 5.75% interest] to take care of the excess costs.

Mayor Struss stated that the additional costs came about when the council decided that certain options would make the system more productive and most advantageous to the citizens of Eagle Lake.

The waterworks revenue bonds were sold to Underwood Neuhaus Co., Inc. of Houston on a bid of 5.63% interest.

The waterworks plant is located on over three acres of land on Davitt Street, purchased along with a 9,000 square foot metal building from Gene Payne of Houston for $77,000. City officials have noted that the cost of a building of that size would cost considerably more at today's prices, not taking into consideration the three acres of land, completely fenced, also obtained in the purchase from Payne.

Concrete approaches to the pump house and to the service center have been poured and fences will be replaced to allow entry into the buildings without opening gates, etc.

Shindler Electric of Eagle Lake has installed flourescent lighting fixtures and outlets in the new service center. Also Coastal Contracting added another large overhead door (making a total of three) in order to allow large equipment to move into the large building for storage or for repairs.

City personnel have been constructing office areas, with rest rooms, and storage facilities in the new service center and plans are to move much of the city's inventory of supplies to the new building soon.

Due to recent wet weather, work on landscaping and in preparation of the grounds and completing some driveways and walkways has been delayed, however the City of Eagle Lake plans an open house in the future months to "show off" this valuable addition to the city waterworks facilities in Eagle Lake.

"We want everyone to see the wonderful addition to the city's water system," said Mayor Struss. "We know that you will be as proud of the facilities as we are. They are designed to take care of the water needs for citizens of this community for many years and still have ample reserves for projected growth of the business, industrial and residential areas."

Burglary On Colly Street

Eagle Lake Chief of Police Lupe Villarreal reported that a call was received last weekend from the owners of the houses in Colly Place on Colly Street that a storage building had been entered and some appliances taken.

Actual date of the theft was not available since the owners only come here every two or three weeks. They reported that a small television set, a radio, and several electrical appliances were stolen.

It is believed that the burglary may have occurred a month or so ago, said the officer.

The directors voted at the meeting last Friday that the Industrial Development committee, comprised of Bill Harrison, Jr., chairman, Ralph Truly, McInteer, Alvin Kohleffel and Vance Duncan, should have some kind of a recommendation relative to the formation of an industrial foundation or not, ready for the March 17th meeting.

McInteer reported that CPL community profiles are now available at the chamber office; Truly stated that the industrial development committee is also preparing a community profile for distribution to interested business and industry; an additional supply of "Goose Hunting Capital of the World" bumper stickers will be prepared; and also a brief history of Eagle Lake will be prepared in brochure form.

City Manager T. J. Smith reported that the city's water production capabilities are now doubled with the addition of the new well and storage facilities to the system on Friday of last week.

Smith is also chairman of the float committee and he noted that the only participation at this early date of the 1980 year will be in the Columbus FFA parade.

Salary of the secretary was increased to $3.10 per hour, the new minimum wage in effect for 1980.

More Support For FFA Show

The chamber discussed ways in which it could give additional support to the Rice High School FFA Show and Sale in the year of 1981. The possibility of arranging for a "United Fund" from local merchants, unable to attend the Show, was discussed. The fund would operate similarly to the "United Buyers" fund which has been a strong supporter of the sale in past years, through various contributions from citizens in the district. It was noted that the local "United Fund" would be in addition to and not compete with the present United Buyers program.

Attending the meeting last Friday were president McInteer, secretary Dorothy Jones, directors R. P. Wilcox, T. J. Smith, Rose Marie Roquemore, Sandra Rodgers, Ralph Truly and Louis Schorlemmer; and Headlight editor Fred R. Frnka.

Seismograph Co. Asks For Temp. Injunction

Laid Petroleum Co. of Delaware and Houston filed a suit in District Court Monday seeking a temporary injunction for the right to do seismograph work on 320 acres of land in the S.A. & M.G. Survey No. 13 owned by W. A. Braden, Jr. of Nada.

The plaintiff alleges that it has ownership of oil and gas rights on the land and has been denied the right to do seismograph work on the tract of land by Braden.

The suit asks the court to issue a temporary injunction permitting the seismograph work and to set a hearing on a permanent injunction.
