EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

Monetary Credit Action To Help Curb Inflation

The Federal Reserve Board announces a series of monetary and credit actions as part of a general government program to help curb inflationary pressures. The actions are:

1. A voluntary Special Credit Restraint Program that will apply to all domestic commercial banks, bank holding companies, business credit extended by finance companies, and credit extended to U.S. residents by the U.S. agencies and branches of foreign banks.

2. A program of restraint on certain types of consumer credit, including credit cards, check credit overdraft plans, unsecured personal loans and secured credit where the proceeds are not used to finance the collateral.

3. An increase from 8 percent to 10 percent in the marginal reserve requirement on the managed liabilities of large banks that was first imposed last October 6, and a reduction in the base upon which the reserve requirement is calculated.

4. Restraint on the amount of credit raised by large non-member banks by establishing a special deposit requirement of 10 percent on increases in their managed liabilities.

5. Restraint on the rapid expansion of money market mutual funds by establishing a special deposit requirement of 15 percent on increases in their total assets above the level of March 14.

6. A surcharge on discount borrowings by large banks to discourage frequent use of the discount window and to speed bank adjustments in response to restraint on bank reserves.

Pickup Hits Fence, Turns Over On 102 Sat. Night

Highway Patrolman Andy Tacquard of Eagle Lake investigated a one-vehicle accident on FM 102 south of the city at 10:55 p.m. Saturday when a 1979 Chev. pickup driven by George Allen Hock of Corpus Christi when out of control on a curve.

The pickup was traveling north and went off the road on the southbound side and ripped out a portion of a fence on D. R. Wintermann property and turned over.

Hock received some cuts and bruises and the vehicle had considerable damage to the side and top.

Budget Fever Rising In Nation's Capt'l

[By Cong. J. J. Pickle]

The temperatures are rising in Washington, D.C., but it is due to budget fever, not spring fever. The most common prescription is balancing the Federal budget, accepted by the President, the Congress and most of the public.

Currently, there are two major plans for a balanced Fiscal Year 1981 budget, presented by the House Budget Committee and President Carter. The plans differ in certain areas, but the general thrust is the same: This year the Federal government will stop spending from an empty wallet. But the proposed cure is producing some surprising side affects.

The House Budget Committee's package calls for a surplus of $5.5 billion, with spending of $611.8 billion in Fiscal Year 1981 and revenues of $617.3 billion. An oil import fee, which would bring in an additional $10.3 billion in revenues, is supported by the committee but not added into its budget total.

The President's plan calls for spending of $611.5 billion and revenues of $628 billion, for a $16.5 billion surplus. But the Carter package includes the $10.3 billion for the oil import fee. Subtracting that, the Carter surplus is $6.2 billion, compared to the Budget Committee's $5.5 billion proposal.

But just as almost everyone nods in agreement about the Fiscal diagnosis as the first step toward curing our budgetary and economic lamaise, many of these same balanced budget supporters are becoming reluctant to take the necessary medicine. They agree to the balanced budget principle, but shy away from treatment.

The treatment is simple in concept but more complex in application. Simply, to balance the budget, monies for programs must be cut. As budget cutting decisions start to be made, the side affects crop up. The most noticeable symptom is a nod of agreement accompanied by the phrase, "But not my program."

I will vote for a balanced budget plan this year, whether it be President Carter's plan or the House Budget Committee proposal. That would depend on which had the best chance of becoming law. At this point, a healthy economy and sound, balanced budget are the best prescription for our problems.

Caperton Addresses Ag Issues

Fifth Senatorial District candidate Kent Caperton discussed the plight of the farmers and ranchers of this district in a press conference last week.

This was the third in a series of press conferences Caperton has scheduled throughout the district to discuss the issues of the Fifth District Senate campaign.

Caperton said farmers and ranchers have been beset with several problems-high interest rates, soaring land prices, the unavailability of long-term loans and the increasing cost of farm machinery and buildings.

"Modern agriculture is costly and we must see that our farming and ranching families can obtain the credit necessary to continue their agribusiness. The guaranteed farm loan program was approved by voters last November and will hopefully provide some of the capital for young farm families to remain in agriculture," Caperton said.

Other key issues, he said, are landowners' rights, foreign ownership of Texas land and the production of ethanol, methanol and gasohol.

"We cannot or will not allow high interest rates, increased fuel costs or other problems to destroy the future of farming and ranching in Texas. Agriculture is too important to the state and this district. We will address these issues head on and work with our farmers and ranchers to provide solutions to these vexing problems."

