County Agent's NOTEBOOK

(By Leroy J. Hajdik, County Extension Agent
Colorado County)

Sodseeding Winter Pastures
Extend your warm-season pasture's grazing period by sodseeding a cool-season grass or legume into it.
A common example is wheat, oats, ryegrass or legumes sodseeded into bermudagrass to provide winter and spring grazing. Before deciding to sodseed, carefully consider the disadvantages and advantages.
Because of the warm-season base grass, sodseeded pastures furnish less fall and early winter grazing than those planted in prepared seedbeds. Also, some warm-season grazing is lost with sodseeding, and sodseeded pastures may retard the growth of warm-season grasses during a dry spring.
In addition, sodseeded pastures require more nitrogen than those planted on a prepared seedbed and are highly dependent on rainfall near or after planting.
On the "plus" side, sodseeding uses land during a normally unproductive period by extending the pasture's grazing period. Also, sodseeded

NOTE OF THANKS
I would like to thank the Heritage House, Mrs. Millie, the official staff, all the nurses and nurses aides for their kindness and loving care they gave our father, Monroe Johnson, who resided at the Heritage House for seven years. It was you all that made his stay a pleasant one.
Also thanks to the Eagle Lake Community Hospital; Dr. R. R. Thomas and other doctors; the nurses and nurse's aides for the loving care you gave our father while a patient at the hospital. Special thanks to Julia Thomas for all the bright days she gave our father.
Thanks to the Rev and Mrs. Shorter for their kindness; to all our friends who gave food, flowers, cards and donations and for many kind words in our time of sorrow and to the Penn Funeral Home and staff for services rendered to our father.
My God bless each and every one of you.
Mrs. Marie Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Johnson, Mrs. Mannie McTeer, Monroe Johnson, Jr., and Mrs. Henrietta Davis. (10 8 11p)

NOTE OF THANKS
I wish to extend my thanks for the kindness shown to me while I was a patient in the hospital. Special thanks to Dr. Curtis Laughlin, the staff of the Laughlin Clinic, the Eagle Lake Community Hospital, the Pink Ladies, aids and all of my family, relatives and friends who stood by in my time of need.
Also my thanks to all for their prayers for my recovery to good health; and for the flowers, cards, and visits, books, candy and phone calls.
God bless you always.
Judy Cooper. (10 8 11p)

NOTE OF THANKS
I wish to express appreciation to all the volunteers of the Fire Dept. and Ambulance Corp. who went to the aid of our loved one, Melvin Backhaus. Also to the Mill-Bauer Funeral Home who gave special care until the family could make proper decisions for their loved one.
Special thanks to Everett Anderson and co-workers for their help and concern. Special thanks to all the B. D. Anderson family by whom the deceased was employed all his working years for their help, care and concern.
Thanks to Pastor Gerald E. Goldapp, Kneese Funeral Home, pallbearers, organist, Ladies of the church for help and many cards and flowers received, and to friends and relatives who came by to express their sorrow. Your thoughtfulness will never be forgotten.
May God bless you all.

Homemakers Reflections
(By Donella R. Patel, County Extension Agent)
his job is well-done - well-deserved praise and recognition, along with encouragement, are marvelous to bolster a child's ego. As you progress through his learning experiences, teach your child to critically examine certain tasks, considering the following questions: What is the task? Why should I do it? Is it necessary? Where should I do it? Could energy be time be saved if it were done somewhere else? When should it be done? Everyone has their own unique energy

Teach Children To Work Smarter, Not Harder
Children can learn to work smarter, not harder - to save time and energy, just as adults can. They primarily learn from watching their parents and family members. Children who learn these work principles when they're young can use them later in other aspects of life. Along with learning the task-lessons, children also can build self-confidence and form an understanding of their important place in the family by seeing that they really do have a valuable contribution to make toward the family's welfare and happiness. Of course, in establishing good work habits, an effective plan includes a family program of regular job responsibilities for each member of the family.
On the list of work principles that children can learn are the following: Sharing the work. Organizing time. Leaving out any needless part of a job. Keeping everything within easy reach. Sitting down to work. Using the best tools. Planning the day's work.
Teaching Children
In teaching children work tasks, pay attention to how the child is trained to "make the bed, clear the table or wash the dishes," for example. Encourage good work methods and discuss them with the child, letting him or her express ideas on improvement or alternative ways of accomplishing the task. Work along with the child at first, then let the child work alone. Letting the child work without direct supervision after you've worked with him for a sufficient time span will allow him to build self-confidence.
