Letters To The Editor

Wilson Supports Sen. Moore

Dear Colorado County Citizen:

As you may know, I am a candidate for the Texas Senate from District 18 and will not be running for re-election to the House of Representatives. I regret having to give up Colorado County since it is not in the 18th Senatorial District. I have enjoyed serving you for the last eight years as your Representative and will certainly continue to try to serve your interests, regardless, should I win the Senate election.

Senator William T. (Bill) Moore of Bryan, who is now your Senator, is being challenged in his race for re-election. I felt that I should let you know how cooperative Senator Moore has been with me while I have served in the House. Since we have a bicameral legislature in Texas, I alone could not have accomplished the passage of important legislation even though I was able to win the votes in the House. My bills then had to pass the Senate, and in this regard, Senator Moore never failed to help. Just one example of legislation which he and I have co-authored and passed is the Highway Right-of-Way Bill which increased the State's share from 50% to 90% so that cities and counties would not be faced with additional ad valorem property taxes. In his position as Dean of the Senate, having served longer than his fellow Senators, and as Chairman of the State Affairs Committee, Senator Moore has enormous influence and prestige.

Senator Moore and I are being challenged by the same opposition--the plaintiff's lawyers and organized labor. I recommend that you seriously consider going to the polls and voting in the Democratic Primary on May 3 for Senator Moore to continue for another term as your Senator. I honestly believe your vote for Senator Moore would be beneficial to you and the conservative cause.

John Wilson

Wheel Chair Ramps Are Discussed At Rotary Meet

Eagle Lake Rotarians and guests heard a discussion of the recent installation of wheel chair ramps on curbs in the downtown area to aid handicapped persons in wheel chairs in getting about the city, during the meeting at noon on Wednesday of last week.

Willard (Bill) Shuart told the group that he initiated a request to the City of Eagle Lake in August of 1977 requesting that the city spend some of its revenue sharing funds to construct the ramps, and noted that in April of 1980 a number of the ramps had been completed by the city.

"We (those required to use wheel chairs) appreciate getting these ramps," he stressed the need for more ramps and for rebuilding some of those recently erected since they are "too steep" and wheel chair residents have found that they could not use several, especially those in the area between Miller's Grocery and Eagle Lake Sewing Center and between Eagle Lake Insurance and the Back Door recreation area.

He noted that guidelines call for a 6 to 10% slope but the ones in question are considerably above that angle, noted Shuart. A fact concurred by other residents using wheel chairs.

Shuart said that he was initiating another request to the city to make necessary corrections in these ramps and possibly to add others at the intersection of Main and McCarty.

Once again he expressed appreciation for "what has been done and for the consideration of the city council in any action that may be taken on further improvements in the future." He illustrated his talk with slide film showing some of the recent additions, at the corner of Main and Commerce (both sides of the intersection) and across from the intersection where an asphalt ramp has been placed. The others are of concrete construction.

May 4-10 Is Clean Air Week In Tex.

Gov. William P. Clements has proclaimed May 4-10 Clean Air Week in Texas, focusing attention upon air pollution caused by automobiles.

The Governor urged industrial leaders, organizations, businesses, government agencies, and individuals to pledge themselves to more effective action for clean air for ourselves and "future generations.

This year's observance marks the second year that the Texas Air Control Board (TACB) and the American Lung Association have emphasized reducing automobile emissions.

Motor vehicles are the source of approximately 35 percent of the annual non-methane hydrocarbon emissions in Texas and are also a major source of other air contaminants.

The proclamation states: "The air we breathe belongs to all our citizens, and the quality of the environment affects the health and well-being of everyone.

"The purpose of Clean Air Week in Texas is to promote a united educational program for clean air and reflects the State's determination that the problems of air pollution can and must be solved.

"Clean air must be the responsibility shared by everyone and requires a unified effort if Texas is to succeed."

More Houston Garbage Is Coming to Co.

on property owned by Millycent Tait Cranek of Columbus, it was set out that "any ponded water at the site must not become a source of obnoxious odors" and also "all applicable Texas Air Control Board regulations concerning air pollution control should be observed."

Wording Not Intent

The "fly in the ointment", lightly speaking, is that the Colorado County Commissioners' Court intended the amendment in restrictions to include shopping center refuse, but in approving the amendment, the Texas Department of Human Resources declared the amendment to include all items included in "Municipal Solid Waste Management Regulations," and that would include the sludge which brought about the discussion. The county learned that Sprint, which purchased the Taylor Trucking interests along with the landfill site, began recently to haul the sludge, which is the end product or by-product of a sanitary sewer plant operation to this county. The sludge being brought to this county is estimated to be sixty percent liquid and this has caused the operator a problem in hauling since some materials have leaked from supposedly waterproof beds; and in drying out the materials sufficiently so that they may be buried at the end of each day as required in the operation of a Type I sanitary landfill operation.