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur L. Collins, discussing their Energy Efficiency Award home in Victoria

'OUR ELECTRICITY BILL IS RUNNING ABOUT HALF THAT FOR OUR PREVIOUS HOUSE'

Mr. and Mrs. Collins are delighted about the money they're saving on energy costs for their all-electric home at 202 Cherokee, Victoria, which has earned an Energy Efficiency Award in a program sponsored by Central Power and Light Company.

Even though their former home was smaller, electricity bills there were about twice what they are paying now.

The Collins home is well insulated (to R-38 in the ceiling and R-19 in the walls) and includes many other energy-saving features such as metal-insulated doors, double-pane windows, extra roof overhang, and a duct system located entirely within conditioned space. Windows make up only 10% of the wall area, and there is only one window on the west side of the house.

"When the air conditioner cycles off, the house stays cooler longer, probably because the house is so well insulated that the cold air stays in better," the Collinses report. "In the winter it has to be almost freezing outdoors before we need to turn the heating on. The cold just does not seep in, so we do not run the heat as much."

Would the couple recommend an Energy Efficiency Award home to others? Absolutely!

"People who invest now in a properly constructed home . . . with energy-saving features will find out that it pays off," they say. "(This investment) also will enhance the resale of their home. We think that the demand for energy-efficient homes is going to grow."

If you're planning to buy or build a new all-electric home —or remodel your present one —you'll want to know more about the Energy Efficiency Award. Get more details from your builder, architect, realtor or designer—or ask for information at your CPL office.

*The exact amount of savings will depend on individual circumstances.

County Begins Crackdown On Illegal Dumping Of Trash

A crackdown on the illegal dumping of trash and garbage in ditches bordering county roads in this county was authorized Monday when the Colorado County Commissioners' Court met in regular session.

It was noted by several commissioners that violation of state law prohibiting dumping of trash and garbage in ditches is being abused. The commissioners voted unanimously to authorize the County Sheriff's Dept. to investigate such incidents and if conclusive proof of violators' identity can be ascertained, that violators be prosecuted of the Class B misdemeanor offense.

Precinct 4 Commissioner Bill Stiles stressed that the investigators should have substantial proof before filing any charges. Precinct 3 Commissioner Crockett Leyendecker said that incidents have occurred where violators have been identified from substances discarded and they have been given an opportunity to clean up the trash and garbage in lieu of charges; but in other cases identification has been difficult without use of investigative powers which the sheriff's department would have.

Sales Tax Collections Up 21%

State Comptroller Bob Bullock Friday said city sales tax rebates for April totaled $24.1 million, about $10 million less than Texas cities received in April last year.

He said 1980 rebate payments of the optional one-percent city sales tax from the first of the year now total $162.8 million, compared to rebates of $135.2 million over the same period in 1979.

Because year-to-date payments are up over last year, it's too early to say whether the decreased monthly payments reflect a downward trend in taxable sales or simply seasonal adjustments, Bullock said.

The City of Eagle Lake received a check for $6,068.10 to make total collections in 1980 increase to $45,283.51, up 21% over a similar period in 1979.

Columbus' check was for $7,260.94 to make the 1980 total $55,929.46, up 11%; Sealy did not receive a check for this period; Hallettsville's check was for $4,807.31 to make the 1980 total $43,691.75, up 23%; Wallis received $1,061.99 for a $4,967.75 total in 1980, up 9%; and Weimar received $1,916.81 to make the 1980 total $31,382.04, up 51%.

1/ In cooperation with National Weather Service & Texas Water Development Board
2/ Sheltered air temperatures

Dry weather should persist despite more cloudiness late Wednesday. Rain showers, however, may follow on Thursday and part of Friday as a cool front sets up along the Gulf Coast. This front should not be as strong as the last, so low temperatures should stay mild under fair skies Friday night and Saturday.

For the Rice Belt. . .Gentle southerly breezes Monday helped prevent really chilly temperatures over much of the Rice Belt. The next several days will be a very important period for assessing any permanent cold injury to young rice. Rice will still be in shock because of cool nighttime temperatures, so permanent injury may be hard to detect until low temperatures reach 60 degrees or higher for several nights. Dr. James Stansel, rice specialist at the Eagle Lake Experiment Station, urges growers to avoid any type of herbicide spraying while rice is in shock. If you spray now you won't get good weed control since weeds are also suffering from the cold, but you may severely burn rice with herbicides. Soil temperatures have dropped eight to ten degrees since last week, so be careful not to rush cotton and sorghum planting until soils rewarm.

