Extortion Charged In Bomb Threats

on the Citizen's line. A short time later another call was received stating that another call would give details on how and where to pay the $5,000.

Meanwhile, the Colorado County Federal Savings and Loan Association office and possibly other places, also received calls from a man, believed to be the same caller to the Citizen office, asking for money or a bomb would be set off there.

At around 3 p.m. the man called the Citizen office again and the trace, indicated the call came from the Sonic Drive-In and Wine and Citizen reporter Andy Heines and other officers rushed to the drive-in and confronted the manager Doug Kipl. 24. He denied making the calls at first, but after Wine took him outside and read him his rights, notifying Kipl that his voice was recognized, in the presence of other officers, Kipl reportedly admitted making calls to the Citizen and the loan office. He contended, however, that the call about the poisoning was a prank call.

Coincidentally, Kipl came to Columbus from Oklahoma (where Belcher was born) and he lives in the same apartment complex and on the same floor as did the newspaper publisher. Columbus officers said that Kipl is under an 18 month term of probation on a previous $2,000 extortion charge in Oklahoma.

He was placed in the county jail under the charge of extortion, under $50,000 bond, pending further investigation of the cases.

Because of the developments Tuesday, J.P. Schmidt decided to approve an autopsy to be made in Houston to ascertain the cause of Belcher's death. However, Chief Wine said late Tuesday that no evidence had been obtained at that time to indicate that Belcher did not die of natural causes as originally ruled by J.P. Schmidt.

Suit Dismissed
An indictment of criminal mischief returned by the grand jury against Gary Jones was dismissed by Judge Schraub when owners of the Back Door in Eagle Lake notified that proper settlement had been made by Jones for damages done to the business and a release signed by the owner Nell Ash, shortly after the incident occurred in Eagle Lake last December.

BUZZIN' ABOUT TOWN

• The news of the sudden death of a neighboring member of The Fourth Estate, Columbus' Colorado County Citizen editor and publisher Jim Belcher at the young age of just over 44 years, was received with great sadness over this area and especially by his friends and co-workers in the news professions.

Jim had a remarkable talent for "digging out news" and presenting it in a factual manner without regard to race, color or creed. His frankness in his statements in the paper, both in news reporting and editorial comment, won for him the respect and admiration of his many readers.

As the case may be in good news reporting you have to step on a few toes once in a while in order to express opinions that are not always the popular ones. Jim did not shirk from this obligation as editor and publisher. He spoke openly but always with the best interest of the majority of his readers and his community at heart.

He was a respected journalist and friend and it's hard to imagine we won't be seeing his smiling face around any more. To him we say, "A job well done. May you rest in peace." - 30 -

• Eagle Lake's Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the VFW Auxiliary invite citizens of the area to join in "Loyalty Day" observances this Saturday, May 2nd. It is hoped that United States Flags will be flown throughout the business and residential areas during this day set aside annually to show pride in and loyalty to our Country.

• Friends here will regret to learn of the illness of Mrs. Ernest (Virginia) Uzzell. She is under care of a Houston doctor and returns there frequently for treatment. Those wishing to send Virginia a note of cheer may do so by writing to her home address: 436 Mountain View, Hurst, Texas 76053.

All join in wishing her a speedy recovery to good health.
