RIS Classes Choose 190-81 Class Officers

(By Judy Bunge)
On September 8, 1980, the 190-81 Student Council held its first meeting at Rice High School. The meeting was called to order by President Mike Rice and the first order of business was the election of officers. Those officers elected at the meeting include: Treasurer, John Schneider; Corresponding Secretary, Michaelanne Hefner; Recording Secretary, Janice Walligura; Historian, Gindy Rodriguez; and Reporter, Barbara Prihoda.

Another New RHS Teacher, Jill Siward

(By Patricia Gonzalez)
This week the Rice Raider Review would like to introduce to you one of our new teachers, Miss Jill Siward. Miss Siward is originally from Waco and is still living in Weimar. Miss Siward's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Siward. She has two children, a son and a daughter. She is a member of the Rice High School PTA and is a member of the Rice High School PTA.

Two More New RHS Students

(By Pam Kallala)
This week the Raider Review would like to introduce to you two of the new students attending Rice High School for the first year. They are sisters, Barbara and Cheryl Rose. The new students moved from Houston and now reside in Sheridan with their parents Mr. and Mrs. Ben Philip. Barbara, age 16, is a Junior, and Cheryl, age 14, is a Freshman at Rice High School. Barbara said she likes Rice because there are so many nice people around and the teachers make jokes to keep the subject interesting. Cheryl said she likes the school, also, but she's not quite used to being in an isolated area like Rice.

"Can you guess who this pretty little baby is? If you can't, you're not alone. Only two people out of eight questioned came up with the correct answer. The only clues given were the grade and sex of this person. The six people that could not give the correct identity of the baby were Wayne Bowen, Barbara Prihoda, Fred thought it was Barbara Prihoda; Julie thought it was me, Jenny Griffith; Donna thought it was Judy Bunge; and Mary Jane Yant. Wayne thought it was Karen Rucka; Barbara thought it was Becky Benge; Fred thought it was Barbara Prihoda; Julie thought it was me, Jenny Griffith; Donna thought it was Judy Bunge; and Mary Jane Yant. The only two people that did guess right were Janice Clipson and Leigh Ann Bryant. They decided this

CPL explores new power sources for long-range needs

Because of the shortage of natural gas—and resulting restrictions on its use by utility firms—Central Power and Light Company is turning to other fuels to generate electricity for its customers in South Texas. For the immediate future, CPL will rely heavily on nuclear and coal-fired plants, drawing more than 40% of its production from these two sources by the late 1980s.

But the company is doing long-range planning, too. In cooperation with research agencies and other utilities, CPL is presently studying several new areas that have the potential to become energy sources many years from now: gasification of solid or liquid fuels, geothermal steam, solar repowering and nuclear fusion.

At CPL's La Palma Power Station in San Benito, a gasification research project is being conducted on conversion of solid and liquid fuels into a gas that can be burned in place of natural gas in existing boilers. Sustained generation of electricity already has been achieved with gas produced from heavy fuel oil. Other fuels, such as coal and lignite, also will be tested. The experiment will determine whether the gasification process will allow utilities to continue using existing boilers when natural gas is no longer available.

CPL also is participating in a project to examine the possibility of using geothermal energy for production of electricity. The project, which involves wells drilled into geopressured sands along the Texas coast, is being coordinated by the Center for Energy Studies and the Bureau of Economic Geology at the University of Texas at Austin.

As a member of the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation, CPL has supported since 1957 nuclear fusion research at the University of Texas. Researchers of the Fusion Research Center in Austin are optimistic that the scientific feasibility of nuclear fusion can be proven by 1982, but it will take another 15 to 20 years to design a reliable fusion power plant.

Besides sharing in these studies, the company also is represented on a Utility Advisory Committee for a Solar Repowering Study on the possible utilization of solar energy to repower an existing gas boiler.

South Texas can depend on CPL to investigate and develop the alternate power sources necessary to assure continued electric service far into the future.
