What's Unique About 4-H?

(By Cheryl A. Johnson, County Extension Agent.)
What's so special about 4-H? 4-H is a voluntary, educational program designed to meet the needs and interests of boys and girls.

The 4-Hs represent the development of:
HEAD: To help you learn new and better ways of doing things.
HEART: To help you develop ideals and standards for living in society.
HANDS: To give you the opportunity to develop useful skills and to apply them.
HEALTH: To help you develop habits of good health. It is a unique youth organization for several reasons. First, 4-H uses real life experiences to learn how to do jobs and make decisions that are important in life.

4-H is a family affair; there is a place for all members of the family to participate.
4-H is a flexible program that can be adapted to fit any individual, home or community.
4-H is working with others. Learning to stand up for what you believe in and learning to work with others are important to each person.
4-H provides for ownership by allowing members to grow, make, care for, buy and sell their projects. 4-H is based on science and fact. Resources of the Texas A&M University System, business, industry and your community are used in developing and carrying out projects and activities.
4-H is a part of the community. 4-Hers learn how to be good citizens by carrying out community responsibilities.
4-H is "learning by doing". It is a program in which individuals, families and groups actively work in developing and accomplishing a goal.
Other "unique" characteristics of 4-H are that it is a part of a total national educational effort, built on a solid foundation of formal education; is voluntary for both the members and advisors; cultivates fields of interest to many points, and players who participated in the tournament in previous years are being notified
