Natural Gas Home Heating

Snug and warm.

Next time winter winds blow, notice the most comfortable homes in your neighborhood. You can be sure those families use a natural gas heating system.

And for all the right reasons. A gas heating system is an outstanding money saver compared to an electric system. That's because gas heating uses primary energy two and a half times as efficiently. And it's more dependable, too. Which is why natural gas heating gives the best homes a warm feeling all over.

Some Answers for AT&T stockholders

In Southwest Bell's territory, there are 224,000 AT&T stockholders and more than 100,000 of them are right here in Texas. Many of you have questions about what will happen to your AT&T stock after divestiture.

Currently, AT&T stock represents an investment in the local Bell System—Long Lines, Western Electric, Bell Labs and the operating companies, like Southwestern Bell. At divestiture, the assets of the Bell System will be divided.

For example, a share owner who currently owns 50 shares of AT&T stock will still own 50 shares of AT&T stock after divestiture. In addition, the stockholder will own a proportionate interest in the divested operating companies.

No final decision has been made on a procedure for dividing the stock. AT&T will continue to work on a plan to make it easy and inexpensive for share owners to manage their holdings.

Specific investment procedures and other details have not been finalized. An plan regarding AT&T stock requires review by the Bell operating companies, the Department of Justice and the federal court before it can be enacted.

Whatever plan is accepted, AT&T is committed to ensuring the plan is fair and equitable. In addition, AT&T plans to minimize, as much as possible, transaction costs on each share holding.

Check Identification Whenever in Doubt

It's a good idea to make sure you're satisfied before leaving. Any one in your home. That's why every Southwest Bell employee carries an identification card.

The ID card shows his or her name, a photograph and an expiration date. The next time a Bell employee comes, you can request identification, if desired. He'll understand that you don't let just anyone enter your home.

Planning Before Emergencies Occur

The best way to prepare for emergencies is through advance planning. Make sure that every family member—especially small children—understand what they should do when the unexpected happens.

Remember to keep important telephone numbers near the phone. Police, fire and ambulance numbers should be near your list. You might also note doctors, hospitals, neighbors and nearby relatives.

In families with small children, note the pediatrician, poison control center, school or day care numbers as well as how to reach you at work.

Also take time to review how to report an emergency with youngsters. They should give the nature of the emergency, name and address and a contact number. If the emergency requires leaving the house, always give a neighbor's phone number instead of your own.

A Directory Keeps Numbers Safe, Handy

Record emergency numbers as well as important addresses and dates in a Personal Directory. If you'd like a free copy, send your name and address to: Southwestern Bell, Personal Directory, P.O. Box 225265, Dallas, Texas 75265.

This time of year reminds me of all the good things in life to be thankful for. Remember, if you have a question or comment you'd like to pass along, don't hesitate to drop me a line. Here's my address:

Opinion

The elections-the way we vote

A Local Column By John F. Fearing

There is a question I've had for some time about this type of page in a newspaper. It is whether or not it should be there at election time, should there be some suggestion as to who the better candidates might be to vote for?

I was just about convinced there was, until last week.

As I state in the top corner of this page, what I project here is that some of the readers should be stirred to think for themselves.

The theory among journalistic circles is that because news people circulate constantly in the community, gathering what news they do, we supposedly have the opportunity to form opinions more broadly, with a wide base of information that might not be available to most people.

When it comes to elections, that is supposed to be the case too. It probably is many times, because of the time a reporter might spend with a candidate.

So as I was contemplating writing about what candidates you might consider, I returned to my original thoughts. That is, what right do I have to think I might know enough to tell someone else how to think or vote. Journalists do get a big head sometimes, and think they do know it all.

As it came nearer to week before last and our final pre-election issue, I decided there was only one candidate I was sure I would have voted for a month or so ago, but since became undecided about.

Besides, none of the candidates I like were elected. I'll stick to my comments two weeks ago. No matter who gets elected, they can't do a good job without your votes and let them know how you feel.

And by the way, I feel I have learned one thing from covering politics. In general, one or two letters, to local office holders at least, seem to constitute remarks from crackpots. However, a bunch of letters constitute a call for action.

Get your pens ready, folks, there are a bunch of people to write to!

FASCINATING FACTS by Robert & Maxine Griffith

Hot water seepages along its floor cause the Red Sea to be the warmest sea on earth. The seeping hot water allows the Red Sea to maintain an unusually high temperature of 90° F. Light will travel 186,300 miles in 1 second in a vacuum.

Benjamin Franklin is reputed to have imported the first bathtub into America. He improved upon its design, and contemporary reports indicate he carried on much of his reading and correspondence while soaking in his tub.

Andrew Carnegie, John Philip Sousa, Thomas Edison, and Mark Twain all had one thing in common: none of them ever completed grade school. U.S. presidents Harry S. Truman, George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, and Grover Cleveland never attended college.
