Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose an original floor-length gown of white organza with wisps of Venice lace swirling across the Queen Anne neckline. The fitted bodice featured long sheer sleeves with fitted cuffs lavishly embroidered with Venice lace motifs. The overlaying skirt was gathered into soft tiers caught up with Venice motifs and trimmed with Venice lace which gracefully draped the bottom of the ruffled gown and extended into a long cascading train. The matching two-tiered veil was styled with gleaming pearls and tucks of chiffon embellishing a Venice lace half hat with more Venice lace on the fingertip-length veil.

The bride carried a live cascading bouquet of white sweetheart roses, pink rosebuds, and white pom-pom mums accented with greenery and baby's breath. A rosary was entwined around the stem of the bouquet.