J. B. Swinbank, president of Sprint Waste Disposal Company, met with the court April 14th and contended that he was within his legal right in hauling the sludge under provisions of a Type I landfill. He had a consulting engineer along with him who verified that the material qualified for placement in a Type I landfill. Also present was Jim Candler, representing the Texas Department of Health Resources in the 13-county Region XI. Candler praised the efficient operation of the landfill site in this county as one of the best in the state.

Ownership Transferred

Swinbank, in a letter from the state health department, dated June 19, 1979 received permission for transfer of the Type I landfill permit from the name of Taylor Trucking to Sprint Waste Disposal Company.

The letter from Raymond T. Moore, M.D. then Commissioner of Health, noted that the permit "constitutes an acknowledgment that the permittee will comply with all of the terms, provisions, conditions, limitations, and restrictions embodied in this permit; with the 'Municipal Solid Waste Management Regulations' of the Texas Department of Health; and with the pertinent laws of the State of Texas."

In another letter dated Feb. 12, 1980 from G. R. Herzik, Jr., Deputy Commissioner to Donald L. Poarch, vice-president of Sprint, it was set out that the transfer of ownership was approved. The description of waste materials to be processed at the site were simply set out as "solid waste under the regulatory jurisdiction of the Texas Department of Health, when disposed of or processed in accordance with the department's 'Municipal Solid Waste Regulations'." The permit, No. 208, was signed by Robert Bernstein, M.D., Commissioner of Health.

County's Recourse

At the completion of the summation of the landfill operations investigation, Judge Cranek said that in his opinion, "the statements made by Swinbank April 14th (that he was legal in hauling sludge to this county under his Type I permit) were correct."

Judge Cranek added that "the county's only recourse, in my determination, is that if the landfill operator does not operate the landfill according to the rules and regulations set out in the 'Municipal Solid Waste Management Regulations', the county can file for an injunction to stop the operations if it was felt that he was not in compliance."

He noted that Sprint has the authority in place materials set out in the regulations into the landfill, but the operator also has the responsibility to see that the rules and regulations for operation of a Type I landfill are followed.

The judge did cite a Texas law which gives the court the authority to place certain areas of a county into an area where landfills are prohibited.

More Houston Garbage!!

In response to a question, the judge conceded that "it does appear that Houston's garbage can legally be brought to this county, provided operational requirements are met."

Swinbank, who was also at the meeting Monday, said that he plans to haul more refuse and garbage from Houston in order to have materials with which to "dry out" the sludge which is being hauled to this county so that it might be buried properly daily.

Stiles Voices Objection

Precinct 4 Commissioner Bill Stiles objected to allowing Houston garbage and sludge to be hauled to this county and charged that 200 truckloads of sludge have been brought to the landfill and little or none has been properly disposed of. He also expressed fear that the sludge would be coming from sewer plants in Houston which are overtaxed and do not adequately process the sewerage before being released as sludge.

Chic Stein, a resident a mile or so from the area, said that he "smelled noxious odors last Saturday and when he checked he found them coming from the landfill site. Judge Cranek agreed that noxious odors are prohibited and would be a violation of the operation procedures if allowed to continue. He noted that Sprint is researching methods of "drying out" the sludge with materials of all descriptions in order to permit daily burying. He said that he had visited the site Saturday and did not note noxious odors. Judge Cranek also added that four test water, wells are located on the site and the health department makes periodic checks on the water to see that there is not some leakage from the clay-lined and sealed areas where the materials placed in the landfill are buried.

Advantages Cited

He pointed out the advantages of having a landfill operational in this county, including the great cost that would have to be met by the cities of Columbus and Eagle Lake to dispose of their garbage. Also he noted that if the citizens did not have a place to bring their garbage and refuse, they probably would throw it into the ditches and creeks throughout the county, causing much expense and an unhealthy condition in this county.

Stiles said that he intends to pursue the investigation further and charged that the issuing of the amendment on the landfill application was "mishandled." He contended that the hearing in Fort Bend County was supposedly held strictly for hauling shopping center refuse to this county and added that if the intent was changed illegally, the county should have some means of protest.

Minutes of the Colorado County Commissioners' Court do not reflect the actual wording of the amendment as intended by the court, only that the court protested the method of calling the hearing.

No Copy To Commr. Court

Judge Cranek pointed out further that the court never did receive a copy of the amendment as approved by the state, although carbon copies, as indicated on the bottom of the letter, went to the Region VI Texas Department of Health office, the County Health Officer, to Rep. John Wilson and Sen. Bill Moore.

Stiles said that he plans to go to Austin to get a full transcript on what went on at the hearing, since no county officials were able to attend due to the late notification and a conflict in engagements.

General consensus of the court, in concluding the discussion, was that "we need to keep a close eye on the operation" to determine that the operator meets the rules and regulations as set forth by the Type I landfill regulations manual. If not, it was indicated that steps will have to be taken to remedy the situation.

Also present to oppose the hauling of sludge and other Houston garbage to the county was Bernice Kahlden of the Freisburg area.