Weather service projections for the next four to five weeks call for normal temperatures, but drier than usual conditions over the Coastal Bend and extreme Western Rice Belt. May is usually a peak month for rain along the coast, so crop prospects for the summer could be highly influenced by weather during this mid-spring period. Eastern Rice Belt counties may be in for an excess of spring rains that may also keep temperatures below average.

Boat Ramps Proposal Tabled By Com. Court

Colorado County Commissioners' Court decided Monday to table the possibility that application might be made with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department for assistance in building boat ramps on the Colorado River in this county.

The issue was tabled when investigation by Judge Lester Cranek revealed that: an application must be sponsored by a government agency; that that agency would be responsible for housekeeping such as refuse collection and grass control; that a 25-year lease would be necessary; and that parking be provided for at least 20 vehicles.

Judge Cranek also reported that before an application could be approved, a minimum of $24,000 would have to be spent of which the state would pay 70% and the county [illegible]. However he noted that his investigation showed that cost of the boat ramps is running in excess of $24,000 and that the state pays only 20% of the cost on overruns.

Precinct 4 Commissioner Bill Stiles said that he would like to keep the issue open for the possibility of establishing a boat ramp at Garwood where the state already has some land available. He said that his precinct (No. 4) might be willing to go along with Precint 1 (Otto Loessin Commissioner) if Precinct 1 was interested in sharing costs of the project. Commissioners Loessin and Stiles indicated they would take the matter under advisement; hence the court tabled the proposal for possible future consideration.

• Public weigher's bonds were OK'd for Martinez Bros. at Altair; and for Rudolph J. Till, Jr. with Garwood Implement & Supply Crop Service at Garwood.

Bounty Report

• Judge Cranek reported that wolf bounties were paid during the month of March on five wolves to special trappers at $20 each and on 12 scalps turned in by private citizens at $5 each.

Lissie Church Pony Express Underway

A "trail boss" breakfast and worship service Sunday signaled the start of a Pony Express fund-raising at Lissie United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Bill Couvillion, pastor, said the six members filling the roles of trail bosses and station agents were on hand for the breakfast briefing.

Church families on the Pony Express run will be relaying stewardship saddlebags to gather "estimate of giving" cards.

Joe Hlavinka, general manager of the stewardship campaign, handed out the saddlebags and run route lists at the breakfast.

A relay of the saddlebags among church members began immediately after morning worship, he said.

Each saddlebag bears the names of 10 church families. A family fills in a giving estimate card, seals it in an envelope and inserts it in the saddlebag pouch and then hand carries the saddlebag to another of the families on the route.

Each trail boss is responsible for supervision of the relaying of one saddlebag to 10 families. The trail bosses report periodically to station agents.

Station agents are Harry Anderson and Victor Ray Corman, Jr.; and trail bosses are Joe Anderson, Merle Hudgins, Arthur Anderson, Anna Mae Wiese, Martin Herman and Cherry Corman.

Huge Damage Suit Transferred To Dist. Court

A plea of privilege suit was filed in District Court in Columbus April 8th moving the suit seeking over $100 Million in damages as the result of oil and gas explorations in the "Sheridan Prospect" from Harris County to this county.

Plaintiff in the suit is Aubrey H. Rabensburg of Houston and defendants are Wallace Co., Inc. and Roy R. Gardner, also of Harris County.

The plaintiff alleges that agreements were made with the defendants relative to oil and gas exploration in the "Sheridan Prospect" and that he is entitled to damages not less than $100 million and costs of court and attorney's fees.

Brown Bag Seminar Held In County

The following was among the items given to members of the news media at the Texas Agricultural Extension Service's "Extension Media Day" held at studios of KPRC-TV in Houston last Friday. The Media Day was held for news personnel in Extension District 11 comprised of 16 counties in the upper Gulf Coast area of Texas.

One way to reach working women with educational programs in Colorado County is through "Brown Bag Seminars," believes Mrs. Donella Pantel, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Pantel conducted the first of such seminars at the county Extension office in February. The session dealt with career planning and attracted 12 women.

A second seminar was held in March, this time dealing with money matters and financial management. Participation was about the same as the first seminar.

"I feel these noon 'Brown Bag Seminars' are a good way to reach working women with programs on some of the key issues they are interested in," points out Pantel.

"With today's changing lifestyles and the changing roles of women in society, many women are expressing an interest in educational programs related to management and financial planning," notes Pantel.

To meet this need, the county agent organized a Financial Management Seminar for Women with the aid of several Eagle Lake bankers. The seminar featured the following topics: Getting Your Life and Household in Order, Financial Planning Guides, Spending Wisely, Savings and Investments, Credit and Future Money Options for Retirement.
